IT'S HO HO HO TIME AT CITY HALL

San Rafael city employee Ruth Shea perches precariously on a ladder as she places a final decoration on the city Christmas tree. The gaily festooned tree was erected yesterday and will grace the city hall lobby throughout the holidays.

Freeway To Open With Much Ado

Amid a band concert, horseman's color guard, antique autos and a ribbon cutting, the Novato freeway bypass will be officially dedicated at 11 a.m. tomorrow on the southbound lanes of the freeway at the DeLong overpass.

The northbound lanes opened Oct. 15 and the southbound lanes are now complete except for a bit of remaining paving. They will open Tuesday morning unless rain in the meantime delays that paving.

The ceremonies, planned by the Novato Chamber of Commerce to officially open the $15.3 million, 5.2-mile bypass, include a performance by the San Marin High School band and the presence of a color-guard from the Novato Horsemen's Association. Meg Shields, Novato's Junior Miss, will cut a ribbon across the highway.

Mayor David Price Jones will welcome dignitaries from the federal state, county and construction firms.

Thomas R. Lammers, director of District 4 of the department of highways, will represent the state, with the assistance of Robert MacPherson, Robert W. Hallignan and William K. Hashimoto of the department. Robert White, the assistant federal highway administrator for the area, will represent the federal government.

Ray Foraker will represent Marin County as supervisor Arnold Baptiste will not be present.

Alfred W. Bowman, Peter J. Ferrarese, Daniel J. Aughney and others who were instrumental in getting the freeway bypass will also attend.

Representatives of Freeman-Sondgroth Construction Co. and Lew Jones Construction Co. which built the bypass, will speak.

The two companies are hosting a luncheon at Shipwreck Pete's restaurant at the north end of the bypass, following the ceremonies.

When traffic starts using the southbound lanes, it will eliminate the last traffic lights on Highway 101 between the Golden Gate Bridge and Cloverdale.

It will also end a fight that started in 1957 when the state proposed putting a freeway through the center of Novato, cutting the city in two.

Watergate Trial Looks At Timing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The exact time when Richard Kleindienst played golf and his wife quit cleaning her kitchen cabinets to have lunch on Saturday, June 17, 1972, eoerged as a vital issue today at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Such seemingly trivial events were at the heart of the defense of Robert C. Mardian as he seeks to convince the jury he had no part in trying to hush up the scandal.

Five agents of then President Richard M. Nixon's re-election campaign had been arrested at Democratic headquarters at 2 a.m. and the prosecution charges that Kleindienst, then attorney general, received an urgent message later that day while he was playing golf at Burning Tree Country Club. The message asked him to release the burglars from jail.

The request allegedly originated with defendant John N. Mitchell, then Nixon's campaign manager and now a cover-up defendant, and was relayed by Mardian on the telephone to Watergate mastermind G. Gordon Liddy, who in turn rushed to the country club to give it to Kleindienst.

Mardian, a former assistant attorney general and Nixon campaign operative, was with the campaign high command in California at the time. He contends that because of the time difference, he could not possibly have called Washington in advance of Liddy's trip to Burning Tree about noon Washington time.

Mardian contends instead that Liddy, one of the masterminds of the bugging, undertook the mission on his own.

Kleindienst's wife, Margaret, was called to the stand to testify about receiving what she called "a curious call" from Liddy shortly after noon that day.

"He said he was calling on behalf of the Committee to Reelect the President, for Mr. Mitchell," Mrs. Kleindienst said. "He said it was a very sensitive and urgent matter and needed to contact my husband immediately."

She said she remembered the call came between noon and 12:30 p.m. EDT because she had been cleaning her kitchen cabinets and took a break to have lunch.

The prosecution contends that Liddy called her about 1 p.m. or 1:15 p.m. and that he got to Burning Tree about 1:30 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. — late enough to have received a 10 a.m. PDT call from California. It has been established earlier in the trial that Mardian and other campaign officials learned of the burglary about 10 a.m. PDT.

Mrs. Kleindienst said she remembered telling Liddy that her husband was playing golf and she then called the pro shop at the club to have him paged.

But she conceded on cross-examination that no one at the pro shop remembers talking with her that day and no such message ever was relayed to her husband.

Ford Is Told Home Sales In Bad Shape

Industry Leaders Urge Action To Spur Buying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Home building leaders told President Ford today that economic conditions have worsened in their industry in recent months and urged him to take action to give consumers "some quick purchasing power."

Lew Cenker, president of the National Association of Home Builders, and two other officials of the group discussed the situation with Ford, Housing Secretary James Lynn, White House economic policy coordinator L. William Seidman and Kenneth Cole, who resigned today as Ford's chief domestic affairs adviser.

"I wish I could say conditions were better," Cenker told Ford as reporters and photographers watched the start of the meeting. "They are not. Since September, they have worsened."

Cenker said "consumer apathy," as well as concern about rising prices for so many other products, "have squeezed the housing construction industry into a corner."

"There's no purchasing power out there of the type we need," he said and recalled that Ford previously increased government assistance in the financing of home mortgages. "You've given us mortgage power and now we believe we need some quick purchasing power."

Cenker urged the President to lift a freeze, imposed last year on federal aid for low-and middle-income families seeking to buy homes, saying it would create "a job maker and a customer maker at the same time."

Advisers to Ford have acknowledged that bad conditions in auto production and housing

Price Of Crude Oil Boosted 3 Per Cent

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The world's major oil exporting nations today raised the price of crude oil 3 per cent, perhaps signaling slightly higher gasoline and heating fuel prices for consumers.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, meeting in Vienna, raised the present average price of crude oil from $10.15 to $10.46 a barrel under a new supply and demand pricing system.

In New York, an independent oil consultant said the OPEC action follows the pattern established by Saudi Arabia, Qatar and Abu Dhabi last month when the three Arab nations unilaterally set their market price of oil at $10.46.

OPEC produces 85 per cent of the world's exported oil. The United States relies heavily on OPEC for its crude supplies but is not as dependent on OPEC as European nations and Japan.

An increase in oil prices could bring further fuel inflation, contribute to trade imbalance problems and increase pressure for mandatory fuel conservation in the United States.

In other developments, industry executives from President Ford's home state of Michigan told the President yesterday the economy is in worse shape than he says, calling it a disaster verging on a depression.

Elsewhere, workers from a variety of industries, including textiles, autos, paper, aluminum, clothing, appliance and sporting goods, were laid off or given notices yesterday.

And Budget Director Roy Ash told a Senate hearing the next six months will be so bad in terms of unemployment and sagging business the nation will want to see them to pass into history "as soon as possible."

However, he said, the economy will recover in the second half of 1975.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., accused the Ford administration of pursuing a policy of putting "another million or two out of work" to correct inflation through a severe and long recession. Ash denied it.

At the White House, Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, a union with some 200,000 laid-off workers, said he challenged Ford's statement that the economy was in "difficult straits" but not in a crisis.

"I think it's a crisis situation. It's highly critical ... feeding on itself and may go to worse conditions," Woodcock said.

More Papers Found From Ellsberg Home

Detectives found documents and some of Ellsberg's personal notebooks in a plastic zipper case buried under leaves at Old Mill Park said Police Chief William A. Walsh.

Walsh described them as "some more of the same type of documents" as those recovered last week in the police investigation of the Oct. 1 burglary of Ellsberg's home at 630 West Blithedlae Avenue. "The test and format are similar to ones previously recovered," Walsh said.

The earlier batch of papers included copies of classified government documents and Ellsberg's personal notes, which he is using to write a book.

Investigators were led to the park shortly after 8 a.m. by a tip stemming from their continuing investigation of the Ellsberg burglary, which is centering on the possibility that more than one person was involved in the break-in at Ellsberg's home.

"From the amount of things taken from the house, we constantly have thought there was a second person involved," the police chief said.

Arrested last week and charged with the Ellsberg burglary was a 21-year-old Mill Valley man, Kevin Patrick Quinn, who also is accused of a second, unrelated Mill Valley burglary and the bombing of Chief Walsh's unmarked patrol car Oct. 16, among other crimes.

Officials from the Department of Defense and attorneys for Ellsberg clashed when the previous documents were recovered. The government wanted to see the papers but Ellsberg said no. That issue has not been resolved.

Walsh said this morning he had not yet contacted either Ellsberg or the Defense Department about the latest find. According to Walsh, the new papers "will be retained as evidence" in the case.

Solar Eclipse Hardly Visible

If you got up early and weren't socked in by fog, you may have glimpsed a partial solar eclipse today.

The Friday the 13th phenomenon, though, was not visible to many Marin residents because of weather, and elsewhere in the nation, snow and rain blanketed much of the country.

The degree of the eclipse ranged from 60 per cent over the northeastern states to 19 per cent in Los Angeles, the lowest in the nation.

Top Refiner Cuts Sugar Prices Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amstar, Inc., the country's largest sugar refiner, cut the wholesale price of refined sugar again today, by 4 cents a pound to 57 cents.

It was Amstar's third price cut since Nov. 25.

Women Held Harder To End Smoking

GENEVA (UPI) — Women have greater trouble than men to stop smoking, an American expert said today.

Dr. Daniel Horn, Director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, said the majority of women use cigarettes as a form of negative tranquillizer.

Men use cigarettes for pleasure, Horn told a news conference on a meeting of the Smoking and Health Committee of the World Health Organization.

"There is no overall solution," Horn said. "It is question of finding other ways of getting satisfaction and there are many other things which give greater pleasure."

Horn, who said he smoked for 16 years but stopped 20 years ago, said 30 million persons in the United States successfully stopped smoking but 40 million tried and failed. A further 10 to 15 million refuse to try.

About 35 per cent of 18-year-old boys and girls and 45 per cent at the age of 21 are smoking, Horn said.

The figures used to be 55 per cent of boys at 18 and 15 per cent of girls.

"So the number of boys smoking is down and the number of girls is up," Horn said. "A major reason was the trend towards unisex and now the two are alike it is the hope they will both stop."

Horn, an adviser to the World Health Organization, said the latest U.S. figures show that cigarette smoking is responsible for 80 to 90 per cent of lung cancer deaths and 20 per cent of all heart diseases.

Bridge District Moves To Reduce Elderly Fares

Persons who are 65 or older or handicapped should get sharply reduced fares on Golden Gate Bridge District buses, its directors recommended yesterday.

The directors conceded their action was not because of pleas from citizen groups urging such fare cuts, but resulted from a new federal law cutting off funds to districts which fail to offer special rates to the handicapped and the elderly.

The U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Administration already has advised the district it cannot get a grant covering 80 per cent of the cost for 30 additional buses costing $65,000 each, unless it makes the cuts.

More critical are pending federal subsidies for transit operating deficits, which also are barred to agencies failing to cut fares at least 50 per cent for the elderly and handicapped in offpeak traffic hours.

The unanimous endorsement by the transportation committee will go to the full board for ratification at 10 a.m. next Friday in toll plaza offices. The new federal law is effective Jan. 1.

The proposed fare cuts, also effective Jan. 1, would be provided every day from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. Approvals of the reductions also will be needed from the Marin County Transit Dis-

Chauvinism In A Bind

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Even textbook publishers slip.

Darrel E. Peterson, chairman of Scott, Foresman and Co., of Glenview, Ill., was being accused before the California Board of Education yesterday of failing to observe state standards in the way textbooks portray the role of women and minority persons.

But Peterson, in his defense, got no further than to say, "We have women manning all positions."

Israeli Guns Shell Town In Lebanon

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli artillery rained shells today on the southern Lebanese town of Nabatieh, wounding 10 persons and destroying 15 houses in a two-hour barrage, residents of the area said.

Lebanese antiaircraft units opened up on Israeli warplanes nearby, but the jets did not attack and appeared to be on a reconnaissance mission to inspect damage of the barrage, newsmen in the area said.

The Israeli predawn ground fire tore into three Nabatieh residential quarters and their markets, witnesses said.

Rescue crews dug in the wreckage seeking possible further victims while sonic booms of the Israeli jets echoed across the town.

Nabatieh has a large Palestinian population. A nearby refugee camp was destroyed in an air raid last May.

WIG WEARER — Sgt. Jerome Verdi is shown grooming his wig before facing a court-martial board which yesterday sentenced him to a bad conduct discharge, reduced his rank to airman basic and fined him $300 for refusing to stop wearing the wig and get his hair cut.

Sergeant Discharged, Fined In First Air Force 'Wig Trial'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The Air Force's first "wig trial" has ended with the sentencing of a decorated sergeant to a bad conduct discharge, reduction in rank to airman basic and a fine of $300.

Sgt. Jerome Verdi, 29, of Philadelphia, received the punishment from a court-martial at Lackland AFB yesterday on his conviction for disobeying an order to remove his short-hair wig and get a haircut. Verdi never denied he wore the wig and refused to get a haircut as ordered.

"I've tried to be honest," Verdi told the court-martial.

"A lot of my men asked what you can do about this. I counseled my men about their hair. I'd rather see them with hair over their ears than slicked down or greased down to conform to military regulations.

"I've tried all the legal actions, but to no avail. If bald men can wear wigs and women, who can wear their hair down to their butts, are allowed to wear wigs, why can't everybody?"

Verdi said he wore the wig for two years before superiors discovered it and ordered him to remove it and cut his long hair underneath. His civilian attorney, Gerald Goldstein, said he would appeal the conviction and sentence to a higher military court.

Maj. Gen. John P. Flynn, the highest ranked American prisoner of war in North Vietnam and the officer who ordered Verdi to remove the wig in the first place, automatically will review the bad conduct discharge.

Flynn, commander of the Air Force Training Center at Lackland, indicated before the court-martial began he believed courts-martial dealt too leniently with grooming offenses.

Flynn, a Cleveland native, will be decorated in a ceremony at Lackland today with the Air Force Cross, Distinguished Service Medal and Bronze Star for valor during more than five years of captivity in Hanoi where his plane was shot down.

Verdi holds two Purple Hearts, a Bronze Star and several other military citations for bravery during the Vietnam war.

"I'm disappointed in the BCD (bad conduct discharge)," Verdi said yesterday. "If I'd known I was going to get that, I would have taken a discharge instead of going to trial."

Surprise testimony from a doctor at the five-day trial showed Verdi had a scar on his temple which would not be covered unless he wore a wig. His attorneys argued Verdi was justified by military regulations allowing servicemen to wear wigs to cover physical disfigurements.

Maj. David Lockman, acting chief of dermatology at the Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital where Verdi serves as a medical technician, testified Verdi had a one-inch long, half-inch wide scar on his left temple — one of more than 40 shrapnel wounds he received in Vietnam.

The doctor said Verdi's hair, "regardless of the style, would not cover the wound."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Betty Hutton Hospitalized

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Betty Hutton, the "blonde bombshell" of stage and screen who surfaced as a cook in a church rectory last spring after squandering her personal wealth, has been hospitalized for a "complete emotional breakdown."

Hutton

Rev. James Hamilton of St. Anthony's Church in Portsmouth, said Miss Hutton, 53, was committed at Butler Hospital, a psychiatric facility, by her psychiatrist.

"She's been in since the beginning of the week. I guess they characterize it as complete emotional breakdown," the priest said.

A hospital spokeswoman said "we don't have anyone by that name here and we don't divulge any information on our patients to the press anyway."

Miss Hutton, leading lady of 1940s and 1950s movies and broadway musicals, took over cooking at St. Anthony's rectory in February and converted to Catholicism.

Father Peter McGuire, the pastor, had met her at a time when "she was hurt deeply, had gone through over $9 million, fame and fortune and everything else," as he described it at the time.

Miss Hutton starred in such films as "Annie Get Your Gun," "The Greatest Show on Earth" and "Happy Go Lucky."

5 Found Slain

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Five young persons were found shot to death early today. Four of the bodies were covered by a red flag and left in a garbage dump traditionally used by Argentina's political assassins.

In another development in Argentina's violent Peronist political struggle, police identified the bodies of two persons killed yesterday as school teachers detained briefly for painting guerrilla slogans on house walls two months ago.

The bodies of two young men and two women were found covered by a red flat in a lonely section of the city used as a garbage dump, police said.

The garbage dump has been used to dispose of the bodies of several of the at least 207 persons who have been killed this year in Argentine political violence.

The bullet-riddled body of the fifth victim found today was near a railroad track in central Buenos Aires.

6,000 Miners Idle

PITTSBURGH (UI) — Picketing by United Mine Workers construction workers, on strike in a wage contract dispute, spread today in Western Pennsylvania and forced most of the area's major coal mines to shut down, idling about 6,000 UMW miners.

Mines in Greene and Fayette counties south of Pittsburgh, which had reopened earlier in the week following settlement of the 24-day strike by the union's 120,000 coal miners, were shut down when roving construction pickets showed up yesterday on the midnight shift.

The Greene-Fayette county mines employ about 2,500 miners.

About 3,500 other miners were idled for the fifth straight day at major mines in Armstrong, Cambria, Indiana and Westmoreland counties north and east of Pittsburgh.

35 Jailed

RANGOON (UPI) — Burmese military tribunals today jailed 35 persons accused of rioting and destroying public property in bloody protests against the burial of former U.N. Secretary General U Thant.

Soldiers with rifles and automatic weapons guarded key government buildings and major roads throughout Rangoon, but some degree of calm returned to the riot-torn capital.

Nine persons were killed and 74 civilians wounded in two days of disturbances that swept the city after government troops stormed Rangoon University to retrieve U Thant's body, the government said.

A few shops opened in downtown Rangoon today and a number of private buses and taxis cruised through the city. But the state-run bus service was halted and few people appeared on the streets.

Wage Hikes Hit

LONDON (UPI) — With the value of the pound sterling sagging, the Bank of England said today the country's 17 per cent annual inflation rate will soar next year unless Britons stop trying to chase prices with wage hikes.

In its quarterly bulletin the bank said, "Restraint of the rate of price increases will clearly depend on restraint of the rate of increase of money incomes."

In the third quarter, the bank said, wages added to the inflationary momentum by rising 9.5 per cent during the quarter, the bank said.

Reds Down Plane

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops shot down a government fighter plane today and hit a provincial capital 38 miles north of Saigon in bitter fighting to control the country's winter rice crop.

Military sources in the Mekong Delta said Viet Cong gunners shot down a turbo-prop A37 fighter bomber near Mo Cay, a district town 46 miles southwest of Saigon. The pilot parachuted to safety.

Military spokesman said the Viet Cong blew up a shop in Xuan Loc, capital of Long Khanh province, north of the capital. Six civilians were killed in the blast.

German Plans

BONN (UPI) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt has announced plans to ease his government's anti-inflation policy and spend more than $4 billion to stimulate the economy.

Finance Minister Hans Apel said the measures were taken after the chancellor met with President Ford in Washington last week.

"The overall lines of the decisions have been influenced by these international conferences," Apel said, referring to the Washington summit and a European Economic Community meeting earlier this week in Paris.

Presidential Hopefuls To Announce

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The next hats in the Democratic ring will come out of the West —from former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Harris will make his formal announcement of candidacy on Jan. 11 in New Hampshire. Jackson will declare his intentions to run for president in the first two weeks in January, probably in his home state.

There now are two declared Democratic candidates for the 1976 nomination. Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., was first, announcing several weeks ago. Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia joined him yesterday.

Harris all but made it formal yesterday, saying in New Hampshire that he would be back Jan. 11 to announce his plans for the nation's first presidential primary.

Jackson's intentions also are well known, but he has delayed his official entry until Congress adjourns. Like Harris, he was a contender for the nomination in 1972.

Carter, retiring next month at the end of the one term at a stretch allowed Georgia governors, has taken an active role in national Democratic affairs in the last two years by heading the party's national campaign committee.

He traveled widely, helping candidates for both state and congressional office and cementing his own contacts.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Small change advanced but dollar bills declined."

In a speech here before his Atlanta apnouncement, Carter gave a detailed accounting of his views on national problems, emphasizing open government and efficiency in management of public affairs.

He said he was not interested in the vice presidency and said he believed Gov. George Wallace, another expected 1976 candidate, had peaked in popularity and would not be able to win.

Harris, who retired from the Senate in 1972, is the most liberal of the announced or expected candidates and was encouraged to seek the nomination again by the withdrawal of Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, Mass., and Walter F. Mondale, Minn.

Besides Jackson, who is expected to be a favorite of centrist Democrats, the field also was expected to include Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and Wallace, with some possibility that other may be in later.

Come see what the deer and the birds and the squirrels have been watching for months.

Pacheco Valle is just off Highway 101, a little beyond the Lucas Valley turnoff, and once you're there you could be a thousand miles from nowhere. It is a forest dotted with tempting meadows, one of the finest examples of what the naturalists call California oak-woodlands. It is the most important new Marin County residential area to be made available in a decade.

In this unmatched setting, we are creating a community of nature. We are building small pockets of fine architect-designed cluster homes on the alluvial plains, blending the developed areas with the meadows and woods. The creeks and hills will remain in their natural state. Permanently. To be sure of this, we are deeding 378 acres of our total 519 acres to the City of Novato as perpetual open space.

This week-end we are opening our sales and information office for the first time, so that Marin County people who have heard about what we are doing here can have first choice before we make a broader public announcement early next year.

Come and share our pride. Yes, it can be done with taste, style and concern for the future.

PACHECO VALLE

Two, Three & Four bedroom Cluster Homes from $46,000 to $85,000. Take the Alameda del Prado (Nave Avenue) turnoff just north of Lucas Valley Road to the West side of Hwy 101; then follow the new road into the forest. Open week-ends from 10 to 5. (415) 883-4601 or 479-2242.

FINDING HER WATCH IS NO SHOO-IN

MERCER ISLAND, Wash. (UPI) — It's two down and nine to go for Mrs. H. J. Bostrom who has this "funny little habit of putting things in shoes."

About six weeks ago she dumped a box of unwanted clothing into a Salvation Army collection box near her home.

In it was a pair of suede, ankle-high moccasins and in the moccasins was a $500 diamond-studded wristwatch given to her about 20 years ago by her husband as a birthday gift.

A Salvation Army spokesman said there are about 35,000 pairs of donated shoes on stock in 11 Salvation Army stores in the Seattle area.

So far, Mrs. Bostrom has checked out two.

College Grad Job Scene Isn't Bleak

CHICAGO (UPI) — A survey of the nation's largest firms has found a tighter job market, but no significant cutback in job opportunities for college students graduating next June.

"It is cearly not a negative, one-sided report on the opportunities for college graduates," Frank S. Endicott, retired director of placement at Northwestern University, said yesterday.

Engineers are in greatest demand and will command the highest salaries, he said. All salaries for June graduates will increase between 4 per cent and 7 per cent, he said.

Endicott, who surveyed 160 companies about their hiring plans for college seniors, said he expected a much bleaker outlook for students because of the recent economic downtrend.

"There has not yet been a sharp cutback in job opportunities," he said.

About one-third of the firms polled expected to reduce their quotas for hiring college seniors, but he said "almost an equal number of companies have increased the quotas they have for 1975. On balance, there is no sharp decline."

Furthermore, Endicott said, 82 per cent expected to make no significant cutbacks between now and June.

Since the survey was conducted in November, Endicott supplemented his findings with a poll among 111 firms Wednesday. The second poll came up with the same results, he said.

"It appears that the major (job) cuts for college graduates have already been announced," he said.

Endicott, who has conducted similar polls over the last 29 years, said the job outlook for college seniors was worse during 1970 and 1971.

However, even during those years, he said, seniors determined to find jobs did.

"There is relatively little unemployment among recent college graduates. There is underemployment," he said.

He was accompanied by his bachelor son, Frank, 70, who retired five years ago.

Soviets Push For Mideast Talks

By JOHN K. COOLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Soviet leaders told the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) leadership in Moscow recently that replacement of Israel by a secular Palestinian state is "not realistic," says a prominent Lebanese editor.

However, the militant mood generated among the Palestine guerrillas by recent Israeli moves — including the Dec. 10 rocket attacks on PLO installations here — may make it even more difficult than before for PLO leader Yasser Arafat to convince Palestinian opponents of this, adds Edouard Saab, editor of the independent Beirut daily newspaper L'Orient-LeJour.

After talking with PLO staffers who accompanied Arafat to Moscow last month, Saab says the Russians insisted that the PLO take active part in a negotiated political solution.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other Soviet leaders told Arafat that unless the Geneva Mideast peace conference resumes "there will be war," Saab asserts. The Kremlin leadership believes the basic world situation now favors an outcome favorable to the Arabs if there are political talks, he added.

When Arafat said present U.N. Security Council resolutions would mean recognition of Israel behind its 1967 frontiers, Soviet leaders (according to Saab) replied:

"Certain objective conditions in the region make irreversible the disintegration of the Jewish state in its present Zionist structure." As an example they cited statistics showing that 80 per cent of Soviet Jews allowed to leave the U.S.S.R. are going not to Israel but elsewhere, and increasing numbers of Israelis are emigrating to the United States.

Saab says the Arafat delegation convinced the Soviets of the need to continue "clean" guerrilla operations inside Israel, involving attacks on military personnel without taking civilian hostages, as in the recent raid on the border settlement of Rosh Haniora on the Lebanese frontier.

Board Delays Action On Inverness Water

Plans to upgrade Inverness's water system this winter ran into so much protest last night before the North Central Coastal Regional Commission that the agency shelved the matter until Feb. 13.

The delay will give county officials time to determine if an environmental impact report will be needed for the work.

No one challenged the need for improvements to the privately owned water system, but some residents said work should not begin until after the winter rainy season. Heavy equipment needed to install the new equipment would do extensive damage to an adjacent creek if allowed in while the ground is wet, commissioners were told.

The Inverness Water Company plans to build a new equipment building and install four filtration tanks. The site is about 900 yards west of Tomales Bay beyond the end of Laurel Avenue.

The commission's staff recommended approval of the project, commenting the water system has been "the victim of accumulated years of neglect."

Urging delay until the dry weather arrives and the county's environmental review is completed were the Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club, Marin Conservation League, Inverness Association, Environmental Action Committee of West Marin, Inverness Area Planning Group.

Woman, 74, Cited For $1.19 Theft

Christmas looks pretty bleak this year for Ida Mae Archer of Petaluma.

The 74-year-old retired woman was nabbed outside the Purity Market on Petaluma's Western Avenue after store employee Waldron L. Johnson noticed her slipping a package of bacon and a box of salt into her purse. Retail value of the pilfered goods was $1.19.

The store's management signed a formal complaint against the elderly woman even though, according to police, some younger shoplifters caught there recently have been let off with a reprimand.

"I've got nothing to say," Purity manager Jack R. Hansen today told the Independent-Journal.

When police arrived to issue the woman a citation, she told them she had only $10 to live on the rest of the month.

She's scheduled to stand trial on the misdemeanor charge in Petaluma Municipal Court Jan. 6. According to the State Penal Code, shoplifting carries a maximum punishment of $500 fine and six months in jail.

It was her first arrest.

Burglar Given Three Months

A Marin City man who told police he had a $150-per-day heroin habit when he was arrested for burglary will be given time to kick the drug before entering the Delancey Street Foundation.

Leonard Joseph Raymond, 38, an auto mechanic, was sentenced to 90 days in Marin County Jail yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Wilson said the three months will give Raymond time to rid himself of his drug habit. After that, he will be enrolled in the Delancey Street program which takes between 18 months and two years.

Larkspur police arrested Raymond in July after he burglarized a home on South Eliseo Drive.

Fairfax Woman Gains In Hospital

A 54-year-old Fairfax woman found lying in a city street last night was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken arm, concussion and facial cuts.

Helen Moriarty was found lying in the street near the intersection of Creek Road and Meernaa Avenue. Police speculated that she injured herself when she fell after stumbling on a curb.

Fairfax Sign Ordered Down

An illegal roof sign at Granny's Parlor, 721 Center Boulevard, must be taken down, the Fairfax Design and Environmental Review Board said last night.

Owners Enrico and Gloria Figliolino had requested a permit allowing continued use of the sign, according to the town administration.

Two More Take Papers For Filing

Two more San Rafael residents have taken out papers for local municipal races.

Joan Fox of 127 Humboldt Street took out papers for mayor.

Peter K. Kehrlein, a San Rafael insurance agent who lives at 16 Sienna Way, took out papers for city councilman.

At stake in the March 4 election are the posts of Mayor C. Paul Bettini and councilmen Fred E. Jensen and John A. Miskimen. Jensen and Bettini have filed for reelection. Miskimen has taken out papers.

Other posts to be filled in the city election are those of city clerk, city attorney, city tax and license collector, as well as three seats on the San Rafael Board of Education.

Sears Recalling Faulty Desk Lamp

Sears Roebuck and Co. is recalling a two-tube fluorescent desk lamp with a black shade because of pinched wiring.

A Sears spokesman said 75 of the lamps, manufactured by Electrix Inc. of Stamford, Conn., were sold throughout the nation. The lamp had been on the market since July of this year and 39 of them were sold at Sears stores on the West Coast.

The lamp should be unplugged, kept out of use and returned to Sears for replacement or a refund. Sears has a store in the Northgate Mall in San Rafael.

San Rafael Man Hurt In Accident

Gunther Peschina, 21, of San Rafael was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries received in an accident about 1 a.m. today in San Rafael.

Grant Vern Coon, 21, of San Francisco was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony drunken driving following the crash. He was being held in lieu of $1,250 bail to appear today in Municipal Court.

San Rafael police had no details of the accident by press time.

OIL

had "a ripple effect" on allied industries and contributed heavily to the current recession.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced yesterday that interest rates on home mortgages soared to record high levels in November.

Housing construction has dropped off for a number of reasons, including high interest rates and fluctuations in labor and supply prices.

The meeting followed nearly two hours of give and take with auto industry executives and union leaders yesterday. They told Ford their problems and called for income tax cuts to prime their industry.

Ford made no specific commitments, but White House officials made it clear this is one of the options which may be in the economic package presented to Congress in January.

He intends to keep his economic advisers busy over the Christmas holidays preparing a series of proposals which he will recommend by mid-January.

Ford must also do some homework on the world's economic problems as he prepares for three days of talks in Martinique with French President Valery Giscard D'Estaing, starting tomorrow.

Ford and d'Estaing were expected to try to reach a compromise on their differing approaches.

The French leader has called for a conference of oil producing and oil consuming nations to discuss prices and supplies

Ford supports Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's proposal for an international compact between the consumer nations before talks get under way with the producers.

Ford is apparently satisfied that Nelson A. Rockefeller will soon be his vice president.

Officials say Ford will bring Rockefeller into the daily operation of the White House, giving him responsibility for the work of the Domestic Council.

The President also intends to sound out Rockefeller on candidates to fill Cabinet and other top-level positions early in the new year.

Historical, Arts Units Endorsed

Formation of two new San Rafael governing boards was endorsed by the city parks and recreation commission last night.

The commission approved an historical preservation ordinance that sets up a five-member cultural arts commission that would coordinate cultural activities in the city, make recommendations on improvements to facilities like the Robert Dollar mansion, and promote public appreciation of the arts, among other things.

The commission recommendations now pass to the city council for review.

In other business, the commission said that Aubrey L. Lyon, city recreation leader who died in a bicycle accident in Sonoma County last month, will be honored at a state park and recreation society banquet set in Vacaville on Jan. 11.

I-J Trial Recessed To Monday

OAKLAND (AP) — Jury selection in the San Rafael Independent-Journal's $12.4 million conspiracy suit against several labor organizations has been recessed until Monday.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge William J. Hayes told the 91 prospective jurors that a court session would not be held today as scheduled "because I must hear several legal motions which will take four or five hours and I don't want to keep you waiting that long."

Seven more members of the jury panel were questioned yesterday by the judge and lawyers for the labor organizations.

The newspaper, seeking $12.4 million in compensatory and punitive damages, charges the labor groups conspired to interfere with the newspaper's business operations by unlawful activities during a 1970 strike.

Principal defendants in the suit are the International Typographical Union and its Local 21 which waged the 20-month strike. Others named in the suit include Joint Council of Teamsters No. 7, Teamsters Local 921 and the San Francisco and Marin County labor councils.

Ford Names 4 To Wage Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford yesterday appointed four "adviser members" for the Council on Wage and Price Stability, set up last August and chaired by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Chosen to serve with the eight council members were William A. Morrill, an assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; Assistant Attorney General Thomas E. Kauper; Deputy Transportation Secretary John W. Barnum, and Assistant Housing Secretary Michael H. Moskow.

Guards Begin Riding Buses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The first Municipal Railway guards began riding city buses today in an effort to crack down on juvenile crime and vandalism.

The 16 guards were graduated yesterday from a four-week police training course which included criminal law, radio communications, human relations and techniques of court testimony. Another 33 monitors began training earlier this week.

ITT Will Bolster Insurance Group

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. reportedly will pump $127 million into its subsidiary, the Hartford Insurance Group, to bolster the insurance firm's surplus account.

The Hartford Courant reported today ITT has said the money will be transferred because the value of the surplus fund, mostly in securities, has dropped with the stock market.

Californians Again Buy Less Gas

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gasoline consumption in California dropped about 23 million gallons in October this year below October 1973 levels, the state Board of Equalization said today.

The decline marked the 11th consecutive month California motorists have used less gasoline than in the same month the previous year.

Drivers used 863 million gallons of gasoline in October this year, the board said, 2.6 per cent less than the 886 million purchased last year.

The board said the decreased gasoline sales cut revenue from gasoline taxes by $1.6 million in October.

Because of increased gasoline prices, however, the board said the higher sales tax revenues from gasoline purchases would probably make up for the drop in gasoline tax receipts.

The drop in gasoline consumption in California began in December, 1973.

trict and Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

The bridge district's staff estimated the cuts will cost $63,000 a year in lost revenue, but increase patronage by 50,000 for a 28 per cent increase in bus use by the elderly and handicapped.

Transbay fares in the five zones would go from 25 to 10 cents, from 75 to 20 cents, from $1 to 30 cents, from $1.25 to 40 cents, and from $1.50 to 50 cents.

Local bus fares for the elderly and handicapped would go from 25 to 10 cents in Marin and from 35 to 10 cents in Sonoma.

Apparently eyeing a $1 million lawsuit filed against the district for failing to accommodate persons in wheelchairs on the buses, the staff got committee endorsement of six steps it is studying to help such persons.

Under consideration are a number of proposals including: installing lifts on two district buses, contracting with Whistlestop Wheels to provide intercounty service, buying buses specially designed to serve handicapped riders, cutting bridge tolls for handicapped persons in car pools, reducing parking charges in San Francisco for handicapped persons in car pools, and seeking state and federal funds to subsidize transit for the elderly and handicapped.

The Golden Gate Bridge District's transportation committee also:

CHARTERS — Postponed for 60 days action on proposed fare increases for charter bus clubs subsidized by the district to serve areas that do not have district bus routes.

NEW BUSES — Recommended appropriating $70,000 to cover the net cost of operating five of the 15 new buses in reserve for the next six months. This will make 210 available in peak hours.

FREEWAY — Received a report from the state Department of Transportation that the reserved bus lanes on Highway 101 between Richardson Bay Bridge and Greenbrae will open sometime late next week. The committee repeated its previous request that the state reserve the lanes for buses at all times, not just during peak traffic hours on weekdays.

Burton Now Out Of Swiss Clinic

GENEVA (UPI) — Richard Burton recently spent several days in a Swiss clinic for treatment of an undisclosed condition, an associate of the film actor said yesterday.

The associate refused to say where or for what reason Burton was treated but said Burton is "very fine now and there is no reason to worry."

Inouye Backers Admit Violation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 1974 campaign committee for Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, pleaded guilty today to failing to report a contribution which it received.

U.S. District Court Judge George Hart Jr. said the violation by the committee known as "DKI for '74," was technical and suspended sentence. The maximum penalty for the misdemeanor is a $1,000 fine.

Assistant Watergate prosecutor Thomas McBride said the committee failed to report either the receipt or the return of $5,650 from the American Shipbuilding Co. in the summer of 1973.

American Shipbuilding is headed by George M. Steinbrenner III, co-owner of the New York Yankees, who pleaded guilty in August to one count of conspiracy. He admitted inducing employees to lie to federal investigators about an elaborate scheme in which money disguised as corporate bonuses was contributed illegally to the campaigns of President Richard M. Nixon and several congressmen.

Inouye was the second member of the Watergate committee to be involved directly or indirectly in criminal matters since the nationally televised hearings.

The other was Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., who is under indictment of charges of bribery, conspiracy and lying to a federal grand jury in connection with an influence peddling and extortion scheme to raise campaign funds. Because of the charges, Gurney declined seek re-election in November.

In the short proceeding before Hart, McBride said American Shipbuilding had sent the contributions in checks in July and August, 1973, for a fund raising dinner.

He said the decision to return the checks was made in August and September, presumably because of publicity surrounding speculation that Steinbrenner was involved in allegedly illegal campaign finance practices.

McBride said the committee did not report either the receipt of the contribution or its return.

Inouye was not present in court. Jeffrey Watanabe, who represented the campaign committee, said in a short statement to Hart, "None of the actions were willful or motiviated by any kind of personal gain."

Hart inquired whether the committee was staffed by volunteers, and Watanabe said yes. Hart said this kind of violation "happens completely inadvertently."

Library Begins Move Tomorrow

The Sausalito library will be closed beginning Monday for its move to new quarters at the city's civic center in the former Central School.

The library's 25,000 books will be transferred and staff will do a complete inventory before the library reopens, probably Jan. 6, according to librarian Patricia Shepard.

City offices are expected to move Dec. 26 and 27 to the new quarters at Litho and Bee streets, City Clerk Janet Tracy said yesterday.

NOVATO ASKS NO CHANGE AT HAMILTON

Novato Chamber of Commerce directors said yesterday they want Air Force Reserve Headquarters to remain at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The Department of Defense has recommended transfering the units from Hamilton by early 1976 as an economy move. The final decision will be made by Congress.

Chamber directors, adopting a resolution previously adopted by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau, said the move would have an adverse economic impact on Novato.

Directors said they will appeal to Congress and the Department of Defense to have the units remain at Hamilton.

Renoir Worth $50,000 Stolen

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Renoir painting valued at $50,000 was stolen yesterday from the Brooklyn Museum.

Museum Director Michael Botwincik said the painting, "Still Life With Blue and White Cup" by French impressionist Pierre August Renoir, was hanging from a thin metal wire secured to the ceiling in a fifth floor gallery and was regularly guarded.

Holiday Deaths

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council estimated today that between 200 and 260 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday period between 6 p.m., Dec. 24 and 11:59 p.m., Dec. 25.

Chemical, Biological Warfare Ban Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has recommended that the Senate ratify the 1925 Geneva Protocol banning chemical and biological warfare, committee sources said today.

The sources said Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark, was sending to the full Senate the recommendation on the Protocol and the Geneva Convention outlawing use of biological weapons following the panel's unanimous approval yesterday

The Senate will ratify the move before adjournment Dec. 21, the sources predicted.

The United States is the only major nation which has not ratified the chemical agreement —which grew out of the use of gas during World War I.

Efforts by the Nixon administration to gain ratification beginning in 1969 were frustrated by American forces' use of herbicides and riot control agents in Vietnam.

The United Nations has agreed that such chemical agents are banned by the Geneva Protocol. Earlier this week, Director Fred Ikle of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency announced the United States would renounce "first use" of herbicide and riot control agents in warfare — with some minor exceptions.

No Guard Duty For Drug Users

MIESAU, Germany (UPI) — The U.S. Army disqualified 33 men on duty at a nuclear weapons depot for reported drug abuse, army sources said today.

An Army statement said, "Since Nov. 21, 33 personnel of the 164th Military Police Company have been disqualified from performing guard duty at the Miesau ammunitions depot.

"All 33 soldiers have allegedly been involved in drug use, primarily hashish, and have been referred to the local community drug and alcohol abuse center."

Kissinger Warns Of Deeper Crisis

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger warned today a worsening economic crisis will lead to political unrest that would damage the West's ability to defend itself.

Kissinger called for "decisive actions" to control the economic problems which he blamed on "the impact of high oil prices, a concurrent inflation and potential recession."

"If this is not mastered, political instability will grow and therefore is bound to affect defense," Kissinger told a news conference after a two-day meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization member foreign ministers.

Oil prices "are too high and for the sake of stability and progress of the world economies should be reduced," he said.

Consumer nations should cooperate "to provide incentives for an ultimate reduction," he said.

Kissinger said the U.S. and its allies "agreed on the sequence of moves" to achieve consumer cooperation and a dialogue with oil-producing countries.

Kissinger, who met repeatedly with the foreign ministers of Greece and Turkey in an effort to solve the Cyprus problem, said: "I am more hopeful than I was before I arrived that progress is possible and may become visible as events unfold."

But he warned that by cutting off U.S. aid to Turkey, Congress was making progress "extremely unlikely" and labeled the action "one of the most dangerous things that has been done."

"American aid to Turkey is not given as a favor to Turkey," he said. "It is given for the common defense of the West."

The economic and energy crises dominated the two-day meeting. The final communique played this down, however, saying only that the ministers would seek "appropriate solutions in the spirit of cooperation and mutual confidence."

It said the Middle East situation "could have dangerous consequences for world peace and thus for the security of the members of the alliance ... They found the instability in the area disquieting, warranting special vigilance on the part of the allies."

NATO Secretary General Joseph Luns, in a speech given behind closed doors but reported by NATO sources, set the tone for the ministers' agreement that economic and energy crises, not Russia, are the West's main threat today.

Luns, predicting an oil deficit of $300 billion by 1980, said the present economic situation "could well be idyllic" if the Arabs imposed a new oil boycott.

In a new embargo, he said, "the impact may be such as to inflict a fatal blow to existing free-market economies and thus to existing social systems of certain countries."

Luns predicted the Arabs would call another boycott, either partial or total, if another Middle East war were to erupt. He said the embargo would result in "renewed frictions in transatlantic relations."

Luns said he could offer no other solution than continued "cohesion and solidarity."

Kissinger told the ministers yesterday that no one yet has an answer to the combination of inflation and recession. Officials reporting on the private meeting said the other ministers were "impressed" with the Kissinger argument, and some went further.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan warned that a depression may be coming that could threaten democracy.

The grim warnings were delivered within the context of a military alliance. But there was no indication that any ally suggested military action as a solution.

The officials said there was consensus that the world is entering a new and very different era, frightening in its uncertainties, with no precedents to guide it.

Callaghan said that as a result of the energy crisis, people must get used to the idea that their lives will not necessarily improve economically.

Kissinger warned against confrontation with the Arab oil-producing nations.

The secretary also briefed America's European allies on the arms limitation agreement reached at Vladivostok by President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Kissinger planned to leave Brussels later in the day for Washington to meet with President Ford on the eve of his summit meeting on the Caribbean island of Martinique Saturday with French President Vallery Giscard d'Estaing.

Malta Becomes A Republic Today

VALETTA (UPI) — The tiny Mediterranean island of Malta becomes a republic today, cutting the last of its 160-year-old ties with the British crown.

A government spokesman said Sir Anthony Mamo, Malta's governor general since 1971, was proclaimed interim president until elections in 1976.

NEW HOME — With a mighty flip of the tail, a 10.5 foot pilot whale sprayed spectators as she was released yesterday from a transportation sling into her new home at the Mystic Marinelife Aquarium in Mystic, Conn. The 850-pound mammal, aided by trainer Chris Hoef and assistant Corrie Brown (foreground) was caught off the California coast Nov. 6. (UPI Telephoto)

Pilot Whale Ends Overland Odyssey In Eastern Aquarium

MYSTIC, Conn. (UPI) — A pilot whale arrived at the Marinelife Aquarium here yesterday wrapped in heavy padding that made it look like a giant hotdog in a foam rubber bun.

After an odyssey that began with capture in the Pacific Ocean, the 850-pound whale is settled in its new home today, gobbling up frozen squid and getting acquainted with the neighbors — six bottlenose dolphins.

It splashed into a spacious tank after a transcontinental jet flight from Los Angeles and a truck ride through New York City and up the Connecticut shoreline.

Pilot whales are sometimes seen off New England shores, but this is the region's first in captivity. It was caught Nov. 6 by Marineland of the Pacific, San Diego.

Dr. J. Lawrence Dunn, a veterinarian who tended the mammal on the trip, said the young female suffered some abrasions on her flukes from thrashing around while being loaded into the traveling gear.

Dunn said the whale is about five years old, 10½-feet long and still growing.

The whale was hoisted from the truck on an overhead crane, then carried by about 10 men to the indoor pool.

In spite of the cold, a girl in a bathing suit and sweatshirt waited by the aquarium door for the whale's arrival.

"I'm too nervous to be cold," said Corrie Brown, 23, assistant trainer at the aquarium. She and trainer Chris Hoef jumped into the 20-foot-deep pool and stayed by the whale's side as it was lowered into the water.

As soon as the mammal felt the water take its weight, it gave a mighty swish of its flukes, dousing handlers.

Arabians Oiling Las Vegas Wheels

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Three oil-rich Saudi Arabian princes lost $1 million in a weekend gambling spree, a casino manager said today.

"In my 21 years here I've seen a lot of big spenders, but I've never seen anyone spend money and gamble on the order of the Arabs," said Morrie Jaeger, casino manager of the MGM Grand Hotel. He said the Arabians gave single tips of up to $200.

Arabs loaded with oil dollars have become a regular feature of casino life here, he said, but although they travel with huge retinues, they keep out of sight by sticking to the exclusive "high roller" clubs.

The three Saudi Arabians insisted for security reasons on gambling only in the Metro Club, which is restricted to those who have a line of credit of at least $10,000.

"Each prince walked into the Metro Club with three guards in front, three guards behind and one on each side," Jaeger said.

He said they placed bets of $20,000 or more at a time, playing roulette, craps, blackjack and baccarat.

"Tip! My God, did they tip!" said a security guard at the Metro Club. "They gave the maids $50 each."

A female photographer said she was tipped $200. "Nothing like this ever happened before," she said.

Jaeger said that other "wealthy Arabs have been flying into Las Vegas on their private jets the past several weeks. One Arab has been flying in here on a regular basis.

"He gambles all over town ... He alone dropped $1 million one night recently. He beat us too. One night he won $200,000."

A Metro Club guard said the Arabians' security men were "discreetly armed," when asked about rumors among hotel workers some of them had submachine guns.

Jaeger described most of the Arabs as "younger men, in their 30s and 40s, well educated in English and American universities. Fine gentlemen, very easy to get along with.

"We hope they keep coming."

Younger Declines To File Suit Against Moretti On Disclosure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Evelle J. Younger has declined to file suit against former Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti accusing him of violating campaign disclosure laws.

People's Lobby, a political activist group, charged last month that Moretti failed to properly report campaign contributions and expenditures during his unsuccessful bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The group asked Younger to file suit to force compliance with the disclosure law.

Younger yesterday said an investigation by his office into the charges found "no willful, knowing, or grossly negligent violations" of the law to warrant a suit.

The attorney general's refusal to sue Moretti clears the way for the people's Lobby to file its own civil action against Moretti.

Under provisions of the Waxman-Dymally Act, a private group must notify the attorney general and three district attorneys advising them of alleged violations before a private suit can be filed under the campaign disclosure law.

The attorney general must answer the request within 30 days. Younger sent copies of his reply to the San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento County district attorneys.

Chicago Currency Firm Torched; Woman Is Killed

CHICAGO (UPI) — A pregnant teller in a South Side currency exchange was killed yesterday when a man entered the building with two cans of gasoline, apparently spread the liquid around the office, and then set a match to it, police said.

A pair of explosions followed, killing Estelle Davenport, 24, an eight-month pregnant teller who was alone in the exchange when the incident happened, police said.

The fire gutted the two-story building containing apartments above the exchange. Two patrolmen and three firemen suffered minor injuries in rescuing the residents of the apartments. No one else was injured.

Police said they found the partially empty cans of gasoline in the office shortly after the explosion.

They said a man had carried two gasoline cans containing more than seven gallons of gas by taxi to the exchange. He apparently spread the liquid around the office, then threw a match in before running back to the taxi and leaving, police said.

Police said they had no suspects or motive and did not know if any money was taken.

Currency exchanges are privately owned businesses in Chicago that, for a fee, cash checks, accept utility bill payments and perform similar services.

DEMONSTRATOR — Police grab a demonstrator who broke through a barricade around a building in Point A. Pitre, Guadeloupe, yesterday that was being visited by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. Rioting greeted the French leader on his way to a summit meeting with President Ford.

D'Estaing Turns An Eye To Summit After Riots

POINTE A PITRE, Guadeloupe (UPI) — Shaken by independence riots that greeted his arrival in the Caribbean, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing today turned his attention to his upcoming summit meeting with President Ford.

The French president planned to fly this afternoon from Guadeloupe to Fort de France on neighboring Martinique island, where he will meet Ford for the first time tomorrow.

Top items on the summit agenda include the two countries' differing energy and Middle East policies and the deepening economic troubles of Western industrialized nations.

Giscard's tour of Guadeloupe got off to a bad start in Pointe a Pitre yesterday when angry demonstrators scuffled with police, jostled the president at a wreath-laying ceremony at a war memorial, and forced him to cancel a scheduled handshaking stop at a market.

After a warm airport welcome, Giscard saw his motorcade disrupted by nearly 1,000 mostly youthful demonstrators who chanted slogans demanding autonomy or independence for the Caribbean island, which is a French department.

One youth jumped on the hood of Giscard's limousine and rode for almost a block before security agents hauled him off.

At the motorcade's starting point at the Pointe a Pitre city hall, Mayor Henri Bangou blamed France's neglect of its overseas departments for the island's 25 per cent unemployment rate, far above that in the rest of France.

Solzhenitsyn Urges Moral Revolution

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn finally spoke his piece yesterday, giving a four-hour discourse about life in the Soviet Union and calling for a moral and religious revolution throughout the world.

"For the East, but also for the West, there is no salvation except moral and religious awakening," the 56-year-old exiled Russian Nobel-prize-winning author told newsmen at what he billed was his first news conference in nine years.

Because of what he called the world's "psychological" problems, he said a moral revolution was necessary, but he refused to say whether he, himself, believed in religion.

"I believe the most promising is the moral revolution that I have mentioned," he said. "The method of physical revolutions should stop throughout the world, because never have problems been solved by this method.

"As to my country ... how can they defend the present pseudo-Socialism in recent years when too much has come out about Lenin? Another tendency is emerging. First Stalin was the scapegoat, now they bury Lenin and resort to Marx."

Solzhenitsyn came to Stockholm to collect his 1970 Nobel Literature Prize. He couldn't receive the prize then because he was afraid he wouldn't be allowed to return if he left his country. He was finally exiled in February of this year and now lives in Switzerland.

Speaking in Russian through interpreters, he said he still hopes to return to his homeland some day but scoffed at reports that Soviet authorities may be ready now to let him back in.

"Every Soviet minister will fabricate a lie," he said. "If the Soviets are serious about my return, let them publish my books, and I will return."

Asked if he planned to remain in Switzerland forever, Solzhenitsyn thought for a moment and said: "No I do not. I live with the continuous feeling and hope that I must return to Russia some day. We feel that we are out of place here."

Firm Charged With Silver Sham

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backed by photographs of vaults stuffed with silver, a best-selling book and a "polished" national advertising campaign, a California firm sold $1 billion in silver and coins it did not have, the Securities and Exchange Commission alleges.

The Pacific Coast Coin Exchange, also known as PCCE and Monex International Ltd. Inc., consented yesterday to the SEC charges in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles. A consent is neither an admission nor denial of guilt but an agreement not to contest the charge.

Judge Harry Pregerson accepted the plea and took under advisement an SEC request that the company "disgorge improper profits and monies ... as a result of the illegal activities ... and from unfair prices and fees for nonexistent services."

The SEC said the money from 25,000 "small and unsophisticated" investors was used to buy cattle, a jet plane, a gold mine and to pay the firm's "brokers" and make "substantial loans to officers of the company and their associates."

One official was Harry Browne, author of the best selling "How You Can Profit from the Coming Devaluation." The SEC says he got "a commission for each investor attracted to the company from these books ... and was entitled to a percentage of all PCCE sales."

"PCCE and (its principal officer, Louis E. Carabini Jr.) have taken approximately $1 billion from the American public while deceiving the public as to what PCCE does with their monies," the SEC said.

The SEC said PCCE used a "nationwide polished, hard sell, fraudulent, promotional and marketing campaign."

The SEC said PCCE sold silver on margin to small investors, which means they put up about 25 per cent of the price as a down payment. As the value of silver declined on PCCE's market, investors had to make more margin payments.

"PCCE employs fraudulent sales practices to pressure investors to purchase as large an amount of coins on margin as they can be persuaded to buy," the SEC alleged. "They could not meet a margin call and then PCCE sold out their interest in a margin call at PCCE's arbitrary price."

The SEC alleged PCCE also used interest on margin accounts, storage fees, 2 per cent commissions on transactions and arbitrary prices to cause customers to buy high and sell low.

PCCE issued brochures with "photographs of depositories and large deposits of silver coin bags creating the false image that these are PCCE's when in reality they are not" and pamphlets purporting "investors may designate U.S. or foreign storage of coins when in fact PCCE does not store silver coins anywhere," the SEC alleged.

"PCCE attempts to capitalize on the public's fears and apprehensions concerning the economy, inflation, the stock market; and it spreads and exaggerates these fears. Its sales campaign relies on exaggerated 'gloom and doom' prophecies and employees' scare tactics designed to convince investors that the only salvation is investing in silver and gold."

Canning Of Beef For Needy Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nationwide cattlemen's organization has urged the government to can surplus beef and give it to needy people overseas and at home.

C.W. McMillan, vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, told a Senate Agriculture subcommittee yesterday the canned beef could replace anticipated shortages of grain in foreign aid.

He said the U.S. now has 3.5 million more cows than are needed to meet domestic demand.

"Since we have an excess of beef and a deficit of grain, it simply makes sense to meet our commitments with beef," he said.

Auto Industry In Grim Position

By CHARLES E. DOLE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Automakers are tripping over their own bad pricing decisions as they stumble toward the new year.

Industry executives talk hopefully of a modest recovery in sales from the present unhappy picture. Many auto analysts, however, see a grimmer situation.

Detroit's mistake was in trying to recapture too much of its profit margin from the small-car market. In effect, the manufactureres priced the subcompact right out of the market, and sales have dropped out of sight.

The Ford Pinto, a subcompact, was priced at $2,340 just 14 months ago. Last October it was up to over $2,900, a rise of 25 per cent in only a year. A two-door Ford LTD, by contrast, rose only 14 per cent in the same time span.

The Chevrolet Vega climbed by 25 per cent also, while the American Motors Gremlin jumped almost 30 per cent.

Now, in a widely advertised drive to move more cars, Ford Motor Co. has slashed the price of its two-door Pinto by $150 by making radial tires an option and absorbing the remainder.

All automakers will follow suit, predicts Arvid Jouppi, vice-president of Delafield Childs, a New York brokerage firm. "There is no way that the auto companies can continue in the present market with the current prices of their small cars."

Clearly, the small cars will have to move for less then the factory wants for them. Otherwise, domestic car dealers probably will trudge into 1975 with a lot of cars in their yards which they don't want. With the dealer's cost of financing a car being what it is, no dealer today can smile at the prospect.

The U.S. car industry has a built-in capacity to produce about 11 million units a year. The domestic sales rate right now is roughly 70 per cent of what it was a year ago — when it was low. As a result, profits are in a nosedive.

"Compared with a capacity of 11 million, the industry is only producing at 70 or 75 per cent of capacity," says Jouppi, "This is awfully hard to make money at." The car analyst also sees between 1.3 and 1.4 million imports for 1975.

If the domestic car industry only builds cars at the current rate, it will be substantially below what Detroit automakers have come to expect as normal levels of car output. In 1973, for example, the industry sold 9.6 million cars and the import firms about 1.5 million, up from a combined total of 10.9 million in 1972.

To show the impact of higher and higher costs on producers, quality improvements for domestic 1975-model passenger cars included in the Bureau of Labor Statistics wholesale price index are valued at only $102.30 at manufacturers' prices and $129.90 at retail.

In other words, only about one-third of the average price increase on 1975-model cars is due to federally mandated emissions equipment and minor safety changes. The remainder of the rise is due directly to higher costs to the makers and an effort to improve the rapidly eroding profitability on the cars.

Yet, by 1978, new government standards on the books or officially proposed will increase the cost of a Ford Pinto by more than $800, add 355 pounds to the car's weight, and cut fuel economy by three or four miles per gallon, according to the motor company.

"What started as a $2,000, 2,000-pound economy car (in 1971) will be a $5,000, 3,000-pound car with much lower fuel economy," says Lee A. Iacocca, Ford president.

While obviously a pressure play to force government's hand away from tougher emissions and safety legislation, this also indicates a continuing upward grind in prices that could delay even further a shift from "waiters" to "buyers" in an agonizing market.

Meanwhile, automakers report an average 34 per cent drop in sales in November, as compared with November a year ago. Import sales were off 28 per cent.

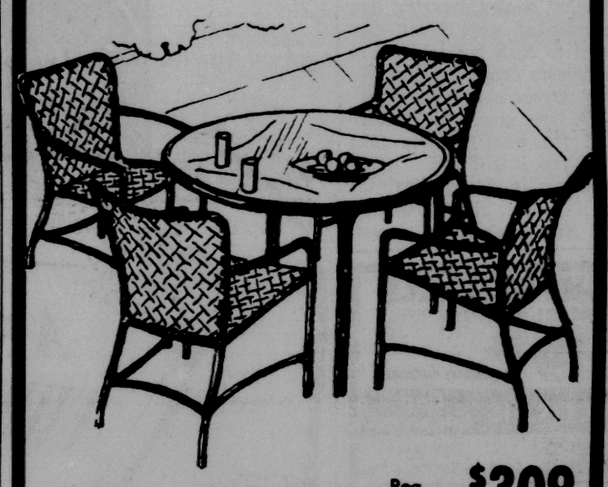

Volkswagen sales were off a shattering 46 per cent.

PREPARACION POR LA POSADA

Ana Maria Comstock of Tiburon (right) models the costume of the Virgin Mary as Ana Maria Jimenez, also of Tiburon, kneels to put finishing touches to a sleeve and Erika Hayes of Corte Madera works at a sewing machine. The costume and the pinata hanging from the ceiling are preparations for a classical Mexican Posada which will be presented by La Familia, an organization of Spanish-speaking Marin residents, for Mexican-Americans and their friends at 7 p.m. next Thursday at Carpenter's Hall in San Rafael. The Posada enacts the story of Joseph and Mary's search for lodging and then ends with a party.

Escape Plot Broken Up At Folsom

FOLSOM (AP) — An apparent escape plot involving a Charles Manson follower and a man convicted of killing four California highway patrolmen has been broken up, Folsom Prison officials said today.

Max Price, administrative assistant to the warden, said guards in the prison's maximum-security unit found bars to three cells cut and parts of hacksaw blades hidden in the cells last weekend.

The men had made no actual attempt to break out, Price said.

They were identified as Kenneth D. Como, 35, a member of Manson's hippie-style clan; Bobby A. Davis, 34, convicted in the CHP case; and Gerald Gallant, 35. All are from the Los Angeles area.

Davis was convicted of murder in the death of four highway patrolmen in a gun battle outside a coffee shop in Newhall, north of Los Angeles, on April 5, 1970.

Police said Davis' partner, Jack Twining, 35, shot himself to death as officers closed in on a house where he had barricaded himself. Davis was captured after a chase.

He was sentenced to death, but the sentence was reduced to life in prison after California's death penalty was overturned.

Como wasn't charged in the killings which resulted in life sentences for Manson and several followers. Price said Como is serving a minimum 20-year term on a series of robbery and burglary convictions.

In 1971 Como escaped from Los Angeles maximum security cell by sawing through a bar and lowering himself 13 floors on a rope made of knotted blankets. He was captured a few hours later.

Gallant is serving five years to life for rape and attempted robbery, Price said. He said Gallant has attempted to escape twice before.

Price said the men were apparently acting together, possibly along with a fourth convict who hasn't been identified. He said the case would be handled within the prison discipline system rather than in court.

Ex-Aide Decries Nixon Trials

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Harry S. Dent, former White House aide and former Republican national counsel, says he doesn't believe anyone connected with Richard Nixon could get a fair trial in Washington.

Dent, who pleaded guilty this week to one count of a misdemeanor of campaign finance violations in the 1970 congressional elections, said he "felt sorry" for those Nixon people who are being tried in the nation's capitol.

Dent said the Washington newspapers have written so much about the Nixon administration that any trial of a Nixon aide would be a "stacked deck situation" even though the violation to which he pleaded guilty occurred two years before the Watergate break-in.

"No man connected with Richard Nixon could expect to receive a fair trial by jury," Dent said of those Nixon aides now on trial.

Dent told a Columbia news conference yesterday that he had decided to enter the guilty plea to a misdemeanor charge rather than run the risk of a jury trial on a felony charge in Washington. He said he had spoken to more than 50 persons who told him he would never be able to get a fair trial by jury on such a charge.

Dent pleaded guilty to one count of violating the since-repealed 1925 Federal Corrupt Practices Act by aiding and abetting a political committee set up in the District of Columbia to handle campaign finances without having chosen a chairman or a treasurer.

U. S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. had suspended sentence and placed Dent on unsupervised probation for one month. Maximum penalty could have been one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

"He did give me justice yesterday when I thought I was never going to get justice," Dent said of Hart.

Dent again said he had pleaded guilty to participating in the illegal operation, but that he had not knowingly violated any law, and said it appeared Hart had agreed with him.

Coupon-Cashing Gifter Feels Her Action Legal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Los Angeles woman says that "as far as I know," her practice of converting food discount coupons to cash to purchase gifts for hospital patients is legal.

An article in the Fresno Bee last week quoted Dr. James Shelton, Porterville State Hospital director, as saying a woman he declined to identify had said her operation "isn't entirely legal."

Frances Beckerman, identified as the woman later by the Bee, said yesterday she has been purchasing Christmas gifts for hospital patients with food coupon money for about 20 years. She said she doesn't know how the coupons are converted into cash.

She said she gets the coupons from hospitals and "I hand them out to friends. I get the money and I buy the gifts," she said.

The coupons used normally offer a few cents off an item as an incentive to purchase it. In addition, many states require the coupon to carry a cash value, usually 1-20th of a cent.

Shelton denied knowing how the coupons were being converted to cash but said: "The mechanism cannot be duplicated by anyone else in the world. If you are given the mechanism, the whole system falls apart. Yes, it is illegal."

Porterville State Hospital says it receives about 7,000 gifts from Mrs. Beckerman annually. Fairview Hospital in Costa Mesa said it receives about 2,700 and Camarillo Hospital in Camarillo gets 300 to 400.

Pacific Hospital in Pomona discontinued passing on coupons to Mrs. Beckerman Nov. 15 "because there was some question about the legality," said Dr. William Clover, medical director.

Young Emerges In North Dakota

BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI) — Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., emerged as the victor over Democrat William Guy in the North Dakota Senate race with completion of a recount Wednesday night.

Young had 114,117 votes and Guy, a former governor, 113,931, according to final unofficial results. The 186-vote margin was reported after the last of the state's 53 counties filed recount results.

Surgery On Rhodes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nonmalignant polyp was removed from the vocal chords of House Republican leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona today in a routine operation which an aide said would allow him to return to work next week.

Hub Teacher Cited For Survey Work

Teacher Joan McRee was honored by San Anselmo school district trustees last night for her work as chairman of the district master plan survey committee.

Mrs. McRae, a district teacher for the past four years, was given a plaque for her service as head of the committee. The group disbanded last month after more than 18 months of study of district sites and facilities.

She is a teacher of mentally retarded youngsters.

The district board last night also learned that local youngsters scored above average on state tests given last year, according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott.

In other business, trustee Millard R. Morgen reported he now supports a district bid to increase by $90 the amount of money it can spend per pupil. Morgen on Nov. 21 had abstained on a move by colleagues to call a revenue increase election for March 4.

The board put over the remainder of a lengthy agenda to 9 p.m. Dec. 17, Elliott said.

Beef Grade Changes Criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Virginia Knauer, President Ford's consumer adviser, told the Agriculture Department today its plan to change the beef grading system would be virtually meaningless for the food shopper.

Mrs. Knauer, in a letter to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, said that the department should consider revising its proposal so that a new grade would be created between "choice" and "good" beef to reflect beef in the "good" category which is not marbled enough to be "choice."

The Agriculture proposal would allow better cuts of what is now sold as "good" to be sold as "choice," in part to allow beef that is not fattened as much to be consumed.

Various consumer groups have alleged that expanding the "choice" category to include lesser cuts of meat would allow stores to sell the cheaper meat at "choice" prices.

Mrs. Knauer said she understood that the current proposal would mean that 90 per cent of all graded beef sold would wind up in the "choice" catagory.

"When almost 90 per cent of all graded beef would be graded 'choice,' quality grading would be of little or no use to the consumer in providing him with information upon which to make a reasoned purchasing choice," she said. "For all intents and purposes, consumers would be operating under a nongraded system.

"'Choice' would cover nearly all beef at retail — whatever its degree of marbling or maturity. The existence of an intermediate grade will better enable consumers to choose beef for its leanness or for its palatability. For this reason I oppose enlarging the 'choice' quality grade and recommend a new intermediate grade."

13 Are Indicted In Oil Swindle That Bilked Stars Of Millions

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal grand jury yesterday indicted an Oklahoma attorney and 12 others for an alleged phony oil drilling swindle that rooked a who's who of show business stars and astute financiers out of $130 million.

Many of the prominent victims of the Home-Stake stock sales scheme will probably be called as prosecution witnesses, government sources said.

The list of victims included entertainers from Jack Benny, who reportedly put in $300,000, to Bob Dylan.

Robert S. Trippet, a Tulsa lawyer who founded Home-Stake in 1955, and the others were charged with 39 counts of conspiring to defraud the government and investors in an elaborate tax shelter and securities scheme based on the firm's supposed oil drilling activities.

In reality, the company did virtually no oil drilling, the Justice Department maintained.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said the firm at one point sank three 500-foot deep wells on a California farm so it would have pictures to show stock buyers, although geologists know there is no oil at such a shallow depth in the area.

A vegetable farmer reportedly said he was paid by the company to paint his irrigation pipes with oil field markings so they could be photographed and passed off as part of a petroleum drilling complex.

The government charged the revenue from stock sales went to other businesses, to inactive corporations controlled by Trippet's relatives and to Trippet's personal use.

The SEC said some of the income financed a "Ponzi scheme" — repayment of early investors with income from later investors to create a false impression of profit. The scheme is named after Charles Ponzi, a swindler of the 1920s.

The U.S. attorney's office said the scheme succeeded for nine years, partly because of a "domino effect" as wealthy investors were attracted by word that others with big money had already bought in.

Home-Stake's big selling point was that investmentin the oil drilling plan offered attractive tax writeoffs to those with high incomes.

Singer Andy Williams was the biggest celebrity loser listed, with an investment of $538,000. Others listed included Barbra Streisand, Liza Minnelli, Walter Mathau, Phyllis Diller, and Jonathan Winters.

The investors included J. W. Goodman, a financier who wrote "The Money Game" under the name "Adam Smith," Harry J. Volk, president of the Union Bank of Los Angeles, and Russell W. McFall, president of Western Union Corp.

Photos Show Affinity To Nature

By ADA GARFINKEL

"New Faces" at the Lamkin Camerawork Gallery is an exhibit of black-and-white works by five young photographers (four Californians and one Texan) whose common meeting ground is a poetic affinity to nature and a surreal manipulation of surface and imagery.

There is, for example, Ron Starr, who studied with Minor White and Pirkle Jones and now concentrates on natural formations — eroded rock, striations of receding surf, seagrass, mountains and clouds.

Starr's full range of tonalities move from pure black to silvery grays and gunmetal to soft, luminous white. By printing small he creates an illusion of compression so that his clouds seem to be just within reach and his trees are of miniature scale.

And Andrea West's unusual presentation of weeds, bones, vegetables and plants transforms them into fetish objects and phallic symbols. Printed in a warm silvery gray on a dark, textural ground, her objects achieve their symmetrical form through a process of exposing the print normally, then reversing the negative — which doubles the image. Sometimes Miss West intentionally takes the background out of focus so that it seems to interweave with the image as in her photograph of squash blossoms.

David Pond-Smith of Texas also reverses some of his forms to create stupa-like monuments. By adding photomontage elements, he creates a surreal ambiguity in several of his works, as for example, in the superimposed views of a city park or a family tombstone with his own figure below. Another work is of the photographer himself with a print of light reflections on water transposed as sky.

All of Pond-Smith's photographs are from his book "Manself."

Suzanne Lenducci's cropped figure studies, singly and in intimate poses a deux, are quite sculptural in their presentation. In several, wet pebbles clinging to bare feet and posed with sequential groups of clamshells are like visual poetry. These are enhanced by their print quality which retains the essential softness of flesh, the wetness and hardness of the pebbles and clamshells and the subtle presence of stray bits of plant life.

Chris Johnson's work is influenced by his studies with Ansel Adams in "Tide Pool at Muir Beach" and "Sandwall at Point Lobos." In his other photos his concern is in photographing contemporary young women in a variety of environments — at a window; introspectively or on a fire hydrant.

This show brings fresh sensibilities to the photographic arena. It will continue through Dec. 30 and may be seen Friday through Monday from noon to 6 p.m. and to 9 p.m. on Thursday. The Lamkin Camerawork Gallery is located in the Fair-Anselm Center, Fairfax.

YOUNG TALENT — Ron Starr's "Mountain and Clouds" presents his Lilliputian landscape in a full range of tonalities from pure black to pure white. It is included in "New Faces," an exhibit by five young photographers at the Lamkin Camerawork Gallery in Fairfax.

20 Women Fail Fire Dept. Exam

SAN JOSE (AP) — All 20 women who took the fire department's physical exam have failed for lack of strength, the chief says.

"Frankly, I would have been very happy if some of them had passed," Fire Chief John Gerhard said Wednesday. "But if I were passed out in a burning building, I'd want the person coming in there to be strong enough to carry me out."

Gerhard said half of the 40 women who passed the written test took the physical exam, which required them among other feats to carry 7 pounds of hose upstairs and jump a six-foot fence.

About 1,100 men still are in the running for 25 department openings, with a starting salary of $1,041 a month, Gerhard said.

Tavern Sued After Slaying

REDDING (AP) — A Shasta College student and her sister have filed a $750,000 suit against a San Francisco tavern alleging that the tavern was negligent in serving liquor to a man who argued with their father and then shot him to death.

The suit was filed by Kimberly Ann Smether and her younger sister, Julie, over the death Dec. 11, 1973 of their father, Robert, then age 44.

It names Tiki Bob's and employees Theodore Voyvodick and William Cirganbright plus Howard David Jordan. Jordan is identified in the suit filed yesterday as being in state prison for the killing.

Car Crashes, Man Is Hurt

A 22-year-old San Anselmo man was hospitalized yesterday after the car in which he was riding smashed into a utility pole in Fairfax.

Robert Hoots was reported in satisfactory condition today with multiple cuts following the 2 p.m. accident.

Police said Hoots was a passenger in a car driven by Frederick Yetter of San Rafael. Yetter lost control of the vehicle after the gas pedal stuck on Center Boulevard, according to officers.

Peach Profits

MARYSVILLE (AP) — California cling peach growers earned an average of $277.25 per acre profit this year, the chief of the California Canning Peach Association said today.

Bright Future

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Frost and Sullivan research firm says annual sales of the chemical specialties market is expected to soar from $719 million in 1971 to $1.19 billion by 1980. Chemical speciality producers, it adds, will find new opportunities stemming from the impact of safety, health, pollution and other legislation.

SAVING THE NEWTS

Chris Nelson, the East Bay regional park district's chief naturalist, displays newts and a new sign erected yesterday on the edge of Briones Park near Orinda where an important colony of the migratory members of the salamander family were being destroyed by careless or unnoticing drivers. Newts — creatures of considerable fascination and scientific importance to scientists — "look like little dinosaurs," according to Nelson. The warning signs, which bear a large image of a newt, are the first of their kind, as far as Nelson knows. (UPI Telephoto)

Saxbe Nominated As Envoy To India

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today nominated Attorney General William B. Saxbe to be ambassador to India.

Saxbe will succeed Daniel P. Moynihan, who has resigned.

In an exchange of letters made public at the White House, Ford accepted Saxbe's resignation as attorney general effective on the appointment of a successor or his own confirmation as ambassador to India, whichever occurs earlier.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen refused to discuss speculation that Ford is considering naming Dr. Edward Levi, president of the University of Chicago as Saxbe's successor.

There also was speculation that Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee and its ranking Republican member, Sen. Roman Hruska, are opposed to Levi heading the Justice Department.

Moynihan, a Nixon appointee, is expected to resume his teaching post at Harvard University after two years in India.

Levi refused to confirm or deny whether Ford had offered him the post. He was asked in Chicago last night if he would accept.

"I think I should know more before I comment," he said.

Tapping The Arctic's Natural Gas

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortages of natural gas this winter have sparked increased efforts to bring newly found discoveries down from the Arctic coasts of Alaska and Canada.

Thus far, two methods have been proposed and are before various regulatory agencies in Washington and Ottawa.

One scheme, sought by El Paso Natural Gas Co., the Texas-based fuel and pipeline firm, would move the gas across Alaska by pipeline, liquify it on the southern coast, and move it by ship to the West Coast for distribution to the "Lower 48."

The other plan, proposed by Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co., owned by a consortium of 26 oil, gas, and pipeline companies, would construct a 2,600-mile pipeline across northern Canada and into Idaho and Montana for distribution to the U.S. market.

Whether either plan can escape the environmental attack mounted against the oil pipeline remains to be seen. Hearings on the environmental impact are expected to be held in 1975.

Each group is seeking access to a natural gas field estimated in excess of 33 trillion cubic feet, and perhaps as high as 200 trillion cubic feet. The United States last year used 23 trillion cubic feet.

In New York last week executives of Alaskan Arctic Gas indicated the scope of this latest venture to try and tap the riches of the north.

The cost of their pipeline, they said, would total $7 billion, if completed by 1980, and $10 billion, if one included the three additional pipelines needed to distribute the gas to the east and west coasts.

It will require the approval by the Federal Power Commission, and the Interior Department, and Canada's National Energy Board and Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.

If completed, the pipeline could move two billion cubic feet of gas a day to the United States from Alaska, or approximately 5 per cent of current demand. At that rate, the Arctic Gas executives said, known reserves would be exhausted in 30-35 years. Other discoveries would lengthen the pipeline's use.

Despite the apparent convenience of bringing arctic gas down along nearly the same route as arctic oil, as proposed by El Paso, the Canadian pipeline group argues its plan is superior.

"Our method involves cost savings in transportation over El Paso's of $200 million to $300 million a year," said Arctic Gas president Robert Ward, formerly Alaska's secretary of state. In addition, he said, the pipeline method would directly serve major markets and avoid waste, which he says accompanies liquefaction.

The transportation cost, from Prudhoe Bay to California, is estimated at $1.20 per million cubic feet. Ward said. General counsel William Brackett said the pipeline was not contingent on higher natural gas prices to make it financially feasible.

Arraignment Is Set In Check Case

A draftsman facing four counts of writing bad checks and an additional charge of stealing a truck has been ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court two days before Christmas.

Scheduled for arraignment Dec. 23 is Morris Maurice Eubanks, 23, of San Francisco, said to have defrauded several Novato merchants of a total of $4,218.

A parolee from Soledad Prison, where he spent 18 months on another bad check conviction, Eubanks is said to have written the checks in October.

He was arrested in Columbus, Ohio, in late November when he reportedly tried to cash a worthless check at a clothing store.

Among the charges are that he used bad checks to purchase a $350 Afghan hound from Judith A. Bloom of Novato and a $2,541 pickup truck from Novato Toyota.

He also is believed to have paid his rent with a $268 bad check and written another one for $1,058 to Credit Motors of San Rafael.

Pupils Can't Play Santa To Teacher

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York school children polishing up an apple for their teacher for the holidays had better forget it.

The Board of Education distributed a circular throughout the school system yesterday outlawing gifts of any type to school personnel from pupils or parents.

In the school's circular Chancellor Irving Anker said: "The board of education cannot sanction the giving of gifts to teachers by children or parents. The acceptance of a gift from a child or parent may well hurt other children and is out of keeping with the professional responsibility of the teachers.

"Accordingly, please indicate thankfully but firmly to parents and children that the giving of presents to secretaries, teachers or supervisors is not in the best interests of all the children and is therefore forbidden."

Children Given Say In Divorces

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — From now on the children are going to have something to say about their parents getting a divorce, a judge has decided.

Norman S. Fenton, conciliation court judge for Pima County, said all it would take is a simple letter from a child saying he does not want his parents to split up.

If he gets such a request he will require mandatory court counseling.

CHRISTMAS WISH ANSWERED

Snow is rare in Southern California, so when third graders at College Park School in Costa Mesa were asked to make a Christmas wish their second choice (after no school) was for snow. With the help of a local skating rink, a load of snow was delivered to the playground.

Chrysler Will Delay Reopening One Plant

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. will delay reopening one of the five assembly plants it closed on Thanksgiving because of a five-month backlog of compact cars —one reason that December auto production is the lowest since 1951.

The No. 3 automaker said yesterday that its Newark, Del., plant, which builds Plymouth Valiants and Dodge Darts, will not reopen Jan. 6 when Chrysler begins building cars again at four other plants. The 4,500 workers at the plant won't return to work until Feb. 3.

The trade publication Automotive News said the industry this week will build 31.5 per cent fewer cars than in the same week last year. The month's output was estimated at 357,000 cars, the lowest since December of 1951, when 284,837 were built and there was no Christmas-New Year's shutdown.

Automakers will end the year's production on Dec. 20 with an estimated 7,182,255 cars, odf 24.8 per cent from 1973's record and the worst year since 1962.

Entering December, Chrysler has 105,000 Valiants jamming its dealer and company storage lots —enough to last 150 days at current sales rates. Figures for the first 10 days of December, due today, were not expected to show any improvement over November when sales fell 35 per cent from the previous year.

The Chrysler announcement was the latest indication that drastic cuts in December that put up to 215,000 workers on short-and long-term furloughs weren't deep enough.

General Motors already scheduled 64,000 hourly workers for long-term layoffs by the end of January, Ford 18,250 and Chrysler 30,000. Industry sources predict that number will increase during January.

San Jose Ponders 'Dial-A-Ride'

By FREDERIC A. MORITZ
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

SAN JOSE — The most ambitious computerized "dial-a-ride" bus service in the United States — aimed at easing auto congestion — has begun on the sprawling network of roads connecting the 1,300 square miles of Santa Clara County.

Transit experts in Japan, Belgium, France, and Canada, as well as officials in many American cities, have shown interest in the results of what is billed as the first major effort to use constantly moving, telephone-ordered buses as a "feeder network" for longer distance, fixed schedule "arterial" buslines.

On Dec. 23 a network of some 110 "arterial" buses will begin revised routes connecting the 15 cities of this smog-troubled county.

Since the "dial-a-ride" began Nov. 24, some 32 telephone operators have fielded daily about 3,000 calls for ride reservations. Helping them are three leased computers nick-named "Wee Willie Wonders," "Mean Mary Jean," and "Lucid Lucy Lou."

The scale of this, the first such project under aegis of a county transportation authority, distinguished it from more than 40 smaller "dial-a-ride" programs already tried in the U.S., including another computerized project in Haddonfield, N.J. After county voters approved the Santa Clara County Transit District in 1972 the district spent more than $1 million to buy private bus lines in the area.

Transportation planners rejected both a fixed route bus system and a rail system as inappropriate to the county's widespread, low-density population. They estimate that an arterial bus system alone would reach only 60 per cent of the county's 1.1 million population. The "dial-a-ride" system reaches 97 per cent.

A federal Urban Mass Transportation Planning Authority (UM-TPA) grant for $7.4 million was used to buy 134 30-foot nonpolluting propane-powered buses, plus other equipment. Ninety buses were assigned to "dial-a-ride" routes, and the remainder went to beef up Santa Clara's arterial system.

The carpeted, air-conditioned buses carry up to 25 passengers.

Santa Clara County Transportation Agency spokesman Frank Lara says the new system must prove itself between now and May, 1975.

The county Supervisors then will be asked to call a new election to raise taxes for covering the agency's operating deficit.

"We can fail in one of two ways: either from too many people using the system — or too few," says county transportation director James Pott.

So far, "dial-a-ride" has faced a jam-up of phone calls to its 70 trunk lines and 32 operators. As a result it takes anywhere from a half hour to three hours to dial a reservation for a ride.

Transit officials say the problem is that calls for information and reservations are taking longer than the one-minute average originally projected. They hope that as "reservationists" gain experience and callers learn the ropes, no caller will be forced to wait longer than an hour between the time they phone and the time their bus arrives.

Meantime, even though many of the buses are running virtually empty in the off-peak hours, occasionally riders report they have to call up to a day in advance to get a reservation. One passenger complained to his bus driver that the bus he ordered for 7 a.m. did not show up until 7 p.m.

"In six weeks we should be in good shape," says spokesman Lara.

CHANUKKAH—A HAPPY HOLIDAY TIME

Jewish families in Marin are enjoying the special delights of their own holiday time, the eight-day festival of lights, Chanukkah Here the Norman Pollinger family of Terra Linda gathers around the menorah to light a candle marking the fourth night of the celebration. From left are Jeffrey, Diane, Norman, Elizabeth and Lynne Pollinger and rabbi Andrew Baker, a guest.

GIVING OF GIFTS — For many families, each night of Chanukkah is an occasion for the giving of gifts. Here, the Pollingers open and unwrap their presents.

NUTRITION CLINIC

A New Approach To Food Habits

By BETTY FROST

Everyone is talking about food, because it is an expensive item in the family budget and because it is becoming scarce in terms of the world's increasing population.

A different approach to the whole eating scene was discussed by Richard L. Kozlenko in the professional offices in Mill Valley, where he practices as a doctor of podiatric medicine and nutrition consultant.

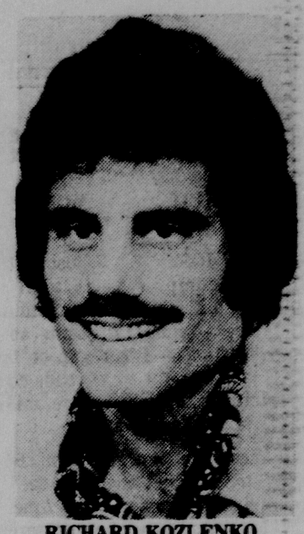

"Instead of envisioning a meal as meat with some vegetables, envision it more as vegetables with some meat. The quality of protein involved is excellent when you make that type of combination, and also expenses are a lot less," Dr. Kozlenko said.

He also suggested that the traditional three square meals a day may not be the wisest practice, and that five or six small "nibbler" meals are preferable.

CHANGING EATING habits "entails a fair amount of bravery" he cautions. It sometimes requires a complete change in life style.

A poor diet may be merely a symptom of the way a person looks at himself, Kozlenko said. Food can be used to whip the body or to reward it. A person may be saying, by eating improperly, "I'm fat, I'm ugly and my body does me no good." A person who is not happy about his body, Kozlenko said, may mentally cut his body off from the neck down.

And while denying the rest of his body, such an individual may concentrate on oral gratification through food.

RICHARD KOZLENKO
Diet: a wholistic view

Because of the complexities of making dietary change, Kozlenico has allied himself with experts in other disciplines to create a clinic to deal with the whole person. The clinic is called WHN, standing for Wholistic Health Nutrition. Psychotherapy, hypnotherapy, acupuncture, massage and danee therapy may be incorporated into the clinic program.

After the first of the year the WHN associates will hold workshop sessions for groups in Kozlenko's offices. The fees for group workshops will be $25 for five lessons. The WHN team hopes eventually to meet with groups throughout Marin County.

DR. KOZLENKO was graduated from University of California with a degree in zoology, later receiving a master's degree in public health (specializing in nutritional sciences) from University of California Los Angeles. He studied to become a doctor of podiatric medicine at the California College of Podiatric Medicine in San Francisco.

A number of his podiatric patients have also asked him for nutritional advice. While recognizing that diet is "a dynamic thing" requiring constant review by each individual, he outlined these views as to how Americans could improve their eating habits:

Eat a diet as free as possible from highly processed foods. Include a high number of whole, natural foods.

Cut back on foods high in fats, both animal and vegetable. (The typical American diet contains 40 to 45 per cent fat.)

Try fasting. Under certain circumstances (and under supervision), it can be a valuable tool in stabilizing the system.

Remember that night is the worst possible time for a heavy meal. Most people have less ability to handle carbohydrates late in the evening.

Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Try alternatives to meat, such as fish and poultry, which are high quality protein foods.

Be restrained in the consumption of dairy products.

Be aware of the hidden additives and sugar that are constantly found in processed and convenient packaged food.

"Nutrition is directly involved with health, but nutrition can take you only so far," the expert cautioned. He contends that one of the greatest enemies of good nutritional balance is stress, whether caused by external forces or internal conflict.

Best Hunting Grounds For Men Are Outlined

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you're making the singles scene in search of a man, go West young woman. Or head East.

California and New York have more unmarried men than any other of the 50 states — two million unmarrieds in each state.

Pennsylvania, Illinois and Texas are your next best bets, each with more than a million eligible men.

Or just direct your plans to any urban area, where 75 per cent of the unmarried men live.

Better news, too, is that the supply of unmarried males is increasing — grown from 14.5 million in 1952 to 22.4 million at the time of the 1970 census.

Metropolitan Life statisticians, constantly studying population trends, outlined where the boys are as a holiday gift for the nation's single women.

Metropolitan breaks down the eligibles by age groups and there's someone for everybody. Some 5.9 million were in their 20s. An additional 3.3 million were 18-19. But a significant proportion was over age 45 and 10 per cent 65 or older.

By some romantic fluke, most of the eligible men under 45, or 94 per cent, were never married, 5 per cent were divorced and only a few were widowers.

But at ages 45 to 54, the percentage of divorced men rose to 32 per cent, the percentage of widowed to 14 per cent. And from 55 on, widowers represented nearly 30 per cent of the unmarried. Divorced men accounted for more than 25 per cent.

Statistically, the hunting is poorest in Minnesota, with 81 eligible men to every 100 women in the younger age brackets.

Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, West Virginia and Utah also rank low, with unmarried women exceeding unmarried men by more than 15 per cent in the younger age brackets.

Presumably then, these states are where men shopping for wives should settle.

For women also, there's opportunity in Alaska, Hawaii, Nevada and Rhode Island. In Alaska, largely because of the number of servicemen stationed there, young unmarrieds outnumber single women by more than two to one. And Hawaii, Nevada and Rhode Island all have over 20 per cent more young unmarried men than women.

Nationally, the percentage of widowers ranged from 3.9 in Alaska to 12.4 in Arkansas.

Dangers Of Baby Powder

The brief but desperate illness of a San Rafael child late last month led to a warning today to mothers of small infants: a can of baby powder is not a toy.

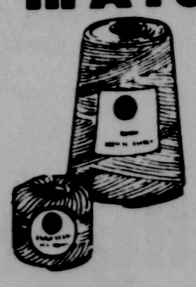

When Loma Burgess of San Rafael was diapering her 2-year-old son Nov. 20, she handed him the soft plastic can of talcum to hold. He put it to his mouth and squeezed.

"An enormous amount of powder was squirted into his mouth and inhaled into his lungs," pediatrician Paul Ferrari reported. When he began to choke his mother rushed him to the hospital. The baby was desperately sick for two days, developing severe bronchitis and pneumonia. He was hospitalized for a week.

Dr. Ferrari warned mothers against letting babies hold powder containers at any time. The soft plastic containers are a particular hazard; "inhalation of the dust can be extremely harmful," he said.

Believer In Equal Time Prints Letter From A Trapper's Wife

DEAR HELEN:

I know you won't print this because you are opposed to the trapping of animals.

I am for trapping because, for the animal, it is an easier death than at the hands of Mother Nature.

Trappers help animals by keeping overpopulation down so they won't starve or get rabies. Traps don't hurt as much as people think. Modern traps, having no teeth, won't break legs. The animals will fight against them because they are scared, not in pain. Often a trapper will come upon an animal asleep in the trap.

I'll admit it is ugly to see an animal caught, but it's better than seeing him suffer for weeks at a time before he starves. Most states have repealed laws prohibiting trapping as they realize nature is cruel and beautiful at the same time, and she needs help on controls.

Nothing is more beautiful than a beaver fur. We trap beavers. We take only the cream of the crop and leave some to repopulate for later years. A lot of work goes into trapping. It averages out to about $1 an hour. Why bother, you ask? Because we are out with nature, hiking her woods, breathing fresh crisp air and getting exercise instead of sitting in a stuffy house all winter. — WIFE OF A TRAPPER AND LOVES IT

DEAR WIFE:

As a believer in equal time, I printed your letter. Okay? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In a recent answer, you mentioned "living miserably one day at a time" as the fate of an Al-Anon member whose husband is an (incurable) alcoholic.

I want to tell you that in Al-Anon we do not live miserably. Most of us are happier and better adjusted than my "civilian" friends. We have some members who have changed their entire life styles after learning to work this program. One Al-Anon wife said, "Thank God I married an alcoholic or I may never have had this wonderful program and learned the secret of living and of being happy!"

I meet people every day in the business world who are so messed up that I think, "What a shame his or her spouse doesn't have a drinking problem so they could learn how to live." I do not know any other place one could obtain this valuable knowledge without paying a terrific fee for it.

We learn individual happiness does not depend on others. We learn to be happy despite our mate's drinking. We learn how to live with a situation, and that we do not have to accept unacceptable behavior.

After a person has been in Al-Anon for a while, a decision is made. Some elect to leave their spouses; others decide to stay. Either way, they have become more complete persons. Often membership in Al-Anon inspires the mate to seek help with AA, and start his or her recovery.

People elect to stay with their alcoholic (which means "sick," not childlike) mates for many reasons, but they are not miserable. Make that clear to your readers, Helen. — N.M.

DEAR N.:

You read me a little wrong. I suggested that the wife remain in Al-Anon, but if she discovers after a few months that she is still existing miserably in her marriage, she "should return to real living" via divorce. (i.e. make the decision you mention.)

. . .And aren't you and your friend getting just a bit carried away when you "thank God you married an alcoholic or wish that fate on someone else? — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

SEW SIMPLE

A Gift You Make Is A Gift Of Love

By EUNICE FARMER
Distributed by Register and Tribune Syndicate

At this time of year, no one is very interested in serious sewing, so I shall fill part of the column with more gift ideas to make. Remember, a Christmas gift to make is a gift of love.

Here are some suggestions. Robes for the entire family, perhaps made from the cuddly velour fleeces — make them full length — you'll not only warm their hearts, but their toes as well. Shirt jackets for the men in the family — they aren't quite as tedious to make, and everyone loves them for leisure wear. Long jumper dresses for little girls, and jump suits for girls and boys.

Hostess aprons in gay, frivolous colors, perhaps trimmed in eyelet edgings. Wrap skirts are a sure winner for everyone; besides, you don't have to have the exact waist measurement. Pillows make a hit with everyone. The college and teen-age crowd love the large ones (anywhere from 27 - 36 inches square) for floor lounging. Fabric pillows, ribbon pillows and other variations are welcome too.

ALL OF THE above gift suggestions are easy to make, and with everyone money conscious today, these are gifts that are practical and usable.

Today we'll add a few more ideas for you to think about. To all the husbands who are contemplating giving their wives a sewing machine, may I offer one suggestion. Let her choose it. A sewing machine is not only very expensive, it's a very personal thing, and it will last for many years. She should check into many types and actually sew on them before making a decision.

I have known many women who didn't want to hurt their husband's feelings, but they were most unhappy with the machine that was given them. This is an item that shouldn't be purchased quickly.

Have you ever made fabric pictures? They're fun, and take only minutes to make. Go to your nearest art supply store (or have a handyman make your frame any size you desire). The fabric will be stretched over the frame and stapled to the back side. You can find fabrics that would be great for any room in your home. The best part of this gift is that you can change it quickly when you want another print.

Men still love ties that are made especially for them. There are so many choices of fabric, from polyester prints, pure silks, wool challis, lightweight wool plaids, etc. There are patterns in the pattern books, and most ties can be made in less than one hour.

BELTS MAKE great gifts. For him, try one of the striped elastics — add simple buckles and you have an instant gift. Tapestry type belts to wear with jeans can be made in minutes by simply adding a buckle. There are also many super buckles that you can give by themselves so that anyone can add their own belts and change them for different garments.

Purchase a small, handled, wicker basket, fill it with six to eight napkins in chintz or linen, machine hem the edges and you have a gift that all women would love. You may add a little bottle of wine, small artificial flowers or whatever. The best part of this gift is that it will become her sewing basket after the holidays.

My last suggestion for today is a round tablecloth. These are fun gifts, and again, very easy to make but very practical. Other gifty ideas are contained in my booklet, "Boutique Gifts." If you would like a copy, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

DEAR EUNICE,

I have found some heavenly fabric that is covered with sequins. I would love to use this for my holiday gown, but am wondering about the sequins and what happens to them when I cut, press, and stitch over them? — MRS. M.M.T.

DEAR MRS. M.M.T.,

Naturally, all-over sequin fabric is a little challenge to anyone who doesn't sew a great deal. However, it really isn't too difficult to work with. There are many qualities to choose from, but I would recommend a good quality to eliminate many extra problems. If it is lightweight, back it with polyester chiffon for easy handling. You will notice that the sequins have each been sewn on the fabric with three threads; therefore, if you cut through them, they will not all ravel off. Choose a very simple pattern with a minimum of seams.

Be very careful when you press. Press only on the wrong side, over brown paper (press on a scrap of fabric first). If your iron is too hot, it will take all the luster out of the sequins and they will look too flat. It is sometimes advisable to cut some of the sequins away from the seamlines. If there is a spot without sequins on the right side, you can take glue and carefully add a few extras wherever needed.

The seams will never look flat, as this would be wrong for this type of fabric. To keep seams open, press carefully and then catch stitch each side of the seam to the wrong side of your fabric. This beautiful fabric can be used for skirts, bodices, gowns, vests or whatever. It is truly glamorous, but very costly, so work carefully and cautiously with it.

DEAR READERS,

How often I've heard you complain about not being able to find the type of garment you are looking for without going through 500 pages of a pattern catalogue. You'll be happy to know that Vogue has done something about this for you. In the back of the newest Vogue catalogue is an index of many categories.

For instance, if you are looking for a vest, it will give you several pages of pattern ideas to check into: a jumper, long skirts, shirts, accessories, or whatever. It is such a great idea that I am hoping all the pattern companies will follow suit.

CULTURAL PROGRAM — Mbulwa (Dorothy) Mutunga of San Rafael displays and explains the significance of an African carving to primary grade students at Bahia Vista School, one program in the mini-cultural exchange now going on at the school.

Students Are Told About Africa

Admission to school in Nairobi was once based on the size of the child, not his age. A small child might not begin school till he was 10, 11 or 12. This information was shared recently with students at Bahia Vista School in San Rafael by Mbulwa (Dorothy) Mutunga as part of the school's study of foreign lands.

As one aspect of its Early Childhood Education program, the school in the canal area of San Rafael is offering a multicultural program to students, with the emphasis on cultures represented in the school population. Mrs. Mutunga is the mother of a Bahia Vista student, Kakui, and the wife of Steven Mutunga, a teacher of Swahili and African culture at Tamalpais High School.

During her two visits to the school, Mrs. Mutunga displayed artifacts from Africa and discussed environment, geography, wild life and languages of her native Kenya. She will ultimately share her knowledge with each child in the school.

Other cultures to be studied, representing families in the school, will be Korean, Chinese, Japanese, French, Spanish, West Indian, Indian and Pakistani.

After the parent has shared his or her cultural experience with the school children, appropriate art, music, cooking and language activities will follow in the classroom, according to Barbar Rosenberg of the San Rafael City Schools public information office.

LOS ANGELES PROJECT — This is a model of Centrum, a new high-low rise commercial-recreational complex that is planned to be started next year in Los Angeles. It will feature a new hotel, business offices, department stores and a large atrium (foreground) capped by a 15,000-square-foot skylight. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

Centrum: High-Low Rise Project

By CURTIS J. SITOMER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LOS ANGELES — A new high-low rise commercial-recreational complex on the 1975 construction schedule for downtown Los Angeles is appropriately called Centrum.

Developers say the 2.8-million-square-foot array of shops, theaters and office and hotel space is one of the largest commercial structures ever undertaken in the western U.S.

It is hoped that this project will complement the Broadway Plaza "megastructure" — a similar multi-use complex of stores, offices, parking and recreational facilities in the downtown area.

Centrum's distinct features incorporate:

A 3-million-cubic-foot central atrium rising 165 feet through an ascending series of balconies and terraces and topped by a 15,000-square-foot skylight.

Over six acres of interior sunlit walks, streams, lakes, and other colorful garden-type landscaping.

Four levels of department stores, retail shops, restaurants, theaters and banks.

A low-rise garden-type hotel with 500 guest rooms and dining, ballroom and meeting facilities.

Three tiers of plush offices, especially designed for corporate and executive use.

Developer Thomas L. Karsten says: "We are trying to create a place people will want to come back to."

Designer-architect Raymond R. Affleck insists the new project will help make downtown Los Angeles "a stimulated, animated, and fun place to be."

Affleck designed Montreal's Place Bonaventure, a multi-use downtown structure with rooftop hotel and retail space below.

Centrum carries an estimated $125-million price tag. Developers hope to break ground soon and bring the project to completion by 1978.

A flat economy and mounting inflation have slowed its start.

With the completion of Centrum's hotel — together with two other highrise guest facilities in the vicinity — downtown Los Angeles will be able to accommodate 4,300 tourists by the end of the decade. There now are less than 1,800 quality rooms in the area.

Roman Mosque

ROME (UPI) — King Feisal of Saudi Arabia will put up at least $7 million toward building a mosque in Rome, the Saudi Arabian embassy said yesterday.

GI Charged With Not Obeying

NEW YORK (UPI) — William Nuchow — Teamsters union official, World War II veteran, and self-described "hard-hat type" — will fly to West Berlin today to testify that soldiers have a right to wear long hair and beards.

At issue is the fate of his son, Pvt. Robert Nuchow, 19, and another young soldier. They will be tried Monday for failure to obey a lawful order. The two were among 16 GIs who went on strike when told they would have to shave off their beards and cut their hair.

The maximum penalty for failure to obey a lawful order is six months in prison and a loss of two-thirds of pay.

In an interview yesterday, Nuchow said he stands "100 per cent" behind his son, who is attached to Battery C of the 94th Artillery Berlin Brigade.

Nuchow said the dispute developed last month and quickly escalated when the men in the unit were prohibited from wearing hair or beards.

Twenty-seven men in the battery went on a 24-hour strike. When an officer threatened to charge the men with insubordination and mutiny, 10 of the men gave in."

The senior Nuchow, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 940, talked to his son last week.

"He said 'Dad, you might not like this because you're sort of a hardhat type guy, but I'm still standing up for my principles.'

"Sure, I'm a hardhat type," agreed Nuchow, a veteran of the Fifth Army that served in Italy during World War II, "but I still can't imagine this happening in 1974."

Nuchow said 1,200 GI's stationed in Germany have signed a petition to Congress asking that the charges be dropped.

"And Robert has a lot of support among the Local 840 membership too," the teamster official said.

Rocky Wins Committee Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee voted 26-12 yesterday to recommend the confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

By a vote of 26 to 12 — there were four more no votes than Gerald R. Ford got for the same job a year ago — the panel cleared the Rockefeller nomination for its next obstacle, eight hours of debate and a vote by the full House next Thursday or Friday.

Many of the members said they were concerned about a potential conflict of interest if the vice president belonged to a family which collectively is worth $1 billion, much of it invested in the nation's richest corporations.

The 17 Republicans and 9 Democrats who voted for Rockefeller said they could tolerate that, but the 12 Democrats who opposed him said they could not.

Rep. Charles R. Wiggins, R-Calif., said he had no qualms about Rockefeller, arguing that power could be abused by the rich or the poor.

"If the mere potential for abuse is unacceptable," he said, "the only answer is to eliminate the power of the office itself."

Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., who voted against Ford last year, said the nation was "only recently relieved of a President swollen with power and now we are asked to confirm a man swollen with wealth."

Can we take it, she asked, and then answered herself:

"Yes. It is not a comfortable position, but it's a livable one."

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said that "by approving Rockefeller, we are approving a merger of great economic power and great political power."

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., added it was a merger that "is more than this country should tolerate."

House, Senate Approve Massive Jobs Measures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House and Senate each passed multi-billion dollar programs yesterday to provide public service jobs for the unemployed and special benefits for persons out of work who are not covered by unemployment insurance.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate 374-2 a bill extending unemployment insurance benefits an additional 13 weeks for most Americans, giving them a full year of benefits.

Congress has put a high priority on these bills, and all are expected to pass in some form before Congress adjourns next week.

The jobs bills — passed 78-13 in the Senate and 322-53 in the House — do not differ in basic thrust but do differ in detail. Differences must now be ironed out by a House-Senate conference committee.

The $7 billion-plus Senate bill is more ambitious than the less-than-$5 billion House bill, but the money difference is somewhat deceiving because the Senate bill contains a one-year $4 billion public service jobs program while the House program is $2 billion but covers only six months.

The programs are designed to provide more than 500,000 public service jobs in such areas as hospitals, schools, police and fire departments, and park and forestry programs.

The Senate bill would distribute 75 per cent of the funds on an overall basis to all states, while 25 per cent would go to high unemployment areas. The House formula is 50-50.

Both bills would provide jobless benefits to workers in 12 million jobs not now covered by unemployment insurance — mainly state and local government employes, domestic workers and farm workers.

The Making Of A Symphony Performance

By BLAKE A. SAMSON

SAN FRANCISCO — In marked contrast to the San Francisco Opera, the San Francisco Symphony has an open-door policy to the press and public. Nowhere does this policy show more than in the symphony's open rehearsal program, which started its second season yesterday at the opera house.

True, the opera opens four rehearsals to their guild members but wealth is the open-sesame there and those so-called rehearsals have become nothing but a run-through that all but passes for a polished performance. The difference is between public relations window-dressing and an open, informative plunge into the actual makings of a performance.

SEIJI OZAWA
Genius at work

The symphony's open rehearsals start with an hour's talk by Harold Schmidt, professor of music at Stanford. He highlights segments of the music to be heard; but it is the three-hour rehearsal itself (starting at 10 a.m.) that is the real public service.

For $3, the proceeds going to the musicians pension fund, the very inner workings of symphony and conductor are open for all to see. It is a valuable experience.

This week the orchestra was rehearsing Mozart's Symphony No. 38 in D Major (The Prague), George Crumb's Echoes of Time and The River and Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 in E Flat Major (The Eroica).

When conductor Seiji Ozawa enters, the pleasantries of a performance are observed: He shakes the hands of the concert master and the associate concert master.

He then mounts a large high-chair. He will jump on and off this chair throughout the rehearsal, pushing it off the podium at one point in the Beethoven.

At first Ozawa sets dynamics and rhythmic developments. We are watching a master detail his brushstrokes. His concentration is mesmerizing; the plunging in and out of that concentration to give instruction is even more awesome.

"Three bars before E. Don't push us woodwinds. I'll try to show you." He speaks in a deep baritone voice as he taps the meter with his fingers. Then he stops. The note, a 16th note, is being held too long. "This one" he says, wiggling his ring finger, "this one is the one." He taps the finger with his baton.

The translation of structure into gesture is fascinating to watch. He plays through a segment, takes the orchestra back and breaks the segment into its components. We are brought through the very moulding of each part.

He signs a segment out, "Do, re, mi, so , fa, do ... now expressimo!" Most of the instructions are called out in Italian.

Not only are the segments played with presence equal to a performance, often played again and again, but their construction is delineated in a manner far more revealing than in performance.

"The first time, one, two, three, piano; the second time, one piano, two stressed, three piano." We hear the difference.

As Ozawa leaves, for the first of three breaks, he turns to the audience. "The next is going to be great," he says sparkling.

During the rehearsal of Crumb's score, those of the audience in the boxes are standing, leaning over the rail, sitting on the armrests. The whole atmosphere is loose and informal, but intensely focused on the podium. There are occasional whisperings but most stay quiet to be able to hear Ozawa's directions.

"I'm sorry," he says, running his fingers through his hair and spanking himself on top of the head, "Sorry, I make the mistake. I need pizzicati."

The concentration of the Mozart, the dissection of the Crumb gives way in the Beethoven to an exhausting explosion of momentum and energy. The smock now sticks to his back; underneath one can see the whole musculature of his shoulders and back. The magnetism is in full force.

"Crescendo! One, two." He makes a fist. "One, two." A second fist. He raises it high and plunges it down before him. The arms pound away in their sockets.

Suddenly in the middle of the run-through, he stops, stands motionless, listening to the underlying violas, cellos and basses. The stillness, the intent lack of motion suggests that he is pleased.

There is not a cathartic release at the end; only a final list of instructions and then a polite good-bye to the orchestra as he reshakes the concert master's hand and walks off stage.

Three hours have gone by in seeming minutes. They are filled with fascination. It is a rare privilege to see genius and the creative process so openly.

The five remaining San Francisco Symphony open rehearsals are on Jan. 29, Feb. 26, March 12, and May 7. Guest conductors will include Zdenek Macal, Aldo Ceccato, and Hans Vonk; guest artists will include pianists Christoph Eschenbach, Radu Lupu and Michele Campanella and violinists Stuart Canin and Isaac Stern. The lecture (with coffee and pastries) start at 9 a.m.; the rehearsal starts at 10 a.m.; The San Francisco Opera House, $3 general admission.

Hard-Working Owners Turning The Victorian Into Fine Place

At the northeast corner of Petaluma Boulevard North and Washington Street in downtown Petaluma there's an old brick building that's been standing there for years and years.

There may be oldtimers around who remember just how long it has been there, but I doubt it. It's of a style of architecture of a few generations ago and may have been built before the turn of the century. What its original purpose was I don't know. Within my memory it has housed several restaurants — some good, some not so good, some perhaps of questionable character.

Not much more than a couple of months ago two men previously of Sebastopol took it over, redecorated it inside in keeping with its high ceilings and other natural endowments and called it appropriately The Victorian. They garnished it cleverly with rococo, nice linen and a friendly atmosphere. And being of a friendly disposition themselves they began to attract customers who wouldn't step inside the place before.

A simple menu with good food, the right prices and quick, efficient waiters to serve it was all that was needed to induce the customers to return. Joe Frauenhofer and Richard De Lena also must have been good at their previous small restaurant (Don's) in Sebastopol, for many of their erstwhile patrons have followed them to Petaluma. Club groups have taken up the cue and may parties and banquets are being served.

Both partners work hard in the restaurant — Joe often in the kitchen helping or spelling chef Carl Sutherland (who used to be at Golden Bear Lodge in Kenwood) and Richard as a maitre d' who doesn't hesitate to bus a table when it's necessary to put it into service.

Complete dinners, served from 5 to 11 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and from 2 to 9 p.m. on Sundays, are priced from $3.95 to $10.75. That last figure is for the restaurant's charbroiled lobster tail and choice filet combination. Lobster tail alone is $10.50; a New York steak is $7.25; filet mignon $8.25. But those are prices you expect to pay for these high-cost items.

Everything else is $3.95 to $6 — chopped sirloin, cross rib, broiled or fried chicken, veal cutlets, prime rib on Thursdays, Friday and Saturdays, oysters, prawns, scallops, sole almondine and a combination seafood platter. These include tossed green salad, soup and French bread. There are also a la carte appetizers, salads and desserts.

The Victorian serves lunches, too — Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. — burgers, hot sandwiches, salads and omelets. A grilled crab sandwich special topped with cream cheese and lemon sauce goes at $2.95, a steak sandwich $3.50, crab or shrimp louie at $3.75. Barbecued beef or ham is $1.85 and there's a $1.55 diet plate. Downtown businessmen like the place.

The Victorian's bar is a long one and there is organ music Friday and Saturday nights and sometimes during other evenings. I am told that the Baldwin console was the personal instrument of the late and beloved Doris Gurley, who was not unknown to Marin aficianados of the organ. There is a small dance floor.

IF YOU ARE STYMIED on what to give someone for Christmas, Guy Francoz, co-owner of Le Camembert in Tamalpais Valley has a good idea — present one of this restaurant's gift certificates. He's confident it is one gift that will be long remembered after it is consumed.

But if it's presented in advance be sure to tell the recipient it won't be good on Christmas Day or New Year's Day, for the restaurant will then be closed. However, I don't see anything in the book that says its face amount can't be applied on a New Year's Eve fling — if reservations are made in time.

NIGHTLY THROUGH next Thursday (except next Wednesday), Santa Claus is appearing at 6:30 p.m. at Cal's Steak House in San Rafael. Youngsters like the place anyway, so why not take them there during the next week and add to their enjoyment?

THE NEW Velvet Turtle in San Rafael has a rather busy holiday schedule planned this month.

Beginning Monday and extending right up to the day before Christmas it will open an hour earlier in the morning and serve lunches from 10 a.m. — soups, salads, sandwiches, omelets, steaks, brochettes, barbecued prime rib bones and prawns — and of course, cocktails. The idea is to make the restaurant a place to stop and relax between shopping visits across the highway at Northgate.

And on Christmas Day dinners will be served from noon until 9 p.m. There will be a special holiday menu of seven or eight entrees. The same goes for New Year's Day, except dinners will be from 4 p.m.

New Year's Eve dinners will probably follow the same schedule — seven or eight items. Reservations are now being taken for 4 p.m., 6 p.m., 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. There will be party favors and entertainment.

MANY RESTAURANTS, of course, close on Christmas Day, but here is another one that is a good bet for Christmas dinner — the Pepperwood in San Anselmo's Red Hill Shopping Center. In fact, it will be open all day long from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Lunches will be served until 2 p.m. and dinners start at 2:15 p.m. Regular menu will be in effect. Turkey is included among the several entrees. There is a bar and cocktail lounge.

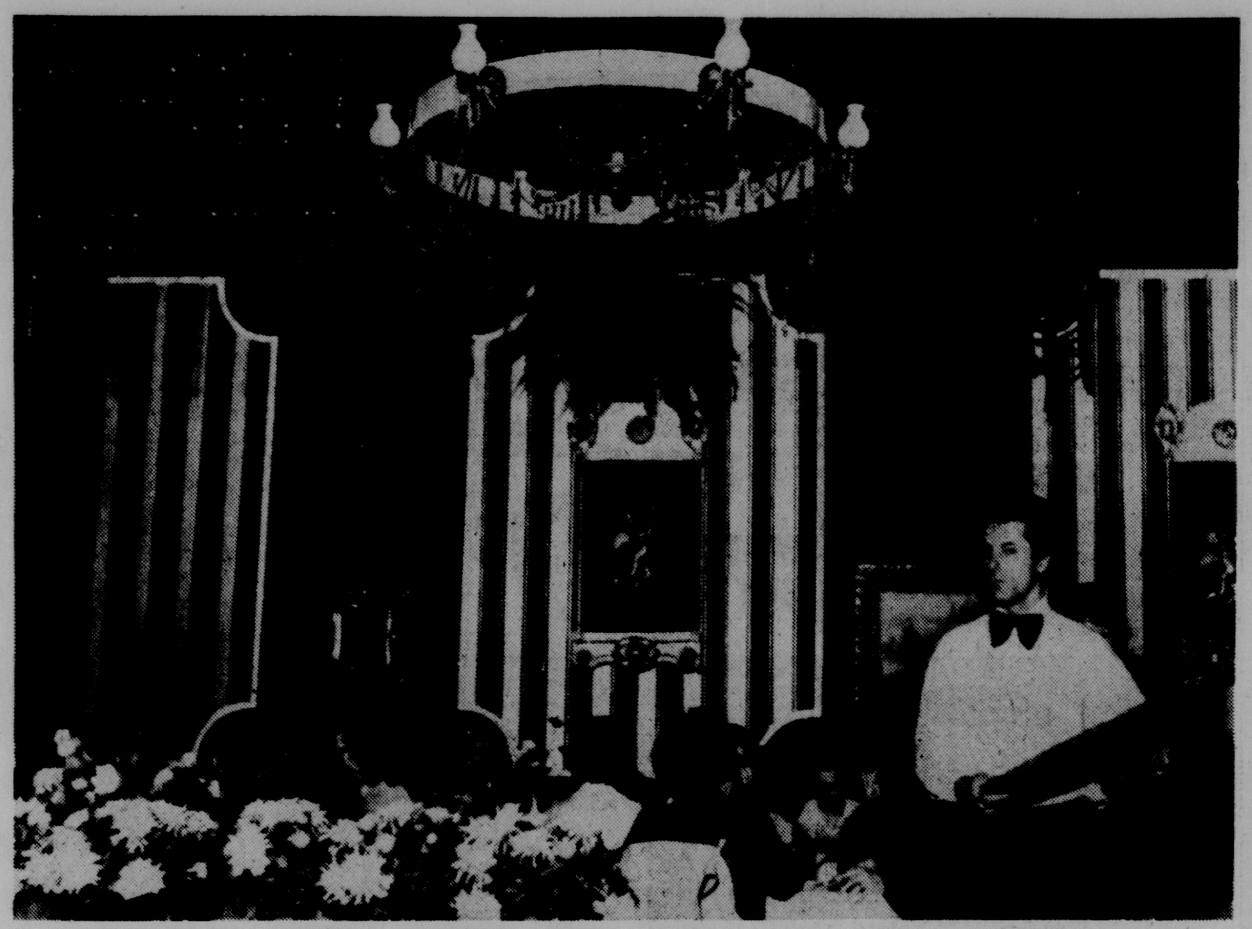

I DON'T KNOW what would happen if that organization known as the SPPES decided to disband and not hold its annual meeting in December at La Petite Auberge in San Rafael. It's a cinch a lot of secretaries who are members would be unhappy, and for that matter some of their bosses, who are also members. Fortunately it won't be this year.

So, on a certain day next week at noon there will be a big ado under the rambling wisteria vine — a place where ordinarily there's nothing doing around noon because the restaurant is closed until evening. But on this day La Petite will open its doors to the Society for the Preservation and Protection of Executive Secretaries. There will be food and drink, laughter, song and merriment and this will go on for about three hours.

After that, everyone will noisily fold their tents and steal back to their offices (or somewhere else if they haven't got it out of their systems). And there won't be another such meeting of the SPPES until next December at the same place or any offocial business conducted during the intervening months. Once a year only, members obey a signal to convene and celebrate for the sake of celebrating. It's quite an affair while it lasts.

This is what one group does at La Petite Auberge. There's no reason why yours can't do the same thing, if there are 50 or more of you. Just phone and ask Paul or Pierre or Roger about making arrangements.

LE CHATEAU in San Rafael has changed its schedule, closing Sundays. Dinners are now served Tuesdays through Saturdays and lunches Mondays through Fridays. The bar in open Monday through Saturday.

Amtrak A Long Way From Profits

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Not only are U.S. passenger train fares up 10 per cent, but:

Gone by the end of this month will be the 50 Amtrak service representatires (stewards) who walk the trains on the longer routes to make sure passengers are happy and children have games to play. They cost Amtrak about one-half million dollrs.

Gone too will be close to 200 clerks in Amtrak reservation bureaus. A corporation spokesman stresses that the cut, largely accomplished through normal attrition, is in response to a smaller volume of calls. And more service cutbacks are still possibilities.

But despite such belt tightening, making U.S. passenger trains profitable — Congress's original goal for Amtrak — still appears an impossible dream in 1974.

While the quasi-public corporation which took over most railroad passenger service three years ago has successfully reversed the steady decline in passengers and revenue, the taxpayer foots about half the annual $400-million operations bill.

Amtrak's operating deficit is expected to climb from $172.8 million in fiscal 1974 to $238.2 million in fiscal 1975.

All the usual reasons, such as fuel, labor, and general inflation, apply.

So does the fact that Amtrak has been obliged by its congressional mandate to take on an average of one new service route a month over the past year.

"Congress froze all present trains through 1975," explains Amtrak spokesman Bryan Duff, who suggests that Congress's original for-profit philosophy "may now have changed somewhat" in view of the energy crisis and other developments.

Even as things stand, Anthony Haswell, chairman of the National Association of Railroad Passengers, asserts that "the public is not yet getting its money's worth out of Amtrak."

There are some bright spots on the horizon.

Partly because of the energy crisis, the number of passengers by the end of October was up 23 per cent over last year. The rate of increase has fallen, however, on long-haul routes.

On-time performance is better, too.

"We cracked 80 per cent for the first time in September," says Duff, explaining that during the last two years the average for on-time arrivals was between 30 and 40 per cent.

One reason that situation may be better is the contract arrangement Amtrak has been working out with each of its 12 railroads, docking them some of their profits if trains are late, unkempt, or without proper heat or air conditioning.

Also, some 9,000 employees such as waiters, porters, reservations clerks, many of whom used to work for the railroads, now work directly for Amtrak.

While conceding this is progress, Haswell suggests there is need for more direct Amtrak employment of conductors, trainmen, and maintenance people — "Amtrak has got to get hold of more of its operations with its own people."

More than 300 new cars are scheduled to go into service soon, too. And most of the present 1,800 have been refurbished.

However, the facts are that U.S. railroads are subsidized $12 per person.

The only profit from passenger service has been in the busy Northeast corridor, and it is there that Amtrak officials are placing their hopes for the future.

At best, however, even with one area of service subsidizing another, breaking even is all the most optimistic experts are hoping for.

Beef is still a favorite with Californians! At the Saucelito Water Works Restaurant our dinner specialty is beef (only USDA aged Midwestern) along with daily fresh catch from the sea, served up with a warmth and hospitality reminiscent of early California. GETTING SET: — Thomas S. Price checks the scene in his Civic Center office as he prepares to tackle the county business that will be his concern after he is sworn in as a supervisor at next Tuesday's board meeting. He was appointed by Governor Reagan to succeed Michael Wornum.

San Quentin Lockup Is Relaxed

Violence between blacks and Chicanos appearing about to erupt yesterday at San Quentin led to an immediate lockup, but officials today reported that a meeting last night "into the wee hours" among leaders of both ethnic factions led to lowering of tension.

Acting Warden Donald Weber said that there was some tension between the two ethnic groups yesterday morning, but the situation seemed to be coming to a head after lunch when black and Mexican-American convicts squared off at opposite ends of the big upper yard.

Two men from each group came out and talked to each other, Weber said, but when watching guards thought the inmates were about to rush each other, extra guards were called to the guard rails.

A lockup order then was broadcast by loud speaker, and all the inmates involved were locked up, Weber said. He explained that many of them would have been locked up anyway but some would normally have reported to jobs or school.

Officers called in leaders from each group, Weber said, and agreed to talk to the inmates in an effort to "cool" the tension.

"We hope it works," the acting warden said, "and we can keep things peaceful for the holidays."

A normal routine was being followed at the prison today, he said.

Cause of the tension, he said, apparently was the stabbing of a black inmate last Sunday and threats of retaliation by blacks against Chicanos.

Four Corte Madera Councilmen Served With Hahn Suit Papers

Four Corte Madera town councilmen last night were served with summonses as defendants along with the town in the $10 million lawsuit filed by a developer.

Developer Ernest W. Hahn is alleging the council obstructed his efforts to build a regional shopping center, and is seeking to recover damages from the town and Councilmen Jana G. Haehl, Larry P. Weingarth, Joel A. Shawn and Mayor Robert J. Flahive.

The four are supposed to file written pleadings within 30 days, Mrs. Haehl said.

Councilman Herber C. Leney was not served.

It was just another part of a difficult night for Mrs. Haehl, who 25 minutes earlier, at 7:30 p.m., discovered a $200 tape recorder had been stolen from the back seat of her unlocked car while she was visiting for five minutes with a friend at 326 Corte Madera Avenue.

If he plays the tape which was swiped with the machine, the surprised thief will hear a chorus of children and mothers singing a song in support of Corte Madera's upcoming open space bond issue.

If the tape is not recovered, Mrs. Haehl said, guitar-playing open space backer Brenda Brown will have to round up her chorus again and rerecord the song.

Despite her tribulations, Mrs. Haehl was able to make it to last night's meeting of the bond issue advocates, at which Dan Simmons and Ralph Kalinowski were chosen cochairmen of the group.

CHOIR NAME OMITTED IN REVIEW

In yesterday's review of "Holiday in Song," mention of the Saint Sebastian's Chatolic Church choir was mistakenly omitted. It was not Independent-Journal critic Blake A. Samson's intention to slight Saint Sebastian nor its director, Gary Walker, who was also responsible for the coordination of the full program.

The choir, largest in size, sang two extremely difficult selections, Bach's "Praise Ye the Lord of Hosts" and Gustav Holst's "Christmas Day."

The Holst piece builds until complexity compounds complexity with various traditional Christmas carols intercutting the central theme. The choir rose to the high demands of the piece, overlapping the vocal parts with precision. Walker then conducted the finale, Handel's "Hallelejah Chorus."

New Supervisor Says County Governing Can Be Streamlined

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Belvedere vice Mayor Thomas S. Price, who will be sworn in Tuesday as Marin's newest county supervisor, hit civic center yesterday with a vicelike handshake and a conviction county government can be streamlined.

Just how will be a matter of time and study, the 47-year-old management specialist said during a pause in his afternoon agenda of introductions and preliminary pleasantries.

"I'm sure the same management principles can be applied in government as in business," Price explained, adding he agrees with the idea of a stronger county administrator's office.

Price, a stockily built man who played four years of football at Principia College, was appointed Wednesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan to fill the unexpired term of Michael Wornum, who won election to the state assembly.

Price served as campaign chairman for Wornum's chief opponent, Republican A. Alan Hill, and won appointment to the third supervisorial district seat over two other prominent Republicans — Virginia Brunini of Tiburon and Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley.

He served 11 years on the Belvedere City Council, from which he will resign Monday, four years on the Reed School District Board and five years on the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

He is virtually unknown among key county department heads and administrators.

Price is the president of United Building Products of San Francisco, a firm which specializes in buying and operating smaller companies.

The new supervisor said yesterday he is not a major stockholder in the compnay.

In issues facing him as supervisor, Price appeared more comfortable discussing those he had come in contact with as a councilman.

He favors county financed bus transit but said he "strongly fought" the tax rate increase measure last June "because it didn't do anything for Belvedere."

He will have to reexamine the issue from the perspective of representing all Southern Marin before taking a stand on a virtually identical tax hike measure on the March ballot, Price said.

Responses to other issues facing the new supervisor include:

WATER MORATORIUM — Doubts that a water shortage actually threatens the county. "I'm disappointed the water board hasn't acted faster to solve the problem" if one exists. "The moratorium is getting old . . . people are beginning to suffer from it."

GROWTH CONTROL — Supports the need for growth control, noting as a Belvedere city councilman he voted in favor of the county's proposed growth control ordinance. ("Of course, it was easy to vote that way in Belvedere.") He said he will support it in other Southern Marin communities.

SEWAGE AGENCIES — Does not like the idea of a consolidated sewer and water agency in Marin "but I don't know of any way to improve water quality except by a large agency. I don't see how a small district will solve the problems of water quality (and reclamation) without joining others."

HAMILTON AFB — Supports commercial aviation at Hamilton Air Force Base. "It's a valuable piece of property designed and located as an airport."

REDEVELOPMENT — No set opinion on the use of redevelopment funding for municipal improvements. However, "the ramifications of it in Tiburon were gross . . . it would hit the schools below the belt."

JUVENILE HALL — No set opinion on the future of juvenile hall and whether it should be phased out or scaled down as recommended by the Juvenile Justice Commission.

HOUSING — Agrees with the Board of Supervisors' decision to assume control over the County Housing Authority, saying it will help reduce the layers of government and improve public services. Agrees with the idea of county government pump priming private industry to supply low and moderate-cost housing if federal funds are not forthcoming.

ZONING — Agrees with the county's large-lot zoning to protect Eastern Marin's ridges and community greenbelts. The county should compensate property owners in some way if land values drop. (The county currently offers tax benefits, among other things.)

SECOND UNITS — Opposed to legalizing "mother-in-law" apartments in single-family residential areas.

APPOINTMENTS — Does not plan, for the time being, to ask for the resignations of Wornum's appointments to various county commissions and committees.

RANCHERS — Agrees with the Board of Supervisors' decision to subsidize ranchers with local funds to improve dairy waste control facilities.

Price, who lives with his wife and two children in a showplace home at 7 West Shore Road, said he thinks he will be reelectable at the end of his current term in 1976. He said he has made no decision on whether he will run.

Tempo Rises In Filings For Election

The trickle began to turn into a stream this week as nine candidates, including six incumbents, filed papers for the March 4 school board elections.

This brings to 18 the number who have filed for the 47 seats being contested. Deadline is Dec. 26 for San Rafael and Jan. 3 elsewhere.

Three persons filed for seats on the Marin County Board of Education — newspaper reporter Joan H. Lisetor of 11 Rafael Drive, San Rafael, for area two; teacher James A. Carroll of 76 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross, for area four; and hotel keeper Lee C. Richardson Jr. of 45 Madrone Avenue, Inverness, for area seven. Carroll and Richardson are incumbents.

Other incumbents filing were teacher Thomas A. Truchan, 175 Frustuck Avenue, Fairfax, for the Fairfax board; housewife Wilma McVey, 50 Forest Drive, Forest Knolls, for the Lagunitas board; housewife Liz V. Mertel, 20 Baywood Circle, Novato, for the Novato board; and accountant Francis X. Kelly, 4 Graceland Drive, San Rafael, for the San Rafael board.

Other nonincumbents filing were housewife Roberta P. Keiler, 70 Bigelow Avenue, Mill Valley, for the Mill Valley board; and educational volunteer Janet E. Goldberg, 31 Corte San Fernando, Tiburon, for the Reed district board.

A Message Kiosk Wins Council Nod

The Ross Town Council last night endorsed a proposal to erect a kiosk in front of the post office so citizens and the town can post messages.

The Ross recreation advisory board, which made the proposal, is to come back later with specific design and location plans.

The Ross Town Council also:

ELEMENTS — Adopted the circulation and housing elements of its general plan after holding a public hearing at which nobody spoke.

CLAIM — Rejected the claim of Gonzales, Berry and Battle against the town, a class action against numerous cities which seeks the return of fines levied for drunk driving.

AGREEMENT — Dropped consideration of the joint powers agreement for the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, since its approval is not needed for the county to be eligible for $8 million in federal funds the act provides.

MOSQUITO — Reappointed Robert R. Conway to a two-year term on the Marin Mosquito Abatement Board.

PROPERTY — Denied an application by W. Gerard Thompson of 19 Oak Avenue to subdivide his property to give two-tenths of an acre to The Cedars development school; granted a variance so Diane G. Oliver of Armsby Circle can construct a wooden deck; granted a variance so W. Conrad Hoskins of 64 Brookwood Lane can enclose part of his house.

Greenbrae Yule Tree To Be Dark

For the second consecutive year, the Greenbrae Property Owners' traditional Christmas tree is a casualty of the energy crisis.

The property owners voted last night not to string lights on the tree at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and La Cuesta Drive in order to preserve energy, according to James E. Miller, president.

In other action, the organization decided to waive maintenance fees for 1975. The $10 or $15 fees became unnecessary when voters approved a county service area for Greenbrae which began operation in June.

The organization also named Lee Camfield to its board of directors, replacing Lawrence Margetich, who resigned.

Chairman Quits Marine Post

Richard G. McDonald of Santa Venetia resigned last night as chairman of the Marin County Marine Activities Committee, citing frustration with county officials and the press of his own business as reasons.

McDonald agreed, though, to stay in the post until the January meeting of the group, according to E. Robert Jerome, publicity chairman. Jerome said a new chairman will be chosen.

The group, formed to seek improved and additional boating facilities in the county, next meets Jan. 9.

Convict Counterfeiter Costs Inmates $20-$30

A convict counterfeiter at San Quentin probably cost the inmate welfare fund $25 to $30 before his operation was discovered, acting Warden Donald Weber said today.

He said an inmate came up to him in the yard about three weeks ago and showed him a ticket "good for one Polaroid picture" that he had purchased from another prisoner for one pack of cigarettes.

Weber explained the tickets normally are sold at the prison canteen for $1 and are used to have pictures taken of prisoners with their visitors.

A check with the bookkeeper and the prison printing shop indicated someone had run off about 100 tickets in the 23,000 series and was selling them to other inmates.

Weber said about 25 to 30 tickets were used before the scheme was discovered.

"The profit from these tickets goes into the inmate welfare fund and is used to buy athletic equipment and for movies," Weber said, "so the men don't like this (the counterfeiting) either."

He said an announcement of the swindle in the San Quentin News brought a halt to the activity.

Waterfront Plan Will Be Discussed

The Sausalito City Council last night set discussion of the planning commission's report on interim planning guidelines for the waterfront and amendment to the waterfront general plan for 8 p.m. Tuesday at city hall.

The council also voted to remove meters from 35 parking spaces at Ensign Street, east of Bridgeway, and enclose the spaces in the city's adjacent paid-parking lot. City officials estimated that the change would earn the city some $5,000 a year.

March 4 Set For Recall Vote

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board last night set March 4 for a recall election against three of its directors.

Directors named in the recall drive are board chairman Byron O. Boulware, Jeanne Creemer and Arthur Crebassa.

Recall forces have obtained the 543 signatures necessary to qualify for the March 4 ballot.

Mills Felt 'Fatally Ill' By Colleague

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., said yesterday that Rep. Wilbur Mills, his congressional prestige destroyed by his association with a striptease performer, is "fatally ill — or thinks he is."

Mills, hospitalized for exhaustion, decided earlier this week to give up his powerful chairmanship of the House Ways and Means Committee, citing poor health as the reason.

Rep. Griffiths told a conference at the Washington Journalism Center that she and other members of the committee reached that conclusion that Mills is ill from what they have observed in recent days.

She said the committee members did not decide that Mills should be removed from leadership on the basis of his highly publicized friendship with stripper Fanne Foxe — "the rest of them have no reason to be so self-righteous" — but because it indicated he was sick.

"A well Wilbur Mills would not have done that," she said. "Mills is fatally ill — or thinks he is."

Mills, now hospitalized, told Speaker Carl Albert earlier this week his health will not permit him to continue as chairman in the next Congress.

Rep. Griffiths said many committee members were disturbed that Mills had not been as deeply involved in the committee work for nearly two years, but he "wouldn't give up the power."

Today is Friday, Dec. 13, the 347th day of 1974 with 18 to follow.

The moon is new. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Clark Mills, American sculptor of famous statues in Washington, D.C., was born Dec. 13, 1810.

On this day in history:

In 1642, New Zealand was discovered and named by Dutch navigator Abel Yasman.

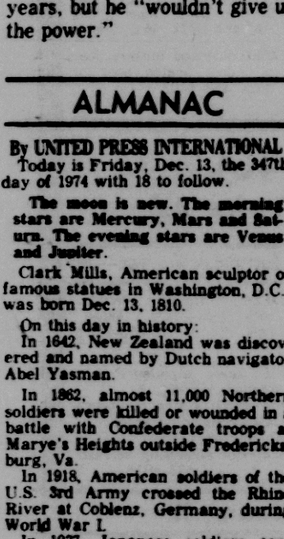

In 1862, almost 11,000 Northern soldiers were killed or wounded in a battle with Confederate troops at Marye's Heights outside Fredericksburg, Va.

In 1918, American soldiers of the U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River at Coblenz, Germany, during World War I.

In 1937, Japanese soldiers captured Nanking, China, and began a systematic looting of the city's homes and shops.

A thought for the day: Seeing a federal charge repulsed at Fredericksburg, Va., Southern Gen. Robert E. Lee said, "It is well that war is so terrible, or we should get too fond of it."

'Never Lead Away From King' Is Still Best-Remembered

When I was one-and-twenty I heard a wise man say: "Never lead away from a king." I didn't believe him, and I still don't — but you'd be surprised to learn how many gullible players listen to him.

WHAT TO LEAD

If West listens to the bidding he will lead a club. This is the best way to pick an opening lead: Choose the suit first and then decide which card to lead.

With a club lead the defenders take three clubs in a hurry and are bound to get a trump trick sooner or later.

If West has a fixed prejudice against leading from a king, he will probably open a low heart. Declarer should try the three top hearts. East must follow suit on the hearts, and South gets rid of a club. Now there is no way to lose the contract.

FEARFUL DEFENSE

At one table in a recent tournament West was so afraid of losing the king of clubs that he's still holding on to it — more than a month later. This breaks the indoor record for king-clutching.

This player led the six of diamonds. Somehow or other, this king looked safer than the king of clubs.

Declarer put up dummy's ace of diamonds and finessed with the queen of spades. West won with the king of spades and still shied away from a switch to clubs. He returned a heart.

Declarer won in dummy, ruffed a diamond and drew trumps. He then tried the hearts and won the rest of the tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 10
♥ - J 8 3
♦ - K J 8 6 4
♣ - K 10 8.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. You will raise hearts next, thus showing a hand too strong for a single raise but not good enough for a double raise.

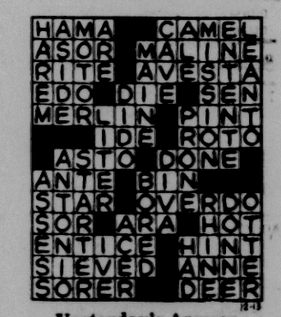

Discuss Environment

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russell E. Train, director of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, yesterday discussed measures to protect the environment with President Nikolai V. Podgorny in a Kremlin meeting, the Tass news agency said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Reaction To Pain Varies With The Difference In Threshhold

Pain is a simple, four-letter word that means "a more or less localized sensation of discomfort, distress or agony resulting from stimulation of specialized nerve endings."

Yet this complex process is so intricate that one's reaction to it often defies description.

What are the limits of human endurance to pain? We don't really know since it is almost impossible to accurately measure pain. What we do know is that this very subjective reaction to injury is aggravated by one's mental state, anxiety, temperament and lack of sleep, and that the brain controls the degree of pain you experience.

SOME PEOPLE moan and groan when they are injured or in pain. Others tighten their lips and say nothing. The reason is an inherent difference in each individual's pain threshold.

Emotional responses to injury or sickness are affected or modified by accompanying circumstances, whether or not it is an on-the-job accident, or particularly when the question of compenstion or blame comes up. If the boss says "forget it" or there are undertones of "crybaby" from others, an employee is likely to exaggerate his injury and stay home longer than necessary.

An emotionally disturbed employee tends to remain disabled, despite adequate treatment. He fails to return to work after the usual time given for a similar disability. This response often stems from anxiety about his future and that of his family.

OTHERS DEVELOP a neurosis (conversion reaction). They use the disability to satisfy their unconscious emotional needs. They are not feigners or malingerers; they honestly believe that the injury is completely disabling.

Neurotics usually have a bad industrial health record. Long after the original illness or injury has healed, their complaints continue. Many of them have had a lifetime of stress, and the conversion reaction merely converts their pent-up feelings and tensions into symptoms. Unfortunately, the psychiatric aspects of their problem often are not recognized.

HEART ATTACK

R. G. writes: Does a heart attack show in an electrocardiogram?

REPLY

Yes, it does. An electrocardiogram is one of the best means we hve for detecting cardiac damage brought on by the common heart attack. Enzyme tests and the stethoscope also are used for this purpose.

BLOOD IN SPUTUM

A reader writes: One of my firends who had tuberculosis has been given a clean bill of health. Yet he has had blood in his sputum. Not all the time, just once in a while. Does this mean that he is not cured?

REPLY

Blood in the sputum is not normal, but it may stem from a complication of tuberculosis, such as bronchiectasis, which is not contagious. When was his last chest X-ray done?

DROPSY, FRUITS

A reader writes: I have dropsy, which developed because of kidney disease. Can I eat citrus fruits?

REPLY

You may have all the fruit you like, since it doesn't contain sodium, which is restricted in edema (dropsy). In fact, since bananas, tomatoes and the citrus fruits contain potassium, they may help your condition.

HEART SPASMS

H. S. writes: What are heart spasms?

REPLY

The heart muscle, unlike other muscles, does not go into spasm unless stimulated electrically. In all probability, this is a pet expression used by your physician to explain angina pectoris, a certain type of chest pain.

PERTHES' DISEASE

H. G. writes: Last year, my 5-year-old grandson, Johnny, started to limp. The doctor who examined him told my daughter that Johnny has Perthes' disease. The leg was put in a brace and the poor darling is going to have to keep it on for another year. Is this disorder curable?

REPLY

Yes, it is. The hip is a ball-and-socket joint and, in this condition, the rounded (ball) part is flattened slightly due to temporary changes in the underlying bone. If the joint is rested for a long time, the outcome is excellent.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Consumer Confidence Found At Low Point

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Consumer confidence has reached its lowest point in years and government economic policies are only making it worse, according to a study released today by University of Michigan economists.

"The present combination of very deep consumer pessimism and decline in real incomes might make for a severe recession," the study said.

But government policy has massive influence, the economists said, and a shift in that policy "could have a very favorable impact on consumer confidence."

Instead of trying to cool down the economy, the government should now work to stimulate demand in the depressed market for cars, housing and other durables, the economists advised.

The study, based on interviews done by the university's Survey Research Center, said that attitudes toward buying cars and houses have reached a record low.

Consumers are deeply worried about recession and the prospect of bad times ahead, it says.

"In several respects, the government's economic policy in recent months has served to reduce consumer confidence and consumer spending," the study said.

"The message that the government is trying to slow down the economy has been clearly received by consumers, and has strongly reinforced the adverse impact of news about layoffs and declining sales on expectations about the economy and unemployment."

The economists saw little reason to expect a short-term shift in attitudes, but they stopped short of saying the current pessimism marks a fundamental long-term trend.

"Indeed, the survey data provide a number of reasons for long-term optimism, provided suitable measures are taken."

The research center's index of consumer pessimism had dropped to 58.4, down 13.6 points from May, 1974. The index is based on a rating of 100 points in February, 1966.

Sex Desire Unchanged By New Pill For Males

LONDON (UPI) — A birth control pill for men that produces no loss in sex appeitite has been sucessfully tested by two Australian biochemists, a British science magazine reported today.

Nature magazine said the pill used in the controlled experiment was a combination of a female hormone, estrogen, and the male hormone androgen already marketed as a cure for bone disorders.

The report said men testing the drug stopped producing sperm after nine to 15 weeks without any visible side effects except for slight nausea at the start of the program.

Sperm cells returned after use of the pill was stopped.

The magazine said there was no known loss of desire on the part of the men being tested.

Several male birth control pills have been produced before, but in each case usage has been accompanied by a sharp decline in sexual desire and the adoption of some female characteristics.

The two Australian scientists, Dr. Michael and Dr. Maxine Briggs of Melbourne's Alfred Hospital, said no such developments occurred in their experiment, according to the magazine.

In the test, four of the five men stopped producing sperm within nine weeks. The fifth stopped in 15 weeks of treatment.

At the end of the test, the magazine said, it was 15 weeks before any of the men began producing sperm again and nine to 10 months before sperm production was back to normal.

Jolene is doing well at Valley Medical Center without respiratory support while her two surviving brothers, Brian and Jason, are in serious condition with continuting deterioration of their respiratory system.

Mrs. Lange, 26, who had taken a fertility drug, gave birth to six babies Sunday. Each of the infants weighed slightly more than two pounds at birth.

Mrs. Lange gave birth to four babies when she took a fertility drug on another occasion, but none of those children survived.

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa is 59 today, Friday, Dec. 13. But he said in a breakfast radio interview he is "not a superstitious person at all."

He said he also was the 13th child in his family and that he was elected prime minister after 13 years in government.

For good measure, his golf handicap is 13.

Taylor Quitting Rolling Stones

MUNICH, GERMANY (UPI) — Guitarist Mick Taylor is quitting the Rolling Stones rock group, Mick Jagger, the band's leader, said today.

Jagger said Taylor is leaving the group after five and one-half years for "a change of scene." Taylor "wants the opportunity to try out some new initiatives. While we are all sorry he is going, we wish him great success," he said.

Taylor joined the group in 1969 to replace Brian Jones, who was found dead in his swimming pool.

The Stones were in Munich recording a new album.

East-West Troop Cuts Fail Again

VIENNA (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw Pact yesterday ended their 1974 negotiations on East-West troop cuts in Central Europe with no agreement in sight.

The 19 participating nations, ending their fourth session, decided to recess their meetings for about a month. The exact date for a resumption will be fixed in direct negotiations by the governments concerned, Polish delegate Tadeusz Strulak said.

Strulak, speaking for the Warsaw Pact countries, said: "No real progress has been made in the sense of any concrete agreement."

The conference on Mutual Reduction of Forces and Armaments and Associated Measures in Central Europe began Oct. 30, 1973.

Both sides have repeatedly blamed the other for an impasse in recent months.

The Western Allies want the Communists' numerical superiority in tanks and troops eliminated, while maintaining their own lead in tactical nuclear weaponry. They have proposed reducing NATO and Warsaw Pact ground forces to 700,000 men each, starting with the two superpowers of the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Communists have counterproposed that each alliance withdraw 200,000 men each in 1975, and reduce by 5 per cent in 1977 the land, nuclear and air forces of all nationalities.

In a compromise plan in October, they suggested the United States and the Soviet Union make the first cutbacks.

Rat Killer Likes His Job

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sanford W. Westphal and his German Shepard Bonnie are killers who stalk San Francisco's streets before dawn.

Their prey —the city's population of 300,000 rats.

"It's a challenge," Westphal said. "We don't make much money, but we have a lot of fun."

There are some drawbacks to the job, however. "There's a bunch of kooks in this town," Westphal says. "Some of 'em are even ready to start a lawsuit if they see you trapping a rat."

Westphal gets $850 a month from the city for his work.

The program is based on the Mary Norton book about a family of tiny "borrowers" who live beneath the floorboards of a house, venturing to the large world above them only to borrow things they need.

TELEVISION REVIEW

NBC Plans Rehash Of Old UFO Tales

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's good news for those who believe in unidentified flying objects is that NBC on Sunday will air a one-hour special about the weird world of UFOs. Now, the bad news.

The show, called "UFO's: Do You Believe?" is a tedious rehash of those UFO stories you tend to find in yellowing magazines in barbershops where one can still get a haircut for two bucks or less.

Considerably more money went into NCB's survey of flying saucers, believers and scoffers, but the only thing it seems to have accomplished is an exhibition of how to make a fascinating subject dull.

No new revelations emerge in tonight's effort, narrated by Jim Hartz in such a manner as to suggest that, on the whole, he'd rather be in Philadelphia.

All the UFO old reliables are called in, including the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena — NICAP — and Dr. J. Allen Hynek, a university astronomer and former Air Force consultant on UFOs.

What NICAP and the good doctor have to say about UFOs has been written and rewritten so often it gives old hat a bad name.

More than a score of purported UFO eyewitnesses also check in, ranging from an 11-year-old boy whom Hynek — but not the show — interviews, to two Mississippi men who last year claimed to have been inside a flying saucer.

But the only reported sightings I'd really tend to believe come from two professional fliers interviewed for the show — an Army Reserve helicopter pilot and ex-astronaut James McDivitt, who spotted a cylindrical-shaped object while on a Gemini mission in 1965.

And the claim of the Army pilot and his crew, while no doubt sincere, seems a bit diminished by the show's disclosure that their sighting "was selected by the 'National Enquirer' as the year's most valuable UFO evidence."

It goes on to say that this honor earned the crew "the newspaper's annual $5,000 prize for the best UFO case of 1973."

I don't dispute the crew's report, but I do suspect a good many other people would say a good many things about UFOs for such a prize.

But the NBC show doesn't go into this specifically or hoaxers generally, and doesn't make any effort to interview Air Force officers who actually participated in Project Blue Book, a since-canceled Air Force study of UFOs.

Scholarly believers and disbelievers of UFOs get their say on this show, but some of us maybe dozing by the time Hartz finally concludes that "it is a question of belief, and we must decide that for ourselves."

I believe two things about this show. One is that it'll get high ratings because no network has rehashed UFOs for quite a while.

The other is that the program will touch off a new round of reported UFO sightings, such as that whirring, lighted object hovering outside . . . my . . . window . . . Whew. It was only a press agent.

Grass Valley Wants Body Of Maria Montez

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — City fathers believe this Gold Rush boomtown should be the final resting place of Lola Montez, who titillated residents with her spider dance in the 1850s.

The City Council has decided to contact the mayor of New York City to discuss relocating Miss Montez' grave here from New York.

Miss Montez was at the height of her career as a dancer and entertainer and had an international reputation for her exploits with European royalty when she moved into a cottage in Grass Valley in 1853. She left two years later and died in 1861 in New York City at the age of 43.

Drug Abuse Cost Put At $10 Billion

ROBERT DuPONT
A conservative figure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Drug abuse will cost the American taxpayer more than $10 billion this year, a White House study released yesterday said.

Dr. Robert DuPont, director of the president's Special Action Office on Drug Abuse Prevention, said that for the first time the social cost of drug abuse, mainly heroin, had been figured.

DuPont told the North American Congress on Alcohol and Drug Problems that the $10 billion figure was a conservative one and included no indirect costs.

He broke the figure down as follows: Health costs, $200 million; lost productivity (not including reduced efficiency), $1.5 billion; criminal justice system cost,ppossession and trafficking only, (not related crimes) $620 million; property loss from crimes to support heroin habits, $6.9 billion; and direct program costs such as rehabilitation and drug traffic prevention, $1.1 billion.

DuPont noted that comparable estimate for alcohol had been set at $25 billion per year.

The drug expert also said that last year's optimistic reports on reduced drug use had turned out to be false.

"What looked like a continuing national trend of decreasing heroin addiction 18 months ago has turned out to have been a regional and temporary reduction in heroin use," he said.

It was during this period, DuPont said, that the supplies of heroin coming into this country from Turkey were replaced byheroin from Mexico.

He noted that efforts at controlling the problem have increased with the number of federal narcotics officers going from 300 in 1968 to 2,000 presently.

World's Fair Ends In Red

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Season ticket holders visited the Expo '74 World's Fair three times as often as fair officials anticipated, but the fair still wound up $500,000 in the red.

Outgoing General Manager Peter Spurney said yesterday fair attendance exceeded five million but the figure was inflated by season ticketholders who visited the fair an average of 15 times, instead of five times as anticipated.

Sports-Boat Show: It's Champagne Time

Tom Rooney is at it again, and this time he's doing it with the bubbly.

Rooney, a guy right out of the Barnum and Bailey mold, a cherubic sort, is the master showman who promotes the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show. He's the managing director of the show, the idea a man behind it.

Each year Rooney comes up with a gimmick boat, something unusual. This year it's the "Champagne Boat." The boat is shaped as an over-sized champagne bottle and powered by twin 40 horsepower outboard motors. And it's even equipped with a wine cellar.

I DON'T KNOW if you could make it all the way to the Farallon Islands or not, but you could sure have fun trying. With such a sparkling wine cellar built in, there would be an ample supply of fuel for the body.

The craft is being built by boat designer Donald Price of Santa Rosa and Price estimates the bottle should hold 1,035 gallons of California's best champagne.

With the theme of the 1975 show based on the bubbly, 54 California champagne wineries will be participating. There will be special displays of champagnes. It will be a very festive atmosphere, yes indeed.

The show, filling the Cow Palace grounds, will be Jan. 10 through 19.

That the "Champagne Boat" floats should not be a surprise to any of those who have been attending the sports and boat shows of the past. All Rooney's gimmick boats are functional. That's part of the game.

THERE HAVE been boats of all shapes through the years. There was a "Guitar Boat," a "Balloon Boat," and last year was a "Mark Spitz Boat," with a likeness of the swimmer in front and gold medals on the sides.

Rooney always comes up with a promotional idea to help sell tickets to the show. You saw that picture in the I-J Wednesday of Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma, dressed as Santa Claus, water skiing with a pretty girl on his shoulders. Mike, a former world champion and a guy who holds more water skiing titles than Hugh Hefner has girls, usually is more serious about his skiing but always wants to help Rooney publicize the show.

And, after all, Mike himself is an exhibitor at the show with information about his water ski school at Shasta Lake.

WHAT MAKES the show so successful every year is that there is something for everybody. It's not only a boat show, but has stuff for outdoorsmen, hobbyists and those interested in recreation.

A new special feature of the show this year is a concours d'elegance of bicycles, including a 15-speed number which sells for $600. Rooney, realizing there's a boom of bicycles in the U.S., isn't going to forget the bicyclists.

Queen of the show is the new Morgan "Out Island," a blue water cruising yacht, a 41-foot beauty equipped with three staterooms. Anything you see at the show is for sale, so if you like this little yacht all you have to do is write out a check. I'll be glad to go for a sail with you.

Attendance at this year's show is expected to exceed the 375,000 mark of last year. Rooney will be packing them in.

All Drake Players Score In Tourney Win

Hawaiian Team Bows In Other Contest

Getting points from every player on the roster, Drake High School annihilated San Marin last night, 86-47, in the opening round of the Drake basketball tournament in San Anselmo.

Junior forward Larry Brookins led the way with 19 points in the first half and 21 for the game as the Pirates notched their fifth win against one defeat this season.

Petaluma defeated Baldwin of Hawaii, 63-39 in last night's other game to gain a winners' bracket game against Drake tonight at 8:30. Terra Linda and Washington of San Francisco, winners of first-round games Wednesday, play at 7 following losers' bracket games between San Rafael and Novato at 4 and Baldwin and San Marin at 5:30.

In other first round tournament games yesterday involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Marin Catholic defeated Healdsburg, 62-59 in the Redwood Empire tournament, Redwood downed Pinole Valley 66-56 in the Wine Valley Festival and Tamalpais lost to Woodside 60-53 in the Riordan tourney.

All 13 Drake players scored. Senior forward Walt Gillespie sparked the rout with eight first-quarter points, and then Brookins got hot. "Larry played his best game of the year," said Hayward.

Petaluma 63, Baldwin 39

Petaluma easily handled a Baldwin team that appeared tired from too much touring around California. With Ron Morris, Jim Brooks and Kriss Mungle leading the way, the Trojans zoomed to a 34-15 halftime lead.

Marin Cath 62, Healdsburg 59

Sophomore guard Jerry Driscoll came off the bench to sink six key points in the fourth quarter as the Wildcats came from behind to win. After sinking two 20-foot jump shots to turn the momentum, Driscoll scored on a layup with a minute and a half left to give Marin Catholic the lead.

Redwood 66, Pinole Valley 56

Senior forwards Jack Hagler and David Del Grande scored 16 and 14 points respectively to lead the Giants into a second round confrontation with Napa tonight at 8:30.

Redwood coach Dick Hart played his second string throughout the second quarter, and they responded by increasing the lead by a point to nine at halftime. Terry London and John Fernbacher led the subs.

Woodside 60, Tamalpais 53

Andre Campbell scored 12 points in the third quarter to sew up Woodside's win and drop Tam into a 5 o'clock, losers' bracket game this afternoon against Salesian of Richmond. The Indians got 14 points out of Dan Butterfield and 12 from Kevin Murphy, but the best news was the return to the lineup of junior guard Dan Lucia, who had been out with a broken arm suffered in football.

ATLANTA COACH MARVELS
'Barry Is Playing Great'

BALL CONTROL — John Drew of the Atlanta Hawks (right), outfought Golden State Warrior Butch Beard for the ball in the first quarter last night in Atlanta. (UPI Telephoto)

ATLANTA (AP) — "Rick Barry's playing the greatest ball of anybody in the National Basketball Association," said Atlanta coach Cotton Fitzsimmons after the blond bomber of the Golden State Warriors helped destroy the Hawks last night.

Barry threw in 41 points, including 25 in the first half as the Warriors took a 69-49 halftime lead and coasted to a 129-109 triumph.

"It didn't matter who the Hawks put on Barry, it didn't make much difference," said Fitzsimmons of the 6-foot-6 veteran forward who connected on 19 of 28 shots from the field and added 10 assists, three steals and eight rebounds.

"The only thing that could have saved the Hawks tonight was for Barry to run into a door coming out of the dressing room," said Fitzsimmons.

Barry connected on his first eight shots and finished with 17 in the first quarter which Golden State led 33-32. Then Jeff Mullins, who finished with 24 points, came off the bench and teamed with Barry to give the Warriors a 20-point halftime edge.

"When Mullins came in, things just started falling right for the Warriors," said Fitzsimmons. Mullins had 12 points and Barry eight in the second quarter.

Keith Wilkes added 18 points for the Warriors. Rookie John Drew had 32 for Atlanta and Tom Van Arsdale chipped in with 24 as the Hawks saw their two-game winning string snapped.

One Of Poorest Seals' Efforts

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The California Golden Seals, after skating like somnambulists for two periods, were beaten by the Kansas City Scouts 5-3 in what Seals' coach Marshall Johnston called "one of our poorest overall efforts of the season."

Johnston was letting off steam last night after the Seals had dropped their 16th National Hockey League game on the road this year — and to an expansion team with an overall record worse than California's.

"I've often said that I haven't been disappointed in the team this year, but tonight I am," said Johnston. "We had far better chances, but it would have been an injustice if we had won."

The Scouts, now 5-21-2, led 4-0 early in the third period before the Seals came alive with goals from Butch Williams, Len Frig and Dave Hrechkosy. But Richie Lemieux scored his second goal of the game little more than a minute later to put the contest out of reach.

"We lost on a poor effort," said Johnston. "In the second period we had nothing at all.

"It can't be conditioning, because if it is, it doesn't explain our strong third period. It must be mental conditioning."

Johnston said the Seals have to score first if they expect to win.

"In our 30 games this season, we've scored first nine times and of those games we won six and tied three," he said. "In the other 21, when the opposition scored first, we lost 18 and tied three."

The Seals, 6-19-5, travel to Montreal tomorrow for a game against the Canadiens, 15-6-10.

Lower Pirate Youth Ticket Prices Slated

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Joe Brown, the Pittsburgh Pirates general manager, announced yesterday the club will lower youth tickets from $1 to 65 cents next season as a gesture to underscore president Ford's "whip inflation now" (WIN) program.

The new rate applies to children 16-or-under and would allow a family of four, with youngsters who qualify, to attend a Pirate home game for a total price of $5.30.

"This is another major item in our "win with the Pirates" campaign, for we are committed to participating in president Ford's 'Whip inflation now' program."

The Pirates made a general ticket increase last year, raising box seats from $4.15 to $4.50 and reserve seats from $3.15 to $3.50.

Spurs Select Bass As Basketball Coach

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The San Antonio Spurs today fired head coach Tom Nissalke and hired Bob Bass, general manager of the Memphis Sounds, to replace him.

John Begzos, general manager of the American Basketball Association team, listed reason for the dismissal as "conduct detrimental to the franchise" but did not elaborate.

Begzos and Nissalke had been at odds since Begzos took over as general manager earlier this season. The franchise operated without a general manager after Jack Ankerson departed last summer to take a similar job with the Virginia Squires.

"This is no reflection whatsoever on Tom's coaching abilities," Begzos announced following a meeting of owners at which the decision was reached.

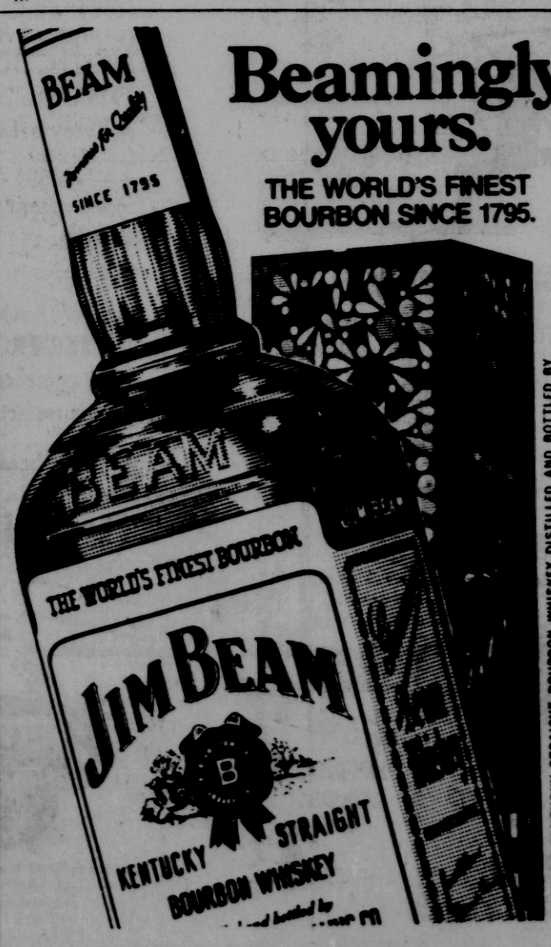

"We simply had to look at the best interests of the organization. We want to wish Tom well, we are now prepared to move forward to make San Antonio the best franchise possible."

Nissalke had openly criticized the front office for not allowing him complete authority on player personnel, such as letting him add an 11th player of his choice to the 10-man roster.

A Spurs spokesman said Bass would join the club tonight in Memphis in a game against the Sounds.

Nissalke last season took the franchise from a dismal record of 28-56 in Dallas during 1972-73, to a playoff spot with a 45-39 mark during the team's first season in San Antonio. The team is 17-10 for the current season, second place in the ABA West.

Nissalke also turned the Dallas club around once before. He inherited a team in Dallas that had gone 30-54, then coached the team to a 42-42 mark and a playoff berth in 1971.

Beamingly yours.

NHL ROUNDUP

Flyers' Goalie Good, Nervous

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Goalie Bernie Parent of the Philadelphia Flyers is having such a good season that one might think he is having a good time.

No chance, says Parent, who still gives a stock answer when asked what he enjoys most about playing in the National Hockey League.

"The five months we're off," he says. "I'm a nervous wreck the rest of the time."

Parent, who shared the Vezina Trophy with Chicago's Tony Esposito last season, scored his fourth shutout of the current season last night when the Flyers defeated the Minnesota North Stars 6-0. The victory raised Parent's record this season to 15-4-4 and enabled the Flyers to maintain their eight-point lead in the NHL's Division II.

Reggie Leach scored three goals and Rick MacLeish, Gary Dornhoefer and Bill Clement scored one each for the Flyers who have an 18-6-4 season record.

Boston routed Los Angeles 8-1, Vancouver beat Buffalo 5-3, Washington tied the New York Rangers 6-6, Pittsburgh tied Montreal 3-3, St. Louis shaded Detroit 4-3 and Kansas City topped California 5-3 in other games.

Bruins 8, Kings 1

Johnny Bucyk scored two goals and Phil Esposito connected for his 24th as Boston handed Los Angeles its first road loss of the season. It was only the third loss in 27 games for the Kings, who went into the game with a 6-0-5 road record.

Canucks 5, Sabres 3

Vancouver snapped Buffalo's 11-game home winning streak with the help of two goals and two assists by Gerry O'Flaherty. O'Flaherty opened the Canuck scoring at 5:29 of the first period and scored the decisive goal at the 18-second mark of the third period.

Capitals 6, Rangers 6

Washington, which has lost 23 of 29 games, gained its fourth tie with a three-goal rally in the third period. Jim Hrycuik capped the rally with 3:50 left to play with a 40-foot slap shot. Mike Marson and Steve Atkinson scored the other third-period goals for the Capitals.

Penguins 3, Canadiens 3

Wick Kehoe's 10th goal at 17:35 of the third period, lifted Pittsburgh to its tie with Montreal. Kehoe's goal came only 13 seconds after Yvon Lambert's tally gave the Canadiens a 3-2 lead and an apparent victory.

Blues 4, Red Wings 3

Gary Unger and Craig Patrick scored in the third period, enabling St. Louis to rally from a 3-2 deficit for its triumph over Detroit.

World Football League's Financial Life Is On Line

By CRAIG AMMERMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Some folks who are interested in owning a professional football team will be asked today if they are willing to shell out several million dollars each in the hope they may get it back in a few years. If the answer is no, the World Football League may die in a few months.

It will not be that simple, of course, but that does illustrate what must happen if the World Football League is to play a 1975 season without the crisis-a-minute features of its just-completed first year.

Birmingham, the World Football League champion, is one of the many franchises which must have new investors. Its and the league's plight were illustrated yesterday by Birmingham publicity man Tommy McCollister, who said, "Nobody around here's giving up. We're just like the Alamo. We'll be here 'til the last one is shot."

Owners of the World Football League teams and potential investors begin two days of meetings here today with league officials, including new President Chris Hemmeter.

Hemmeter has a reorganization plan which he says will prevent tax liens, failure to pay player salaries and the other problems the league suffered through as it lost an estimated $20 million in 1974.

But to make it work, he must find owners who are willing to lose a considerable sum over a period of three or four years before the league could hope to make a profit. Hemmeter's Hawaii team lost $3.5 million this year.

And that is the rub. Hemmeter believes the league only has three such franchises at present, and he also believes that if it does not have eight or 10 strong ones by March it will have to fold.

Other topics which the owners may discuss are a college draft, whether to once again begin the season in July, and whether to switch from week nights to weekends for its games. There also is the matter of an estimated $5 million which league clubs still owe.

The franchises which appear strong enough are Memphis, Philadelphia and Hawaii. Hemmeter said the league has assumed control of the Chicago, Shreveport, Charlotte and Portland franchises, and sources say Chicago is the only city among that group which is guaranteed a team if the league plays another year.

The remaining franchises are Birmingham, Orlando and Southern California, all of which need new financing to survive under the present ownership. The league has reportedly threatened to repossess the Orlando franchise, and that could happen today.

NFL Playoff Teams Try To Stay Healthy

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

It seems like staying healthy rather than winning is the keynote for playoff clubs on the National Football League's final weekend.

All eight playoff spots have been filled and the contenders are just hoping to come out of this weekend in one piece prior to next week's opening round action.

Three division champions will be in action on national television tomorrow when Pittsburgh (American Football Conference Central) takes on Cincinnati, Minnesota (National Football Conference Central) is at Kansas City and Oakland (AFC West) entertains Dallas. (See TV-Radio sports log for times and stations.)

Sunday's action finds the New York Giants at St. Louis, Chicago at Washington, Buffalo at Los Angeles, Cleveland at Houston, New England at Miami, Detroit at Philadelphia, Denver at San Diego, the New York Jets at Baltimore, New Orleans at San Francisco, and Green Bay at Atlanta.

The only question left is who will be the NFC East champion and who will wind up as the wild card or best runnerup entry. St. Louis and Washington are tied for the NFC East lead and both are in the playoffs. A St. Louis victory would give the Cardinals their first division title since 1948 and send them against Minnesota next Saturday in opening round play. A Washington victory and a St. Louis loss would send the Redskins against Minnesota and the Cardinals against Los Angeles on Sunday.

In other first round action, Miami, the AFC East champion, will be at Oakland on Saturday and Pittsburgh plays host to Buffalo, the AFC wild card entry, on Sunday.

Sausalito Skier Wins Opening Race

Barbara Wood of Sausalito won the Women's A Class race of the Bay Area Ski/Council Far West Citizen/Alpine, according to the official standings released today by Al Flexer, BAC's vice president. Opening-day racing was held last Saturday at Mt. Rose.

Wood of Bechtal Ski Club was timed at 1.095 over a 3,500-foot modified giant slalom.

AND HERE'S TO YOU

Denver's star running back Otis Armstrong and his wife, Yvonne, were joined by Mike Currant (left) and other Broncos in a toast last night celebrating Armstrong's big year. In 13 National Football League games this season, Armstrong has gained 1,265 yards. To show his appreciation to his teammates, he bought them dinner in a Denver restaurant.

Shoemaker On Diabolo Tomorrow

SAN MATEO (AP) — Willie Shoemaker will be riding Diabolo, one of the West Coast's top-rated 2-year-olds, and Laffit Pincay Jr. will be on William Radkovich, a probable longshot, in tomorrow's $100,000 added California Juvenile Stakes at Bay Meadows.

A victory by Diabolo would give the horse owned by Frank McMahon two out of three in this year's West Coast triple crown races for 2-year-olds. Diabolo won the Del Mar Futurity but lost in the Norfolk Stakes at Santa Anita by a head to George Navonod, not entered here.

Shoemaker's mount will carry 122 pounds for tomorrow's mile and sixteenth event and start from the fifth spot. Al the Doctor, a winner in six of his last seven races, will be carrying 119 and start from the No. 4 position, probably as the betting favorite.

The field of 11 will be competing for a gross purse of $113,400.

WHA Stags Trade Pays Off

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

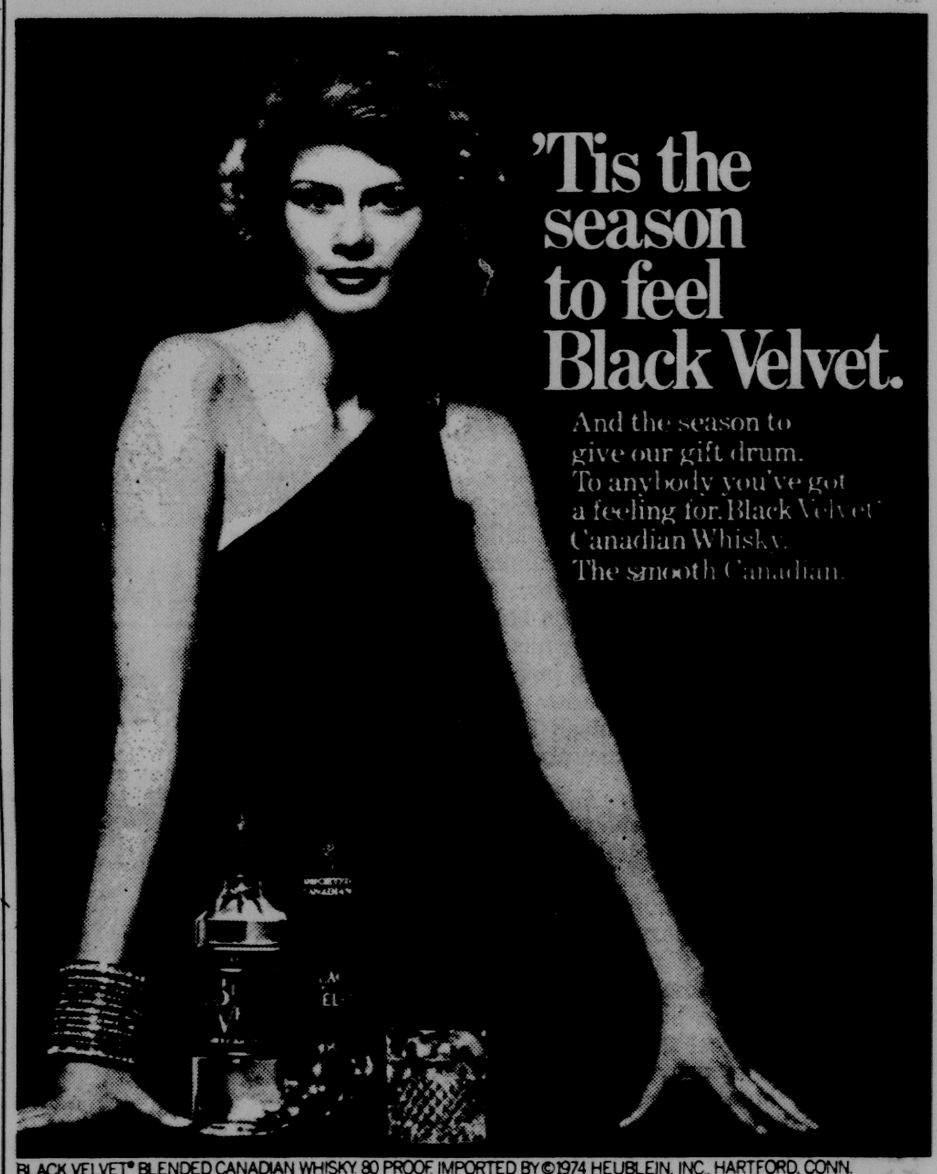

Pierre Guite wasted no time showing the Michigan Stags that they made a good deal when they acquired him from the Quebec Nordiques.

Guite, who went to the Stags in a deal last week, scored a three goal hat trick which included the decisive tally last night, giving the Stags a 5-3 victory over the Winnipeg Jets.

Guite scored his first two goals at the start of the second period to give the Stags a 3-1 lead and added his third goal at 6:52 of the third period.

Ulf Nilsson scored two goals and Bobby Hull tallied his 25th for Winnipeg.

In the other World Hockey Association games, the Nordiques downed the Cleveland Crusaders 5-2 and the Phoenix Roadrunners downed the Vancouver Blazers 4-2.

The next three spots were filled by Rosemary Casals, Nancy Gunter and Julie Heldman. Sharon Walsh of San Rafael is rated No. 20.

Things Beginning To Click For Kings In Basketball

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Kansas City-Omaha's smooth-shooting forward, Ron Behagen, played the first half against Milwaukee last night rarely even glancing in the direction of the basket. When he finally decided he ought to shoot the ball, though, everything began to go to click for the Kings.

In the third quarter he figured he ought to at least try his hand at shooting, and he hit 5-for-5 to lead the Kings to a torrid 71 per cent shooting pace in the period and a 113-105 win over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"Everyone else was doing so well in the first half that I didn't even have to put the ball up," Behagen said. "Sam Lacey and Nate Archibald were doing it and so were the guys who came off the bench. But I figured I'd give it a try in the third period."

The Kings trailed 48-47 at the half, but thanks to that 71 per cent shooting in the third quarter, they took an 83-77 lead.

And after that they took turns keeping the Bucks at bay and winning their second game in three meetings against the club that beat them in all seven games last year.

The win moved the Kings to within a half-game of the leading Detroit Pistons in the Midwest Division, a game ahead of Chicago and three games ahead of Milwaukee.

In other National Basketball Association action, Buffalo ripped Houston 124-113 while Golden State did the same, only worse, to Atlanta 129-109. In the ABA, St. Louis beat Utah 96-91 and San Antonio routed San Diego 117-98.

Braves 124, Rockets 113

Bob McAdoo scored 32 points and Randy Smith contributed 29 to lead Buffalo over Houston in Toronto before a disappointing crowd of only 4,519.

Spirits 96 Stars 91

Marvin Barnes scored 24 points and, along with Goo Kennedy, sparked a fourth quarter rally over Utah to make up a 10-point deficit and give St. Louis its victory.

Spurs 117, Q's 98

San Antonio dominated San Diego from the tipoff behind the 28 point scoring of Donnie Freeman.

Free Agent Quarterback Hart Leads Way On All-Star Squad

NEW YORK (UPI) — One-time free agent Jim Hart, who directed the Cardinals to their first playoff appearance in 26 years and the first since the franchise moved from Chicago to St. Louis in 1960, was a runaway choice for quarterback today on the United Press International's 1974 National Football Conference All Star team.

Hart, who was signed by the Cardinals as a free agent upon his graduation from Southern Illinois in 1966, easily beat out runnerup Fran Tarkenton of Central Division champion Minnesota for the quarterback spot. Hart, who leads the NFC in touchdown passes this season with 18, outpolled Tarkenton 30-8 in balloting by a nationwide panel of 39 sports writers, three from each conference city.

Ten of the 13 NFC teams placed at least one player on the All Star squad, with Washington leading the way with four, three of them on defense — the Redskins' specialty. The Washington All Stars are wide receiver Charley Taylor, outside linebacker Chris Hanburger, cornerback Mike Bass and strong safety Ken Houston.

The San Francisco 49ers placed center Forrest Blue and punter Tom Wittum on the first team and defensive back Jimmy Johnson on the second unit.

Griffin In Tears During Ceremony

NEW YORK (UPI) — Archie Griffin of Ohio State, a believer in the words that the "honor of the Heisman Trophy is a responsiblity," tearfully accepted college football's most coveted award last night and promised to make it meaningful to the nation's youth.

Griffin, only the fifth junior in history to win the Heisman Trophy, officially received the award before 1,100 people, including nine former Heisman winners, at the annual banquet and was so overcome with emotion that he could barely get the words out when it came his turn to speak.

Using a handkerchief to wipe away the tears, the 5-foot-9 running back said he still couldn't believe he had won the trophy, which has become synonymous with excellence in college football.

"Winning the Heisman Trophy is one of those goals in life that everyone dreams of but deep down inside no one believes he can get," said Griffin. "I couldn't believe it when I got it and I'm not sure now that I do. It's hard to imagine yourself as the winner.

"A long time ago my junior high school coach taught me about the three D's —desire, dedication and determination. He told me to apply the three D's to anything I do and I would achieve success. This trophy is especially meaningful to me because it represents excellence. And that's what the three D's are all about."

Griffin, the fourth Ohio State player to win the Heisman Trophy, had special praise for his family; his coach, Woody Hayes; and his teammates, especially his offensive line without whom he said "I couldn't have won it."

Prior to Griffin's speech, a former Heisman winner, Tom Harmon, spoke eloquently about what the Heisman Trophy had meant to him over the years. In his talk Harmon, directing his talk at Griffin, said that winning the Heisman would dictate unusual demands over the years and mentioned that the "honor of the Heisman will be your constant responsibility."

Griffin, taking Harmon's words to heart, closed his own talk with a word to the youth of America.

"If today's young people look up to the Heisman Trophy winner the way I did when I was a boy, I promise I will do everything in my power to be the greatest example," said Griffin.

No Wedding Set For Chris Evert

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evert joined her former fiance, Jimmy Connors, today in the throne room of American tennis and reiterated that separate roads lie ahead for the king and queen of the game.

There were no congratulatory phone calls exchanged when the two were designated as No. 1 in the national rankings this week by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

"There are no plans for a wedding," the 19-year-old Chris said from her home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., after being informed that she had replaced Billie Jean King at the top of the women's list.

Connors had been designated as best of the men, breaking last year's tie with Stan Smith, earlier in the week.

It marks the first time that either has been No. 1 and sheds some light on the mutual decision of the two young court stars to call off a scheduled fall wedding.

"We are both nearing the peak of our careers," Chris said. "It is an important period for both of us and a chance for us to make the most of it. I intend to concentrate on my tennis. I am sure Jimmy does also.

"I don't know when we would have seen each other. We will be on the road, playing different circuits. We realize how foolish it would have been to go through with the wedding at this time.

"We might have looked back and said to ourselves, 'Why didn't we wait?' "

So the bloom is off for the court sweethearts who thrilled galleries with their hand-holding romance from Sydney to San Francisco this year and led the waltz at the Wimbledon Ball after sweeping the singles titles.

Chris no longer is wearing Jimmy's engagement ring on the third finger of her left hand. The two no longer run up staggering phone bills with transcontinental and international calls.

"We have no strings on each other," Chris said. "I think we will both be too busy playing tennis to worry about the other."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Michigan's Dennis Franklin, called by his coach Bo Schembechler "the best quarterback in college football," yesterday was named to the East team for the Dec. 28 Shrine East-West football game at Stanford stadium.

Also named from Michigan, which tied Ohio State for the big 10 title but lost out as the conference's rose bowl representative, was middle linebacker Steve Strinko.

Defensive end Mark Petersen and center Joe Hatfield of Illinois were also named. That gave the east 15 players to date with 15 more to be named to round out the squad. The West team was completed last weekend.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Illinois linebacker Tom Hick severed a tendon in a campus accident and will not be azle to play in the East-West game. Executive director Bob Murphy said that linebacker Ollie Bakken of Minnesota has been named to replace him.

THE COCHRANS

First Family Of United States Skiing

By DAVE LANGWORTHY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

There is a house in the postcard country of Vermont where the breakfast of champions has been served three times a day for the past 25 years.

The Cochrans, American skiing's first family, grew up inside. Barbara Ann, followed by Marilyn, then Bobby, and finally Lindy — have each collected enough trophies to make the place tilt a little toward the den.

The house has a ski run right in the backyard. In the winter a rope tow runs up the shaved slope from after school until after dark. When the sun goes down the lights go on, and the skiing continues.

At first it was just for lollipops. All the neighborhood kids bolted down the hill in a free-for-all, and the ones who finished received candy. But the stakes are a little higher now.

Bobby, the family son, is 24, turned pro. This winter he'll be racing the Killys, the Spider Sabichs, and all the rest for a living on the Benson and Hedges Pro Ski Racing circuit.

Cochran will also be clutching the family banner alone for the first time. Barbara Ann is retired, coaching women's skiing at the University of Vermont; Marilyn has given up racing for schooling at the University of Montana; and youngest sister Lindy is on the U.S. national team but several years from her performance peak.

After all those years of reading about his sisters, the front and center spot is almost a relief. At least there's no more peeking out from behind tall shadows.

BIG SMILE — American skier Bob Cochran has reason to smile; he is a member of American skiing's first family.
(Christian Science Monitor photo)

"It wasn't as bad as it sounds," Bobby explains. "I was spared some of the pressures of growing up in an athletic family because of the sex differences. There was no fair way my performances could be compared with my sisters'. But it was kind of depressing sometimes to see them get all the press coverage."

Not that Cochran didn't deserve the ink — he was America's brightest Olympic skiing hope before he could drive a car. And by age 17, he had already spent a season on the European circuit, skiing's version of the demolition derby where young egos are concerned.

On 1972-73 World Cup circuit, Bobby became "the first American ever" in several world-class competitions: first U.S. male to win the Hahnenkamm title; first to win a World Cup giant slalom; and first to score in all three skiing disciplines — the slalom, the grand slalom, the downhill — in World Cup competition.

Why wasn't all that good enough to make Cochran's name a household word? American skiers are a breed of sports hero who hit the spotlight only once every four years — at winter Olympics time.

It's certainly different than in Europe, where skiers rank with movie stars, prime ministers, and Paris taxi drivers on the most wanted list. But there's a reason — America is to world class skiing what Poland is to basketball. And the U.S. champion is often not even mentioned in the world version of Who's Who in Skiing.

What would fix that? According to Cochran, an attitude change would help.

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Water District Lends A Hand

If it's not one thing, it's another. When the salmon went upstream to the spawning areas throughout Taylor Park, things looked great last week for the fish — except for the poaching problem. However, no more rains came; so the salmon run seemed to be in trouble again with the stream being so low.

What to do? We called the Marin Municipal Water District, and they immediately gave us help with a steady flow of water out of Kent Dam. We surely need rains, so the releases can be stopped and the water company can store the much needed water.

THE FISHERMEN at White House Pool are still taking salmon too. I saw someone Tuesday with a salmon about 15 pounds taken on a Mepps spinner. Carlo Nerviani of Fairfax got a 7½-pound steelhead in the bay. He reported several salmon also taken.

With the plants of Oregon salmon, and the Mad River salmon plants plus the natural run of Papermill Creek salmon, we can actually have three separate runs. Each of these runs has a different time for returning to the spawning beds from the sea. The heavy steelhead runs usually start around Tuesday. You have lots of time yet to catch your fish.

STRIPED BASS and sturgeon fishing can be good if you are in the right spot. John Hlebakos and a friend took two sturgeon and four stripers Wednesday fishing in the fog out off China Camp a mile or two.

Just about all the fishing is either by grass or ghost shrimp. You have to wait the fish out. Bullheads will also work but generally just on the stripers.

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled for December in Phoenix, Stafford, Bon Tempe and Lagunitas reservoirs. While checking the Papermill Creek salmon spawning areas, we have been surprised at the people coming down from Kent Lake with some good strings of trout. The lakes and reservoirs are open the year around now. The limit is five fish per angler.

THE DUCK HUNTERS seem to be having their problems. There are lots of birds on the refuges, but they are sitting tight. We need some rough weather to move the birds.

Field reports from the Department of Fish and Game indicate that band-tailed pigeons are widely scattered throughout their usual range as gunners await the opening of the general band-tail season tomorrow.

Because there is a general abundance of feed, the birds have not concentrated as they do when the food supply is limited to local areas.

Last year, hunters took about 272,000 pigeons. Leading general season counties were Monterey, San Luis Obispo, El Dorado and Amador.

Limits for band-tails are eight per day, eight in possession. Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The season in the 45 central and southern counties will run through Sunday, Jan. 12, 1975. A separate season for band-tail pigeons in the 13 northern counties opened Sept. 28 and ran through Oct. 27. The Fish and Game advised hunters to check regulations booklets for counties that are open.

SPECIAL ARCHERY and falconry pheasant hunting seasons will open statewide tomorrow, the Department of Fish and Game reminded archers and falconers today.

For the archery season, which will continue through Dec. 22, limits are two pheasants of either sex per day in the south. In the balance of the state, limits are two per day tomorrow and Sunday, four per day thereafter and four in possession. The bag may not contain more than one hen.

The special falconry season will run through Jan. 12, 1975. Limits are one pheasant of either sex per day, one in possession.

Hunting hours for both archers and falconers are 8 a.m. until sunset daily.

Again Mercedes-Benz quietly astonishes the engineering world. Announcing the new Mercedes-Benz 300D. The world's only 5-cylinder automobile.

Internal workings of the new 300D, the world's only 5-cylinder automobile.

Raising the eyebrows of the engineering world is not new to Mercedes-Benz. We did it when we invented the automobile in 1886. We did it when we introduced the world's first production Diesel passenger car in 1936. Now, with the introduction of a 5-cylinder automobile — the new 300D — we've done it again.

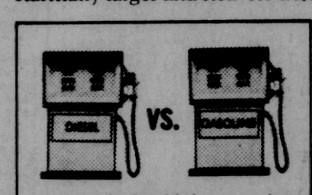

The 5-cylinder 300D clearly flies in the face of engineering convention. It establishes a whole new category of Diesel — a whole new category of automobile.

Why a 5-cylinder?

Mercedes-Benz wanted to make a performance Diesel. A new car that had much greater horsepower and torque, but did not sacrifice the economy and reliability of previous Mercedes-Benz Diesels.

Nearly four decades of Diesel experience told the Mercedes-Benz engineers that a major power increase would have to come from an entirely different engine. Not one with bigger cylinders — one with more cylinders.

If engineering convention were to be served, the next step up from our standard 4-cylinder Diesel should have been a 6-cylinder engine. But because of the unusual strength necessities particular to all Diesels, it follows that a 6-cylinder Diesel would have to be substantially larger and heavier than a 4-cylinder.

Countrywide, Diesel fuel averages about 3¢ less than gasoline. So the new 300D goes more miles on cheaper gallons.

Safety first. A rigid, steel safety cell encloses the entire passenger compartment.

The Mercedes-Benz solution was typically unconventional: A 5-cylinder Diesel engine.

The most advanced Diesel

Even for the Mercedes-Benz engineers, the 5-cylinder Diesel engine was quite a technical challenge. But clearly, their efforts were worthwhile. They made it work.

The new engine's size was set at 3 liters. Torque was raised nearly 20%. Horsepower was up a full 25% over any previous Mercedes-Benz Diesel. The result is the brilliant new 300D, the most advanced Diesel passenger automobile that the world has ever seen.

24 mpg in town, 31 on the highway

Increased performance does not mean decreased economy. According to the most recent Federal E.P.A. test report, the new 300D can get up to twenty-four miles in city driving, and up to thirty-one miles per gallon on the open highway. And since Diesel fuel is usually cheaper than gasoline, the 300D goes more miles on cheaper gallons.

Performance, economy, luxury

While the new 300D acts like an economy car, it doesn't look or feel like one. In every major appointment, the 300D is equal to the Mercedes-Benz 280 Sedan. It blends performance and economy in a luxury package.

A final thought. No manufacturer anywhere in the world has a greater safety involvement than Mercedes-Benz. Evidence of the decades of Mercedes-Benz safety engineering is everywhere in the 300 Diesel. Before the 300D, nobody had heard of a 5-cylinder Diesel car, much less seen one. So, it's only natural that the 300D should cause some very educated engineering heads to be scratched. But now you can examine one, sit in one, drive one. It's waiting for you. Arrange a test drive with your local Mercedes-Benz dealer.

Engineered like no other car in the world.

Stocks Drift Lower After Oil Price Hike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices drifted slightly lower today on the New York Stock Exnhange following the announcement of an oil price hike by the world's major oil producers.

Investors retreated to the sidelines to weigh the impact of the $10.46 price for a barrel of oil adopted by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) in Vienna. The single unitary market price is aimed at cutting what the OPEC claims are excess profits recorded by the multi-national companies. The oil producers reportedly deferred a higher mark-up on oil linking prices to Western inflation until later next year.

Ferris To Head United Airlines

CHICAGO (BW) — Richard J. Ferris will become president of United Arlines on Jan. 1, 1975, according to Edward E. Carlson, current president, who will advance to chairman of the board and continue as chief executive officer.

Chicago Exchange Options Offer Many Possibilities

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. Please explain CBOE options? G.C.

A. With the opening, 20 months ago, of the Chicago Board Options Exchange, the first orderly market for the trading of stock options was established. Volume on the CBOE has increased dramatically since May 1973 — the first full month of operation — when an average of 16,000 contracts were written daily. In October 1974, volume reached a daily record in excess of 60,000 contracts, representing over six million underlying shares. Although the exchange ultimately plans to increase the number of issues on which it trades call options and also anticipates trading "puts" at present the list is limited to calls on 32 NYSE-listed stocks.

In buying a call, the investor secures the right to purchase 100 shares of the underlying stock at a specified price (referred to as the exercise or striking price) within a stated time period. CBOE contracts, which are written up to nine months into the future, expire on the last business day of January, April, July and October.

The call buyer assumes that a stock will rise in price; meanwhile, for a small premium he has pinned-down the price he will pay — one to nine months out — for 100 shares. Obviously, the longer a call has to run to expiration date, the higher the premium that must be paid. This investment strategy has several advantages: the buyer knows in advance the extent of his potential loss (a fraction of that for the underlying security) or he may sell prior to expiration to curtail the loss, and, if the underlying shares rise above the striking price, he may exercise at an advantageous price or sell the at a gain.

Another alternative is to write an option contract either on shares already owned or in anticipation of covering should the need arise. The latter is known as an uncovered or naked option and is highly speculative. The option writer assumes that his shares will decline in value, making exercise impractical.

Homeowners Cautioned About Furnace Cleaning

Homeowners should beware of telephone solicitations offering furnace inspections because "our man is in your neighborhood" and house-to-house calls offering discount on furnace cleaning if done "right away."

This warning came from the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco, which noted that such tactics are used by some furnace service and sales companies in the Bay Area.

The BBB suggests the homeowner have regular furnace checks made by the company that installed the furnace or call Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for verification that work is needed.

In case of a serviceman on the street offering "discount" cleaning, the homeowner should call at least two other furnace companies to compare prices, says BBB.

Kaiser Hospital Addition Will Centralize Medical Services

Kaiser Permanente's $13 million hospital addition at 99 Monticello Road in Terra Linda will include a 92-bed inpatient building and an outpatient building with 55 doctors' offices, when completed in late 1975.

The five-story hospital will be equipped with surgical facilities so that Kaiser patients will not have to go out of county for most operations.

The outpatient facility, also five stories, will open with 55 doctor's suites, with an uncompleted floor for an additional 18 offices.

Thomas DeMartino, hospital administrator, said he plans to have Kaiser's scattered outpatient facilities such as the medical offices on the Miracle Mile in San Rafael relocated to Terra Linda when the new buildings are ready. Obstetrics and other services now at the 18 Professional Center Parkway building will also move to the new central facility. However, Kaiser will probably retain the Professional Parkway building for other uses.

Kaiser has been operating its hospital on Monticello Road in Terra Linda since 1966. It now has medical offices, acute inpatient facilities and 69 licensed beds.

MAHONEY CONTRACTING'S NEW BUILDING

This $300,000 structure at Bel Marin Industrial Park will be the home of Mahoney Contracting Co., now located in Corte Madera. The two-story office building with 16,000 square feet of space is going up at 7 Commercial Boulevard, off Bel Marin Keys Boulevard. To the left of this building will be the new Bank of Marin Administrative Center. Mike Mahoney of Mahoney Contracting said he hopes to move in next March.

Levi Plans Expansion In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — While many firms are reporting production cutbacks, Levi Strauss and Co., maker of the world's most famous denim clothing, plans to expand its Memphis operations, Memphis manager Norval Collins said yesterday.

Levi has leased a building twice as large as the one it now occupies, and within 15 months expects to double Memphis employment to 400, Collins said.

Levi's current Memphis operation occupies a 22,000-square-foot building and employs 200 persons operating 215 sewing machines. The plant produces pants.

Collins said the new facility has 50,000 square feet of floor space, and plans are to employ 400 persons, utilizing 370 sewing machines, by 1975 or early 1976.

Levi's largest plant, in Knoxville, employs 2,500 workers.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Alternative Tax Method For Large Income, Capital Gains

Your capital gains may be taxed at more than 25 per cent, but to do this you would have to have capital gains in excess of $50,000 and also you would have to have a taxable income in excess of $32,000 for a single person and $38,000 for a Head of Household and $44,000 for a married couple.

The reason is that only 50 per cent of your capital gains is taxed and unless your rate on all of your income exceeds 50 per cent then the tax on your capital gain would not exceed 25 per cent of the amount of the gain.

Hence, if you have a large income and capital gains, you would use the alternative tax method to arrive at the tax on your capital gains of 25 per cent of the total amount of the gain, up to the first $50,000 of gain. After that, the maximum tax would be 35 per cent on the excess.

Also, income averaging now applies to capital gains and this could materially effect your tax on a large capital gain.

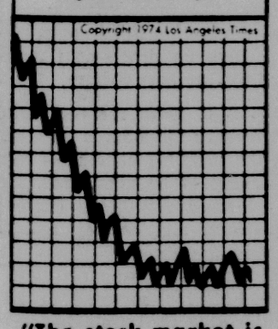

If you have a large income, half of the long term capital gains is a tax preference item and might be subject to the new minimum tax.

If you have a capital loss and there is a possibility of more capital losses and you cannot use it all in 1974, don't worry about it. You can carry it over indefinitely.

A carried over loss retains its character; that is, it remains a long term or a short term loss, unless they are 1959 through 1963 losses, in which case they are short term capital losses until exhausted.

Also, the amount of the capital loss applied to other income is always construed to be first from short term losses and then from long term losses.

Riles Returns To Advocacy Of Accountability

Independent-Journal

50 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

When Wilson C. Riles first ran for state superintendent of public instruction in 1970, he stressed the importance of accountability.

Educators, he said, talked too much about input — how many dollars spent, how many new programs started, etc. But they paid too little attention to output — the results in terms of education of the students.

This, contended Riles, was wrong. Schools should be judged by results.

After Riles's election, he talked less and less about accountability. When he ran this year for re-election, he hardly mentioned it.

BUT LAST SUNDAY, in an address to a joint meeting of the California School Boards Association and Association of California School Administrators, the state superintendent returned to his former theme.

California's public schools, he said, will need more than $1 billion in new money over the next five years. But they won't get it, he warned, unless they can prove they are providing better education. He put it strongly:

"Our request must be tied to the assurance — no, that is not strong enough — to a guarantee that the effectiveness of our educational programs will be vastly improved."

SUPERINTENDENT Riles's forecast that an additional billion dollars for the public school system will be needed in the next five years is based on an assumption that is widely shared by California educators and legislators.

That assumption is that the Serrano decision of Los Angeles Superior Court will be upheld.

That court held (atfter first throwing out the Serrano case and then being ordered by the state Supreme Court to hear it) that it is unconstitutional to finance our schools by a system that gives some districts more money than others to spend on each child's schooling. The basic contention is that equal spending means equal education.

However, subsequent to the Serrano case, an almost identical case, known as Rodriguez, reached the United States Supreme Court from Texas. And the U.S. Supreme Court held that there is nothing unconstitutional about this method of financing schools, and no evidence that equal spending means equal education.

Nevertheless, Riles and many others continue to talk about "meeting the Serrano requirements." That's where he gets that billion dollar need.

THE PLAIN FACT is that — with or without "Serrano" — the schools are going to be seeking more money. They always are. And equally plain is the fact that the people who pay the bills want to see results.

So, though a fear that may be unfounded has led the state superintendent back to advocacy of school accountability, we are pleased to see that he again recognizes accountability's importance.

He and all others in the education system should continue to recognize it —not just to get more money, but because it is unfair to the pupils they are called upon to educate to do otherwise.

"They shoot cattle, don't they?"

Government Should Get Out Of Behavior-Control Projects

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor)

It is bad enough for anybody to be experimenting with the control of human behavior through drugs, surgery, and electrical implants in the brain. But when the United States government finanes such experiments, as freshly publicized by a Senate subcommittee, the nation's cause for concern about individual rights is gravely heightened.

The warnings about government-financed "behavior modification" were accompanied by a measure of new hope for protecting the rights of those subjectd to it, including prisoners, mental patients, and children.

BUT THE HOPE depends on Congress following through on the work of the new National Commission for the Protection of Human Subjects of Biomedical and Behavioral Research, which has just had its first meeting. The commission, drawing on experts outside the government, was congressionally authorized this year for a two-year term, to be followed by a permanent committee charged with a similar protective role.

Further legislation is unlikely until the commission makes its recommendations. These must be expedited in view of the numbers of persons already having their thoughts, bodies, and emotions tampered with. It is no wonder that a constitutional expert like Senator Ervin sounds a warning about individual rights in relation to behavior modification.

"There is a real question whether the government should be involved at all in programs that potentially pose substantial threats to our basic freedoms," said Senator Ervin in prefacing the recent report from his subcommittee on constitutional rights. . .

NOT ONLY ETHICAL and constitutional questions have to be answered but questions about the scientific validity of some programs and the fiscal responsibility in supporting them. It appears that concern over controlling violence in the '60's played a part in opening various government agencies to behavior-modification proposals adding up to more than anyone realized.

The report says that the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare is the biggest spender on behavior control research, but various other federal departments and agencies are also involved — "without a review sturcture fully adequate to protect the constitutional rights of the subjects."

This "absence of strict control" makes the question of government participation "even more acute," said Mr. Ervin.

. . . It is instructive that one dubious behavior-modification project volunteered to give up government funding when questions began being asked about its methods. Ideally, the government should get out of the business of supporting any such reported projects as administering powerful emetic drugs to alter prisoner conduct.

It is idle to suppose that research into artificial control of thought and behavior will suddenly end. But the goal must remain behavior dictated not by drugs, psychosurgery, or shocks but by the individual's highest concept of human capacity and responsibility fostered by family, education, and religion. And any behavior-modifying experiments should at least be subject to a review mechanism insuring genuine "informed consent" by the participants and full protection of their human and constitutional rights.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND:

United Nations Tearing Itself Apart

WASHINGTON — From its very outset there were some who argued that the United Nations would prove to be either a helpless or a dangerous institution.

This was a minority view advanced mostly by extreme isolationists in the United States. As one who watched the charter being drafted line upon line at San Francisco, I never shared it.

But what a travesty that the United Nations itself in a whole series of actions in recent weeks should begin to prove that they could be right!

THE UNITED NATIONS is now showing itself helpless. It is showing itself dangerous in these says:

The General Assembly voted to expel the Union of South Africa from membership contrary to the charter and on grounds it does not apply to other nations. The Security Council vetoed this action.

Unrepentant, the General Assembly successfully forced the suspension of South Africa from further participation in the present session.

It voted head-of-state honors to the Palestine Liberation Organization, whose terrorist tactics it had noted with horror just a year ago.

The General Assembly produced a majority vote — but not the necessary two-thirds — to expel Cambodia's present U.N. representative and replace him with the Peking-based exile, the deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Over the protests of its director general, the 135-member United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization twice voted its vengeance on Israel. It excluded Israel from its regional groups and barred it from the modest UNESCO aid it receives.

AND NOW, ON TOP of it all, the General Assembly is pressing for a worldwide governmental censorship of satellite television which in a few years can carry news and ideas anywhere on the planet.

The same coalition of Communist, Arab and African states, which has been shredding the U.N. Charter to get its way, is ordering up a U.N. treaty for early next year to enable any country anywhere to impose a "prior censorship" on anything and everything it deems censorable.

If Czechoslovakia or Uganda, for example, chooses to say "no" under the proposed treaty to a Shakespearean play or a controversial U.N. debate, that would black the program out to most of Eastern Europe and much of Central Africa.

Nobody need be fooled by any of this. It is perfectly obvious that these nations want to put the cloak of U.N. moral authority around the worst kind of political censorship.

Internal censorship is bad enough, but should one nationa be given the right to censor what the people of neighboring nations can hear and see?

All of the actions cited above are pernicious, dangerous and harmful. No one of them will destroy the United Nations. But if they keep up, they will tear the United Nations apart and risk the financial support without which it cannot function.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON:

Democratic 'Unity' Imperiled By Wallace

WASHINGTON — Among Democrats there are an optimistic and a pessimistic version of where they go from Kansas City.

The fact that most delegates to the miniconvention supported Bob Strauss' effort to keep the party in one hall is substantive; it means most of them have learned that attempted suicide is bad for the health, and that winning elections is more important than winning undialectical debates.

But there is doubt that this appearance of unity would have been possible had the delegates been arguing candidates instead of procedures. From here on in, that will be the case and, inevitably, as the exchange gets increasingly personal it will get nastier.

Almost inevitably.

THE OPTIMIST I rode home with thinks the problem of Gov. George Wallace can be handled without crippling schism in the party. The pessimist doubts it. Both agree that, realistically, Wallace's presence has far more damaging potential than the vestiges of the 1968-72 split between the party's center and left.

There is a strong likelihood that Wallace will arrive at the 1976 Democratic convention with more committed delegates than any other candidate. Under the party's proportional representation rule, presidential candidates in state primaries will take a fraction of the state's delegation based on the fraction they win at the polls.

Wallace has only to get his name on the primary ballot to win a sizable percentage in almost any state. That may run from a majority in some southern states to a bedrock of only 10 per cent to 20 per cent in the most liberal states. His percentages will add up to an imposing delegate bloc — probably enough to start him ahead of the middle and left candidates who are dividing the rest of the spectrum too many ways.

THE ASSUMPTION among those who know him well is that Wallace seriously hopes to have a place on the ticket. The certainty among most Democrats is that he should not and cannot be nominated by a national convention. The hard part comes when he arrives at the convention with his delegates and his ambition. How is he to be headed off, or bought off?

My optimist friend maintains that Wallace's appeal is not so great as it was two years ago, and that the several southern aspirants to the ticket could and even might agree on one of themselves to stand up against Wallace in the southern primaries.

Your pessimist insists that even if Wallace were confronted effectively by one man in the South, there would still be the rest of the country to worry about, and there is no chance at all that the candidates nationwide are going to make a deal to let any one of them take the lead.

SO WALLACE arrives well ahead. The optimist says maybe then the other candidates get together and parcel out among themselves the positions in a proposed "coalition" government — maybe Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine for president, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota as No. 2, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington for Defense, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota for State, and so on. Then with everyone made happy, they join to trounce Wallace.

I have heard more fanciful dreams, but not since I gave up drop-seat flannel pajamas and the Brothers Grimm.

Right now, it is more reasonable to expect that Wallace will start in the lead, and one of the middling candidates will seek his backing to be nominated. Its price will be some outrageous concessions on platform and cabinet, and if those are made, the blacks, Chicanos and liberals will take the third-party route, and Gerald Ford or someone of his choosing will lead us for yet another four years.

Happy holidays!

Existing Laws Held Unfair To Mobile Home Owners

By EARL G. WATERS

Is the present statutory treatment of mobile homes fair to mobile home owners? That question, along with the controversy over the existing methods of taxation of mobile homes, lending practices, rights of mobile home purchasers versus conventional homes, and rights of mobile home tenants versus apartment dwellers, is covered in an article in the November Stanford Law Review.

Its author, James F. Vernon, concludes that current laws on these subjects are based on an outdated conception. "What is needed is legislative acceptance of a new conception of such homes based upon their function as permanent family dwellings," he writes. "This new approach corresponds more closely to the role mobile homes have assumed in the housing market and can result in more equitable treatment of mobile home owners."

VERNON'S APPROACH to the issue of mobile homes is refreshing. So far, most of the controversy has centered on whether mobile home owners are paying their fair share of taxes for the support of local government.

He gives that problem only brief treatment as incidental to the overall problems of inequity, pointing out that present taxation of such homes stems from the house trailers, capable of being towed behind the family car. Because they were regularly on the highways for vacations or use by transient workers, they came under vehicle regulations and were taxed as such. They are still subject to vehicle registration, in-lieu fees and sales tax in the manner of vehicles.

Without getting into the debate as to whether the mobile home owner pays his fair share of local taxes, Vernon says, "Horizontal equity can best be achieved through taxing homes as conventional dwellings." Since mobile homes are rarely on the highways, license fees should be eliminated and such movements be required to pay only the special fee as in the case of all other non-vehicle highway moves. "By eliminating the role of tax collector from Motor Vehicles, the need for registration disappears." He also contends the sales tax should apply to the builder for materials used rather than the sale to the owner.

Vernon is more concerned with the application of other laws to mobile homes because of the vehicle concept. Unlike other homes, the mobile home is subject to the financing charges and repossession standard in auto purchases. Such home dwellers do not have the protection afforded conventional home owners from mortgage foreclosures. The mobile home can be simply moved away without notice to the owner under a repossession.

HE ALSO CITES the considerably difference between apartment tenants and mboile park tenants. Among these are the lack of responsibility on the part of the park owner for habitability of the home, and the ability to evict. In the case of the mobile homeowner, much of his equity, if not all, can be destroyed by the options of the park owner to evict and even to approve the sale when the new owner proposes to continue as a tenant. Aside from the laws governing apartment dweller evictions, the mobile homeowner is confronted with the considerably expense of moving his home upon eviction, whereas the apartment tenant usually has little expense in moving. "The tenant's equity in his home may therefore be threatened by a termination based largely upon violation of minor rules."

But, as Vernon suggests, "Recognition of mobile homes as permanent family dwellings would call for extensive changes in their statutory treatment" in all areas, including the question of taxation.

Write Humane Society In Hope Of Results

Re: the "Soggy Dog," written by the O'Briens in the Dec. 10 I-J "What Our Readers Say":

It was a true, pathetic story — the recurring failure of our "Great Marin County" Humane Society.

If everyone who has had some unfortunate experience with them would write Mr. John Gill, the head man, maybe, just maybe, we would get some benefiting results, naming one, a night attendant who will be there to take in some poor, scared animal and give it warmth, food and reassurance.

Many people, rich and poor, tell me, "I won't give to that Humane Society one time; it's horrible."

If they, the MCHS, changed their face and showed the public they are humane, maybe we'd all, including the animals, get some place.

Urges That Will Include Bequest Of Tissues

I would like to address your readers and sell them on an idea that fills a great need. There is a tremendous shortage of organs and tissue for medical transplantation and research. Under the Anatomical Gift Act, the prospective donor of legal age can execute a Will, specifying any or all organs/tissues for transplantation and research. Quoting from my own will, it reads: ". . . I donate any needed organs or parts of my body to the Bay Area Human Tissue Bank of 751 South Bascom Avenue, San Jose, California, for the purpose of transplantation, therapy, medical research, or education."

The donation of tissues and organs for the benefit of others is a vital human contribution. In fact, it can well be called the gift of life . . .

Think about what you can do and then decide. Your decision could save someone's life (in the future).

Leave It To Youth To Save The Economy

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're one of those mature adults who fear the younger generation is going to the bowwows, a recent survey by the Rand Youth Poll will ease your mind.

The survey found that 72 per cent of today's teen-agers believe high spending is better for the economy than saving because it contributes to greater consumption.

WE ALREADY KNEW, of course, that the vast majority of teenagers favored high spending. But many parents — I was guilty of this myself — assumed that view was rooted in hedonism.

I figured, quite frankly, that my teen-agers were spending the money for their own pleasure. To learn they actually are doing it to help the economy puts their request for funds in an entirely different perspective.

Although my son just turned 13, he fully recognizes the gravity of the current economic situation and is pitching in to help set it aright.

"THEY GOT BEAN BAG chairs on special this week for only $24.95," he informed me the other evening. "Can I get one?"

"Your allowance already is running a deficit owing to the purchase of Bachman Turner Overdrive tapes," I noted. "I think you can get along without a bean bag chair."

"Sure, I can get along without it. But can the economy? I heard on TV that unemployment jumped last month to 6.5 per cent, the highest since 1961."

I said, "As I understand it, the increase in the jobless figure stemmed mainly from layoffs in the auto industry. I have seen no reports of widespread unemployment in the bean bag industry."

MY SON ROLLED his eyes heavenward, as though pleading for God to strike the cobwebs from my brain.

"But bean bag dealers drive cars, you know," he pointed out. "Put the money in their hands and they'll see to it that it gets to the right places."

I said, "I know you are eager to do your part to overcome the nation's economic distress and I am proud of you for it, but it appears you are going about it the wrong way.

"President Ford has been urging us to help achieve economic stability through conservation and cutting back on spending."

"That's the sort of negative psychology that leads to unemployment and hard times," my son muttered darkly. "We teenagers are convinced the only way to head off a recession is buying bean bag chairs."

I deferred the outlay on grounds the economic situation wasn't that bad yet. But it's good to know we can count on tte youth of America if worse comes to worst.

Investors Keep Eye On Canadian Visitor

By JOHN K. COOLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BEIRUT, Lebanan — Mideast investors and governments are carefully watching Iranian Prime Minister Amir Abbas Hoveida's five-day visit to Canada this week.

They are eager to learn whether Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Canadian government proves to be more receptive to investment of Mideast oil funds in sensitive strategic industries than the United States.

Hoveida began his visit in talks with Prime Minister Trudeau in Ottawa Monday. He had indicated he wanted to discuss the link between high oil prices and world inflation, and the recycling of petrodollars.

Canadian sources say Iran earlier expressed interest in investing in Canadian paper industries.

During visits to Iran earlier this year by the Canadian industry and trade ministers, Canada offered to sell Iran two heavy-water-type nuclear power plants as part of Iran's expanding nuclear program, involving 20 plants in all.

Iranian quarters have also shown some interest in the projected new enriched-uranium plant in Quebec Bay territory. However, India's recent successful nuclear explosion, achieved after years of Canadian support to India's "peaceful" nuclear program, has led to new caution in Canada about sharing nuclear knowhow.

Iran already enjoys a large margin of advantage in the Canadian trade balance.

In 1973 Canada imported $131 million worth of Iranian products, mainly oil, and exported only $53.6 million, mainly steel, aluminum, copper and synthetic rubber. During the first eight months of this year Canadian imports rose to about $450 million, mainly due to increased Canadian need for Iranian oil and higher oil prices.

The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in the United States has just rejected an investment offer of $100 million on behalf of the First Arabian Corp. in Beirut, headed by Roger Tamraz. Lockheed said the rejection was due to its desire not to distrub a prospective merger with another American firm, the Textron Corp.!

Tamraz told newsmen here that Lockheed may have been advised by the U.S. government not to go ahead with the deal. Lockheed denies receiving any U.S. pressure.

Iran earlier this year offered the Grumman Corp. a loan of $75 million to help develop the F-14 Tomcat fighter aircraft which Iran has ordered for its air force. The U.S. Defense Department's approval had to be requested because of Grumman's U.S. defense contracts.

Mideast investors have been experiencing less difficulty in Western Europe. Kuwait has purchased an estimated 15 per cent share, worth about $450 million, in West Germany's Daimler-Benz Corp., which makes Mercedes cars. Kuwait Oil Minister Abdel Rahman al-Attqi confirmed news of the deal recently.

Iran has already purchased 21.5 per cent in West Germany's Krupp steel works. Beirut financial circles are buzzing with gossip of possible new Mideast investment in West Germany and of talks between Mideast investors and large U.S. automobile firms for possible petrodollar investments in those crisis-ridden industries.

Clean Water Standards Study Begun

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A federal study began yesterday to measure whether the San Francisco Bay and Central Valley areas will have the technical and economic ability to meet tough, mandatory clean water standards.

William R. Gianelli, a member of the National Commission on Water Quality conducting the $275,000 study, said the results will eventually be used to help Congress modify the Water Pollution Control Act of 1972.

However, Gianelli told reporters he did not believe the study would be used to relax the federal requirements that call for waste water treatment standards to be reached by 1977 and that the nation's navigable waters be free of discharge pollution by 1985.

Gianelli, a former director of the state Department of Water Resources, said the study will be one of 10 investigations carried out by the commission around the country.

The study will examine the technical capabilities in the San Francisco Bay and Central Valley areas to meet the clean water requirements. It will also try to measure the cost to the public and private sectors and whether revenues will be available.

Petition Seeks Phone Listing For Her, Too

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — You won't find Karen Kent's name in the Montpelier phone book, and she isn't very happy about it.

You will find her husband's name, but the New England Telephone Co. insisted the only way she could be listed would be to purchase a separate listing at $9 a year.

She and a group of other women have petitioned the Vermont Public Service Board to order the company to change its policy and list the names of both husband and wife on request.

Businessmen Said Holding Withholding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said yesterday some businesses are delaying sending in withheld Social Security taxes and happily paying the 6 per cent penalty — far less than the interest on money borrowed from banks.

Figures provided by the Treasury show that $803 million in trust fund payments were delinquent last year, Proxmire said in a prepared Senate speech.

"The choice for an unscrupulous businessman is an easy one," Proxmire said. "He can either go into the capital market to borrow money and pay 10 per cent for the privilege. Or he can use Social Security taxes that he should have turned over to the federal government and pay a mere 6 per cent penalty."

Proxmire said a bill before the House raises the penalty to 9 per cent but he called for even higher penalties.

Treasury figures showed that taxes written off by the government in 1973 as "uncollectible" rose by 9 per cent to $549.9 million, the highest level in history, Proxmire said.

The government considers taxes uncollectible when it can't locate the taxpayer, when the taxpayer has no assets or, in some cases, when collection would cause the taxpayer or his family severe hardship.

Delinquencies of all sorts — not just Social Security and trust fund payments but other taxes, too — reached $2.15 billion in 1973, up 21.4 per cent from the previous year, Proxmire said.

When taxes which are delinquent and those which are declared uncollectible and written off are added together, he said, the total is 19 per cent over the 1972 figures.

"Could there be clearer evidence that the Treasury Department is not doing its job?" he asked.
